DEATH TOLL REACHES 125 AS GRID STAR DIES

Several Inquiries Are Held in Effort to Determine Exact Fire Cause.

TODAY IS PROCLAIMED AS TIME OF MOURNING

Plumber Tells Experiences in Futile Attempt to Halt Spread of Flames.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 17 (A.P.).—More than 100 surviving victims of the Cleveland Clinic disaster were waiting tonight for an unknown fate. For many of them, doctors feared, death loomed close at hand.

The disaster death toll stood at 125, but the element of what physicians called "delayed reaction" darkly menaced the other victims who still were living.

A few medical men said they believed the critical stage of the poisoning had passed, but the majority held that the lives of remaining victims will hang in delicate balance for three or four days longer.

Football Player Dies.

A typical example of "delayed reaction" was given today when Ben Jones, a former professional football player, died at his home in Grove City, Pa. Jones told friends after he was removed from the clinic following the explosion that he felt no ill effects from the experience.

He drove 150 miles from Cleveland to Grove City and again said he felt "fine." A few hours later he collapsed and died.

One of the plainest statements of the possible delayed deaths from the poison gas was made by Harry L. Rockwood, city health commissioner.

The insidious part about the two gasses that many breathed in the disaster, Rockwood said, "is that their fatal action is often delayed four to five hours and sometimes five to six days. Even then if they don't kill, the lungs of victims are so weakened they fall victims to pneumonia."

Several Quizzes in Progress.

While hospital attendants administered oxygen and did every other thing within their power to prevent additional deaths among the stricken, several investigations of the disaster were in progress.

A. J. Pearse, county coroner, Cornelius J. Cody, chief of detectives, and two assistant county prosecutors conducted one of the inquests.

They heard Buffery Boggs, a steamfitter, and Sam Steele, a dishwasher, recount their experiences in the basement of the clinic when the fire started.

Boggs gave the first warning, but Steele did not heed it. Finally the dishwasher began to cough, and the two of them grabbed a fire extinguisher and played it on the files of X-ray rooms. Instead of extinguishing the blaze, it seemed to make it worse.

Smoke Thickened in Room.

Besides the smoke grew more dense and seemed to change. Then they fled through a window. On the strength of this testimony chemists will be asked to ascertain if a peculiar chemical reac-

HOOVER WINS FIGHT IN LENROOT BEHALF

Former Senator's Appointment to Bench Confirmed After Long Battle.

OPPOSED AS POWER MAN

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

President Hoover yesterday won his first fight of the present session when the Senate confirmed former Senator Irvine L. Lenroot as judge of the Court of Customs and Patent Appeals. The vote was 42 to 27.

It is a life-time job but one which the former senator for a while thought he would not get. He was first nominated by President Coolidge, but the Senate did not act and his name was resubmitted by President Hoover.

Seldom if ever has a former senator been so strongly opposed. The anti-power trust crusaders led the fight and although the administration forces knew they had enough votes even before Lenroot's name was resubmitted the test did not come until after more than ten hours of debate, seven of which took place yesterday. Ordinarily, the Senate acts quickly on its former members.

Much of the fight of the opposition centered in efforts to have the case aired in the open. A motion to this end was lost, 38 to 34. A subsequent motion to make the roll call public received a vote of 38 to 36, but Vice President Curtis ruled that a two-thirds majority was necessary. He was sustained, 47 to 33, on an appeal to overrule him, the first time since he assumed office that his decisions have been challenged.

Senator Norris, of Nebraska, led the fight on Lenroot because of his attitude during the earlier oil hearings and also because of his representing the power interests before the Inter-

CAPONE JAILED; SEEN AS HIDING FROM HIS FOES

PHILADELPHIA POLICE ALSO GET BODYGUARD

Racketeer Fears Enemies and Is Glad to Be Safe, Chicago Believes.

DEFIANCE OF GUNMAN IS SHOWN BY JUDGE

Director of Public Safety, in Interview, Finds Al Eager to Forget Crime.

Philadelphia, May 17 (A.P.).—"Scarface Al" Capone, nationally known Chicago gangster and racketeer leader, is serving a jail term for the first time in his life.

After pleading guilty to toting a gun, Al and his bodyguard, Frank Cline, also a Chicago gangster, were sentenced today to a year in Moyamensing Prison. The conviction was one of the swiftest ever to follow an arrest here.

Within seventeen hours of their arrest the two had been booked and assigned cells in the prison.

Before the gunmen were sent to the county prison, Director Lemuel Schofield, of the department of public safety, declared the arrest and sentence of Capone were notice to the gang world that racketeers could not "breathe the free air of Philadelphia" if the police could help it.

Never Served Sentence.

Early in the day when he was "stood up" in front of the detective squad of Philadelphia, "Scarface Al" was asked whether he had ever done time, he proudly replied "Not a minute."

When Judge John E. Walsh, of the criminal division of the Municipal Court, promptly announced "one year" after Al and his pal pleaded guilty to the charge of carrying a concealed deadly weapon, Capone did not show the same pride. His dark face turned red.

Before he was indicted, Capone had an apparent heart-to-heart talk with Director Schofield in which the Chicago racketeer told of a conference in Atlantic City attended by other gang leaders during which a peace pact was drawn up and signed.

Feared for His Life.

According to a statement given out by the director, Capone told him that he feared for his life and that for two years he had been trying to get out of the racket.

"I had one of the most interesting talks on the racket in the United States with Capone," the director said. "Capone was in a reminiscent mood and seemed to be at the point where he was anxious to be at peace not only with gangsters but with the more serious elements of life. In a quiet, gentlemanly manner, he told me that he was on an errand of peace when the Philadelphia police put him in a cell.

"His manner was a great contrast to the snarls of Cline, Capone's bodyguard, who, when asked if he would make a statement, snapped out, 'Get me a mouthpiece and I'll talk.'

"Capone, as if resigned to his fate, waved his hand to his bodyguard and said, 'Listen, boy, you are my friend, and have been a faithful guard, but I'll do the talking. We're in a bad jam here, and the only way out is to tell the truth and in return expect to be treated as leniently as possible under the law.'

Assured Him Square Deal.

"I nodded my head and assured Capone that he would get a square deal, and without further questioning the king of racketeers told me that it was at his suggestion that the leaders of

DRIVER EXONERATED IN DRY MAN'S DEATH

Coroner's Jury Frees Martin, Suspected in Fatal Crash During Rum Chase.

NOW FACING NEW CHARGE

A coroner's jury at Mount Rainier last night exonerated Edward Martin, colored, of responsibility in the death of Prohibition Agent Daho M. Jackley May 14. Martin was charged with manslaughter following the death of Jackley, who was killed when the auto in which he was chasing an alleged rum runner skidded from the Baltimore-Washington boulevard at Berwyn and crashed into a telegraph pole.

The coroner's jury deliberated from 8:45 until 10:05 o'clock and returned a verdict of death from an unavoidable accident as the result of a collision with a Ford car operated by an unidentified driver. Immediately after his release by Justice of the Peace Robert E. Joyce, Martin was rearrested by United States Marshal Ernest Ackerman and taken to Baltimore to answer charges of assault and interfering with an officer sworn to before United States Commissioner Supplee, in Baltimore, by Deputy Prohibition Administrator Ford.

Agents who accompanied Jackley on the fatal ride were unable to identify Martin as the driver of the Ford which they were chasing.

Earth Slip Warns Californians to Flee

Several Acres at Pt. Firmin Move Foot Toward Sea in 24 Hours.

San Pedro, Calif., May 17 (A.P.).—A mysterious slippage of earth in the vicinity of Point Firmin Park near here today caused the board of public works to warn all residents to evacuate their homes before a threatened landslide occurs.

Geologists declared the land, several acres in area, had moved a foot toward the sea in the last 24 hours. Settling of the point has cracked streets and damaged houses, reports said.

The homes of 15 or 20 families were in danger, but an immediate landslide was not feared. Geologists expect one eventually.

Point Firmin Park is a section of land bordering the ocean southwest of here.

The movement was believed to be a natural action caused by underlying shale formations which contain dissolvable gypsum.

FORCED TO LET SHIP DRIFT, SAYS ECKENER

AID OF FRENCH PRAISED

Cuers, France, (Saturday) May 18 (A.P.).—Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, in the early morning hours today told to eager listeners the epic of his long fight against high winds with his crippled ship.

The first accident to the engines occurred when he was over Spain. The crankshaft of one of the motors broke. Subsequently three other crankshafts gave way under the added strain.

Being reduced to one engine, Dr. Eckner said he resolved to make the rest of the way home at slow speed and accordingly headed for the mouth of the Rhone. He made his way up the valley of the Rhone but the violence of the wind was such that he was obliged to let the ship drift until a calm zone was reached. He only found such a zone after passing Marignane. He then headed for Cuers.

"Never have I had such a difficult trip," said the commander with a sigh of relief. He pleaded the lateness of the hour and his great fatigue for not going into details of the cause of his return. However, he could not say enough about the landing.

"I am most satisfied with the landing, which was impeccable from all points of view. The orders I gave in German were immediately translated on the ground and were carried out with really marvellous precision.

"You know the landing of a Zeppelin is always an extremely delicate operation. I have just learned that the people who came to our help had no previous experience. I am most enthusiastic at the fashion in which the operation was carried out. It was a splendid testimony to the professional ability of their commander, to whom I wish to pay my tribute. I also would like to say how deeply grateful I am to the French navy for the help given me."

The reserve of the commander was not shared by every one. One of the mechanics said "when the first engine gave way over Spain orders were given

PASSENGERS BADLY SHAKEN UP; SHIP DESCENDS AT SEA'S EDGE

French Troops at Cuers Field Man Ropes After Crippled Dirigible, Only One Motor in Operation, Makes Final Dash for Place of Refuge.

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Saturday, May 18 (A.P.).—The theory of sabotage behind the crippling of the motors of the Graf Zeppelin was raised today by Director Oesterle, of the Dornier Airplane Works.

"Why should the same thing happen to two crankshafts?" he asked. "I have been with the motors for years and can't conceive of such duplicate tragedies. No, there has been dirty work somewhere."

Others Share Sabotage View.

This opinion was shared, in part at least, by others at the home port of the Zeppelin, and there was great curiosity over what examination of the motors might reveal.

Constructor Ludwig Duerr left late tonight for France with motors to replace those damaged on the Graf Zeppelin. Earlier he had said that both he and the Maybach motor experts were mystified as to the cause of the accident. He did not believe it was due to overstrain. "When machines have successfully negotiated 10,000,000 revolutions we generally assume that the element of fatigue has been eliminated. Naturally, we will not simply replace the defective part with a new part, but will examine carefully whether the trouble is of a constructional nature or arises from defective material."

He said that it probably would be several days before study of the engines was completed.

Passenger Denies Any Breakage.

Cuers, France, Saturday, May 18 (A.P.).—A passenger on the Graf Zeppelin early today told French authorities that the engines of the airship needed only tuning up to be able to resume the flight to America. "They suffered no actual breakage," the passenger was quoted as saying.

Toulon, France, May 17 (U.P.).—The great dirigible Graf Zeppelin fought its ways out of a storm sky tonight and landed safely at the French naval dirigible station here, crippled and battered, but saved from disaster by the skill of its commander, Dr. Hugo Eckener.

The silvery dirigible was landed with the aid of French troops at 8:35 p. m., after an all-day battle with violent winds which had tossed the straining ship up and down the Rhone River Valley with relentless fury.

Disaster to Airship Is Just Averted.

Escaping disaster time and again under the strong hand of Dr. Eckener, the Graf Zeppelin today was saved from being blown over the Mediterranean only at virtually the last moment. Had its two remaining moters failed in the struggle to bring the drifting ship over Toulon it would have been swept on out to sea.

The dirigible, with 18 passengers and a crew of 41 men, was landed in comparative calm and without incident, although the ground crew, which grabbed the ropes dropped from the Graf Zeppelin, was inexperienced. The government, which had made every effort to aid the distressed craft as it was tossed in the wind throughout the day, had rushed troops to Cuers to aid volunteers in landing the ship.

There was dramatic and almost absolute silence as the Graf Zeppelin was landed. The strained faces of passengers at the main gondola windows and the grim-set but tired face of Dr. Eckener told of the great and victorious battle which had been fought in the clouds over France.

Passengers Are Removed With Ladders.

Only the deep-voiced orders which the veteran commander shouted to the volunteer ground crew broke the silence of the landing.

The mighty dirigible, which had started on its second transatlantic flight to Lakehurst, N. J., and ended with a most narrow escape from disaster, was dragged halfway inside the hangar, where it was halted while the passengers and crew were removed on ladders. Mrs. Mary Pierce, of New York, was the only woman among the passengers, who were granted immunity from the usual passport and customs routine.

The Zeppelin company at Friedrichshafen, Germany, which city the dirigible had been attempting to reach after abandoning the projected flight to America, asked the French government for permission to rush five new motors to Toulon by automobile immediately after they learned of the safe landing.

The request was granted and the broken motors which forced the Graf Zeppelin to turn back shortly before it reached Gibraltar will be replaced at Cuers.

The Zeppelin company wired the French air ministry:

"Thanks for your kindness and your

Alleged Newspaperman Sent to Occoquan as Ruse Is Discovered.

Frustration of an apparent scheme by a young man, suspected of being a newspaper reporter, to have himself lodged in the District Jail and obtain an exclusive interview with Harry F. Sinclair, the jail's famed million-dollar inmate, was revealed last night.

The young man succeeded in "crashing" the prison, but his manner and questions convinced officials that he was a reporter incognito, Maj. William L. Peak, superintendent of the jail, stated.

A few days ago the young man was arrested on a charge of intoxication. After a night in a police station cell he was taken to Police Court and sentenced to pay a fine of $10 or serve ten days in jail. He decided to go to jail.

Upon arrival at the jail, Maj. Peak stated, the prisoner began questioning

Tiny Miss, 5, Borrows $35 Of Mother, to Go Shopping

But Police Halt Her Charge on Smart Salons and Keep Her Amused in Station House; She Admits Buying Hot Dog, "With Too Much Mustard."

A 30-pound bundle of 5-year-old "it," Helen Marie Gucker, stole the hearts of all the policemen who ventured into the Tenth Precinct Stationhouse yesterday afternoon.

For just about an hour, from 3:30 to 4:30 o'clock, when her father and mother called for her, the dimpled tot was complete mistress of the bluecoats and could have anything she wanted.

It all happened this way:

Shortly after 11 o'clock yesterday morning, Helenbie, as her folks call her, got tired of being cooped up in the apartment at 1440 Meridian place and decided to go shopping.

So, mind made up, she put on her coat and hat and got the new green pocketbook she received for a birthday present not long ago. She went to her mother's pocketbook and got about $35, and then, when her mother, Mrs. Robert C. Gucker, wasn't looking, Helen Marie started out.

It wasn't but a few minutes until her mother missed her and notified the police, but it was some time before the police found her, the mother and father conducting a search in the meanwhile.

Helen Marie had been just looking around the shops closest to her home. Things went well until she went to the Carlisle barber shop at Fourteenth street and Columbia road. It was there her mother has been wont to take her to get her hair bobbed, and it was one of the barbers who called the Tenth Precinct station.

wonderful services and aid during the hours of anxiety."

Troops and volunteers had gathered at the naval aerodrome—called the Cuers Aerodrome—some time before the Graf Zeppelin appeared.

Dr. Eckener first guided the dirigible over the field at a far corner, apparently planning to approach the mooring mast. The ropes were dropped and seized by those on the field, and they walked the big craft across to the hangar as Dr. Eckener leaned from the cabin and directed their movements.

The landing here was the fourth attempt made during the day to bring the big airship down to earth. Dr. Eckener had made two attempts to land at Montelimar when its position became most desperate, late in the afternoon. Both failed because of the fierce winds which had thrown the dirigible about for hours and continued to sweep across the field when it was lowered to the earth.

Another attempt to land at Istres, within eight miles of the sea coast, before the Graf Zeppelin reached Toulon, failed when the wind gained new fury and blew the ship further south.

Dr. Eckener, after the landing here, said none of the passengers or crew had been injured despite the severe buffeting throughout the day.

Ship "Always Under Control."

He said the Graf Zeppelin was "always under control," even when running before the storm with all her motors dead. Only one motor was really functioning when the ship landed, and it strained the metal work to a dangerous point when running alone, it was said.

The great drama of the Graf Zeppelin's battle against the winds was heightened by the tremendous efforts which France—official and unofficial—made to aid it throughout the long hours of suspense when the craft hovered only a few hundred feet from the ground, but far from safety. A decade ago, the appearance of a German dirigible over French territory was a signal for greatest alarm of war times, and, instead of carrying passengers and freight, the craft of war time were laden with deadly bombs.

The greatest Zeppelin disaster in the World War was early in 1917, when twelve dirigibles, starting out to bomb London, were repulsed by antiaircraft guns and caught in a gale. They were blown over France and four crashed in the Rhone Valley. All were lost—mainly because the French wireless stations succeeded in scrambling the Zeppelin's radio compasses.

Winds are Battled Gamely.

Battling gamely against head winds which raced down the Rhone Valley, the dirigible started a mighty battle which was to last all day and which more than once appeared to be turning against the "biggest thing that flies" and those aboard.

The gray-haired pilot—Eckener—was facing the greatest struggle of his long career, a struggle which was to call forth every bit of determination and of the great skill which he had built up on three transatlantic flights as commander of a dirigible and on many shorter tours.

Having asked by radio for permission to return over French territory, Dr. Eckener attempted to follow the same route he had taken on the outbound voyage. He cruised slowly off Cette in the Gulf of Lions until Foreign Minister Briand assured him of permission to cross France and then started up the Rhone Valley.

Immediately the difficulty started. A third motor on the giant dirigible—a rear one—began to miss fire and at Bellegarde, 10 miles southeast of Nimes, the dirigible was scarcely moving as it attempted to force its ways against the wind.

The whole countryside around Nimes watched with great fear as the dirigible stalled once at an altitude of nearly 1,000 feet.

Mrs. Pierce Disappointed.

The Graf Zeppelin's battle against fierce gales began under cloudy skies early this morning as it was making slow headway back to its home port at Friedrichshafen.

Having decided to turn back because of motor trouble when several hundred miles from Gibraltar on the projected transatlantic flight to Lakehurst, Dr. Eckener brought the dirigible back along the Spanish Mediterranean Coast and to the mouth of the Rhone River in France early in the morning.

Even at that time, with rain and storm clouds over the Rhone Valley, the dirigible was fighting stiff headwinds and making very slow progress. There was no alarm aboard, however, and the 18 passengers and crew of 41 men were unworried except for the disappointment of missing the flight to America.

Mrs. Pierce was the most disappointed passenger, according to a radio message to the United Press from Maurice Nathan, of New York, who was a passenger. Nathan said the dirigible was traveling slowly.

The dirigible had been in the air 12 hours and 40 minutes when the decision to turn back was reached. When it had retraced its route to the Rhone River, it had been aloft approximately 24 hours—having left Friedrichshafen at dawn Thursday—and had traveled in the neighborhood of 1,200 to 1,300 miles. The distance probably was increased somewhat by the circuitous route which Dr. Eckener followed.

Stalled in High Wind.

Already the danger of a forced landing without the assistance of a ground crew and under the most perilous conditions faced the dirigible's commander.

For twenty minutes the Graf Zeppelin was stalled over Bellegarde in the face of an increasing wind and finally was forced to move at an angle away from the valley at about 10 miles an hour. Dr. Eckener appeared, however, to be handling the craft in magnificent manner and managed to turn and fly over Nimes, heading slowly and with evident struggle for Valgnon shortly after 10 a. m.

Seesawing weakly in the wind, the dirigible made its way up the Rhone at an altitude of 300 feet, over Montelimar and on to Valence, which it reached at 3:05 p. m., moving at a snail's pace and in difficulty, although Dr. Eckener at that time informed the government he was in no need of immediate assistance. He was zigzagging the big craft to take advantage of the wind rather than buck it.

France Asked to Help.

Shortly after crawling wearily through the sky at Valence, the dirigible's commander took advantage of the French government's offer of any assistance possible and asked for advice as to landing fields—admitting he would be unable to continue. He asked the government to have troops in readiness.

The tempest was growing and the peril of the dirigible had become greater than ever. It was tossed about like a toy balloon; it was swung from side to side and turned completely around in the air—fighting back weakly, like a great, exhausted animal.

Again, however, the veteran commander decided to fight it out alone if possible and turned off his course to the right. But the weak motors of the dirigible were helpless against the wind, and the Graf Zeppelin, Leviathan of the air, was being pushed backward as fast as its motors pushed it forward.

At 3:40 p. m. Dr. Eckener asked French troops to stand by to give aid, although he did not intend to land unless absolutely necessary. The government ordered all available troops to aid him.

The Graf Zeppelin's motors were stopped about 4 p. m. and it was drifting in the direction of Saillans, 15 miles southeast of Valence. Helplessly tossed by the gale, the craft fortunately was being blown toward Toulon, where the French naval dirigible station on the Mediterranean coast was ready to receive it.

It passed over Saillans at 4:45 p. m., at which time the French air minister, Laurent Eynac, wirelessed Dr. Eckener a suggestion to turn and run with the wind for Toulon in an attempt to reach safety before darkness. The thrilling battle continued—now with the danger of darkness imminent—with Dr. Eckener attempting to ride out the wind and constantly dropping hastily written notes to the crowds which witnessed the struggle from the ground.

Many notes were blown away, but others were picked up and delivered to French officials, who kept as close as possible to the dirigible by racing their automobiles along the highways.

At 5:30 p. m. the situation was so desperate that Dr. Eckener said he would land as quickly as possible. He was over Grignan, 27 miles from Montelimar, again at 6:15 p. m., and dropped a note saying he was afraid he would not be able to land at Toulon because of the wind and his dead motors.

Crowd Tries to Grab Ropes.

The Graf Zeppelin then attempted to land at Montelimar, but without success because the fierce wind twice blew the bag away after Dr. Eckener, standing in the pilot's window, had dipped the ship so low that the crowds gathered below attempted to grip the ropes dropped from the main gondola.

Giving up the attempt the dirigible was permitted to drift on—helpless before the storm and with Toulon the last hope of safety before it was blown out to sea.

Over Carpentras and again at Istres as the big craft neared the seacoast, it was tossed and turned in the wind which raced over the valley with the threat of early darkness. Any minute the crowds expected to see the whirling craft break under the strain.

Another attempt to land at Istres Aerodrome, near Marseilles, was futile because of the wind and the dirigible drifted on southward with one motor operating in desperate battle against the gales blowing it out to sea. It was 7:10 p. m. and the last effort to reach Toulon and safety was started. A large detachment of soldiers had been rushed to Toulon to aid, the French government having given orders for full cooperation and having urged Dr. Eckener to "land anywhere any time to insure safety."

DIRIGIBLE'S TOSSING SICKENS PASSENGERS

SOME ABANDON JOURNEY

Toulon, France, May 17 (U.P.).—Happy but tremendously tired by their all-day battle against what at times seemed almost sure death, the 18 passengers of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin were safe here tonight as they sang the praise of Dr. Hugo Eckener and his crew.

Plainly showing the terrible strain of their experience, the passengers tottered or were carried down the ladder from the main gondola of the dirigible after it had been dragged to safety in the hangar at Cuers aerodrome.

Practically all of them had been "air sick," they said, due to the manner in which winds tossed the big dirigible about all day. They said the airship rode rougher than any steamship.

Several of the passengers and one or two members of the crew who had labored throughout the day to bring the dirigible to safety were barely able to stand after they had been removed from the ship.

The passengers also praised the French government and the people who were instrumental in saving the dirigible from being blown out across the Mediterranean, with only one motor working and that one exerting a serious strain on the dirigible's structure because it was operated alone.

The passengers were given coffee at the aerodrome and then sent to the various nearby hotels. Several said they would remain until it was determined whether the Graf Zeppelin will resume the Atlantic flight or return to Friedrichshafen. Engineers from the Zeppelin Works will arrive here tomorrow to examine the airship's engines.

Marseille, France, Saturday, May 18 (A.P.).—Three Americans who were on the Graf Zeppelin motored here early this morning and chartered an airplane to take them to Paris at daybreak.

They are George N. Crouse, Syracuse, N. Y.; Alfred S. Masury, New York engineer, and Maurice Y. Nathan, New York diamond merchant. Crouse and Nathan will hurry from the Le Bourget Flying Field to Paris to catch the boat train at 11:45 a. m. for Cherbourg. Tonight they will board the liner Aquitania for home.

Posting of $500 Liberates Alabama Soldier Facing Grand Jury Quiz.

Geneva, Ala., May 17 (A.P.).—Private James E. Ingram, of the Alabama National Guard, was free on bond of $500 today, following a preliminary hearing here late yesterday before a justice of the peace on charges that he shot and killed 13-year-old Lynn Burkett while on guard duty at the Alabama-Florida State line near Florala, Ala.

A charge of murder placed against Ingram by the sheriff of Geneva County shortly after the slaying last Monday was changed to second degree manslaughter and he was bound over to the Geneva County grand jury. The grand jury will convene June 10.

The guardsman told his superior officers that the boy was shot accidentally during a friendly scuffle. Adjt. Gen. F. Butler, of Alabama, turned Ingram over to the civil authorities immediately that the shooting was reported to him.

Airship Passenger Tells Of Battle to Land Craft

Praises Courage of Eckener and Declares Most of Those Aboard Will Enroll for Next Flight—Voted to Return After Motors Ceased to Work.

By ALEXANDER R. VON KRYHA
(Graf Zeppelin Passenger, Written for the Associated Press).

Toulon, France, May 17 (A.P.).—The Graf Zeppelin brought us all safely back to land tonight. Four of its motors were out of order, but none of the passengers was unduly frightened.

Most of those aboard intend to start out again for New York with Dr. Hugo Eckener, the dirigible commander, in ten or fifteen days.

One after another the motors gave out because they were fatigued. They had worked too many hours already in the trial flights and in long flights in the early spring over the Mediterranean.

All went well at first, but after we left the coast of France the motors began to sputter and give out. Dr. Eckener first thought that they could be repaired and that we could continue on toward America.

It was 3:30 p. m. on Thursday, after we had passed Valencia and were rounding the coast of Spain, that Dr. Eckener called the passengers together and told them the situation. He asked them whether they preferred to turn back. Most of them did, and so the commander turned the nose of the Zeppelin toward home.

Mechanics already had endeavored for several hours to get the stalled motors working again, but without success.

The passengers are all disappointed because every one was anxious to cross the Atlantic and get to New York. But if any of them lost confidence in the Zeppelin they have not made it known. Most likely nearly all those who were aboard today will be back in the cabins of the ship when she starts again for America.

Some of the passengers are taking the first train for Paris, which will leave at dawn tomorrow morning.

Dr. Eckener explained to us that it was the crankshafts of the four motors which went wrong. The first of them stopped working while we were over Spain and then off the coast three others, one after another, followed suit and there was nothing to do but turn around and start back home.

It was slow coming back, but it was sure. Nearly everybody was enthusiastic over the prospect of having another try at it week after next.

A number of passengers, complying with the French formalities, announced their intention of returning to Germany by rail or even by airplanes.

Only one of the five engines was running when the great airship came in sight, but it was helped on at a fairly good pace by the wind. It circled slowly downward over the field. The ground crew had little trouble in seizing the ropes and easing the dirigible into the shed.

Dr. Eckener all along was brave and courageous and the morale of all aboard remained as high on the return journey as it was at the beginning. In fact, a good proportion of those aboard went to bed Thursday night and got some sleep.

Every one was fully confident of the ability of the commander and of the ship itself.

Warm food was served for meals on the first day, but after engines went bad it was impossible to keep up cooking and today the lunch was a cold one.

Most of us thought this morning that we would be able to get back to Germany, but we met strong winds against which the ship had to struggle again and the fact that only one motor was working during the afternoon made this impossible.

There never was any doubt among the crew and passengers, however, but that Dr. Eckener would bring the ship safely to rest. Even before we landed, Dr. Eckener had said it would be a question of only ten or fifteen days before he would have new motors installed and would start again for Lakehurst.

He expects to make temporary repairs at Cuers and then fly back to Friedrichshafen to start again. (At this hour Dr. Eckener had not been informed that new motors were being sent to Cuers from Germany, which may cause him to change his plans.)

During the afternoon our commander maneuvered the ship skillfully in order to take advantage of the wind that helped to push us down to Cuers.

As soon as we landed most of us came on to Toulon (a distance of 15 miles) in automobiles which the French kindly provided for all aboard. By midnight more than half of those who were aboard the Zeppelin were in bed here in Toulon.

But Dr. Eckener and the officers under him, as well as some members of the crew, are remaining overnight at the airdome.

FRENCH ASSIST GRAF WITH IRONIC SMILES

TRIAL STIRRED SUSPICION

Paris, May 17 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—When the Graf Zeppelin's distress signals flashed over France this afternoon there was an immediate willingness to help, but it carried with it a gallic smile of irony.

But today the French newspapers had all secured accounts of Dr. Hugo Eckener's interview given in Friedrichshafen when he was angry with the French authorities for delay in issuing permission for him to fly over France. In that interview he accused France of "schweinerei," which translated into the French "cochonnerie" carries a meaning much more exact than any equivalent English expression short of "dirty pig trick."

Forty-eight hours later he was being hauled down tonight into safety by the French neighbors he could not keep himself from insulting before he sailed when exasperated at what he considered an unreasonable delay.

An explanation of the French delay is given tonight by L'Itransigeant, which says that the Zeppelin maneuvered over France on a trial flight in a manner to arouse suspicion.

"The Zeppelin flew very low," the newspaper says, "and at a low speed over the Creusot army factory. It passed over the arsenal of Toulon also at a low altitude and slowly.

"Every one who has seen aerial photographs knows that under such conditions it is possible to take photographs which have military value. It is natural that France, after this, in according Eckener permission to fly over France considered it had a right to call his attention to the fact that such authorization was accorded under the usual reservations regarding military zones."

A. W. Miller, Bitten by Cat, Is Suffering From Effects of Blood Poisoning.

Alvin W. Miller, principal of Central High School, who is suffering from blood poisoning as a result of being bitten by a cat, was reported somewhat improved last night at Garfield Hospital.

Members of Mr. Miller's household reported that during the day he had a turn for the better and last night was resting easily. He apparently was free from pain. This announcement was made several hours after doctors stated that the crisis was imminent.

Mr. Miller was bitten by the cat, a pet of the family, two weeks ago. Blood poisoning set in and the infection spread quickly from the wrist on which he was biten to his foot. He has been given several blood tranfusions in an effort to check the virus.

to speed up the others. One of them, however, soon began to show signs of giving way under the strain. It was then that the return was decided upon.

"Only one motor remained intact. You know our adventures since we reached the Rhone Valley. You know how we were obliged to allow ourselves to be blown about by a very violent wind and how we found a calm spot near the sea in the vicinity of Marignane. I must say we were never in serious danger. We ourselves, as well as the passengers, bore the voyage splendidly."

It was expected that the Zeppelin would remain here about a week for repairs. However, nothing certain can be decided upon until the engines are dismounted and the amount of damage ascertained. Dr. Eckener at present plans to remain here until the spare parts he has requested from Friedrichshafen arrives.

U. S. Court Frees Sheriff In Senate Contempt Case

Cunningham Wins Fight Against Indictment Based on His Refusal to Disclose Source of $50,000 Donation to Vare Campaign Fund.

Philadelphia, May 17 (A.P.).—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today freed Thomas W. Cunningham, against whom an indictment had been returned by the Federal grand jury in the District of Columbia charging him with contempt of the Senate in connection with the Vare senatorial election case.

Cunningham was indicted after he had refused to tell the Reed Senate committee the source of $50,000 he contributed to the Vare campaign in the senatorial contest of 1926.

After he was indicted a warrant for his arrest was issued, and the Federal district court here dismissed a writ of habeas corpus applied for by Cunningham to prevent his removal to Washington. The circuit court today, by a 2 to 1 vote, reversed the action of the district court.

This line-up of 2 to 1 is the same as taken by the circuit court in a similar action to have Cunningham appear before the Senate on a contempt charge for the same alleged offense. This case now is before the United States Supreme Court.

Waukeegan Boys Say They Were Attacked Because of Propaganda.

Waukeegan, Ill., May 17 (A.P.).—Three Waukeegan boys reported today they were severely beaten and threatened with tarring by members of the Waukeegan High School R. O. T. C. last night because they were distributing literature of the Young Workers League.

The youths were Philip Boyer, 20, a graduate of the high school; Hugo Kronholm, 18, and Edward Dombrowski, 19. Boyer said he was kidnaped, taken 7 miles from the city in an automobile and brutally beaten and tarred. The other two were attacked near the high school, they said.

The R. O. T. C. members were said to have seized the three boys while they were passing out handbills bearing the caption, "Soviet Russia Is an Inspiration to Workers Everywhere." They were taken before Sergt. John Holly, United States Army instructor. Holly, the boys said, told them he would count five before turning the R. O. T. C. Troop loose upon them. They fled, but were quickly overtaken and attacked.

Holly has not denied the report, and the youths have filed no police charges.

Levee Break Checked, But Peril Is Growing

Memphis, Tenn., May 17 (A.P.).—A break in the main St. Francis River levee near Kennett, Mo., today was checked by volunteers who responded to a general alarm, but fears were expreseed that the dyke would not be able to withstand a new rise of the Mississippi that began showing there this afternoon.

Should the embankment give way, approximately 100,000 acres of land, half of it in crops, would be subject to overflow. The threat today occurred about 3 miles from Kennett. Reports from that town said three more extremely dangerous places in the levee had developed. Every available man in Kennett was pressed into service.

Film Blaze Drives Pupils From School

800 Boys Leave New York Institution in Order, Led by Their Principal.

New York, May 17 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Eight hundred boys, between the ages of 14 and 18, marched out in perfect order from the High School of Commerce in West Sixty-fifth street this afternoon, when fire started in the motion picture projection booth in the auditorium. The fire, starting in a pile of old film, was confined to the booth, which is fireproof.

Four hundred of the boys were in the auditorium watching the showing of an educational film, while the other boys were drilling in the gymnasium, which is adjacent to the auditorium. When Jacob Abrahams, a teacher, who was running the projection machine, noticed smoke curling up from the film on the floor, he stopped the picture, left the booth and rang the fire alarm.

Led by the principal, Edwin I. McNamara, the boys formed in line and left the building without confusion. A telephone call was sent to fire headquarters and firemen extinguished the blaze with chemicals. The boys then returned to the auditorium and Abrahams resumed the projection of the film.

TACNA GOES TO PERU AND ARICA TO CHILE

ROW PERSISTED 45 YEARS

(United Press.)

Agreement to settle the Tacna-Arica dispute which, during the last 45 years has menaced not only the peace of Chile and Peru but of all South America, was announced yesterday by President Hoover.

Agreement between Chile and Peru was reached through Mr. Hoover's good offices. He undertook the task after conversations with Peruvian and Chilean authorities during his Latin-American good-will tour last winter.

Chile and Peru have agreed to a settlement on the basis of a division of the territory, Tacna going to Peru and Arica to Chile. The entire area comprises about 9,250 square miles and is mostly barren waste of neither agricultural nor mineral potentialities. Questions of national honor heated the controversy.

President Harding undertook to arbitrate the dispute. After his death, President Coolidge made the arbitral award, calling for a plebiscite in the disputed area to determine its allegiance. Gen. John J. Pershing and Maj. Gen. William Lassiter, in turn, failed to make the award effective because of the difficulty of arranging a fair plebiscite. Lassiter charged Chile with frustrating the plebiscite by intimidation of Peruvian residents.

The plebiscitary commission, on which Lassiter had succeeded Pershing as chairman, withdrew from Tacna-Arica in June, 1926, after nearly almost a year of unavailing effort.

Hoover Used New Method.

Hoover dropped the Harding-Coolidge arbitral method and went directly at the problem of exercising his own good offices with the result announced yesterday. A treaty still must be negotiated between Chile and Peru making the settlement effective.

Bolivia, a landlocked state, repeatedly has sought recognition in the dispute. The Bolivian request has been for the compromise to provide her with an outlet to the sea. No provision for Bolivia was made in the proposed basis for settlement announced.

The principal poin in the proposed settlement are:

1. Division of the territory.
2. Chilean permission for Peru to possess a wharf, customs house and railway station in the Chilean port of Arica, where Peru shall enjoy a free port.
3. Chile shall pay Peru $6,000,000.

George de la Barra, Bolivian charge d'affaires here, criticized the settlement soon after it was announced at the White House in a statement issued at the Bolivian Legation, declaring that the failure to give Bolivia an outlet to the sea "will not only hinder her development and the commercial relations between her and Peru and Chile" but will "also jeopardize their international friendship."

Chile and Peru Envoys Pleased.

"The historic question of the Pacific which includes Bolivia, Chile and Peru is far from settled, and will not be unless the land-locked condition in which Bolivia endured national life since the war of 1879 is changed," he said.

"Commercial interchange of today and economic conditions of all nations render it necessary that all countries should have an outlet to the sea. Bolivia, who has lost an extensive and rich seacoast, should have hers and not be deprived of her inalienable right of free communication with the ocean."

Ambassador Davila, of Chile, in a statement, attributed the solution of the Tacna-Arica controversy to the motive of international friendship which he said inspired the negotiations.

Praising the settlement, Peruvian Ambassador Velarde said that ratification and compliance with it would remove the "only cloud" on the horizon of the Americas.

Secretary of State Stimson yesterday wired former Secretary of State Kellogg, at St. Paul, his "heartiest congratulations for the successful termination of these negotiations which you so ably initiated and carried on." Replying, Kellogg said the settlement "is a notable step in the history of South American diplomacy and an example to all the world." He congratulated the President and Stimson on consummation of the settlement, and said the settlement is "a high testimonial to the statesmanship of the presidents of those countries and testifies to their devotion to peace."

ENSIGN DESERTER, NAVY MEN CONTEND

HOLD HE WAS DROPPED

(Associated Press.)

Former Ensign Beverly E. Wilson, of the Navy, is awaiting court-martial at Norfolk on a charge of desertion, naval authorities said yesterday, and the question of whether he was sane at the time of his mysterious disappearance on October 13, 1927, will not come before naval authorities unless the court-martial is held.

Attorneys for Wilson are seeking his freedom under a writ of habeas corpus, contending that he was dropped from the Navy rolls six months after he disappeared and therefore is beyond the jurisdiction of the Navy.

If Federal Judge D. Lawrence Groner, before whom the writ was sued, decides the Navy has jurisdiction, he may then plead loss of his memory as a defense for his desertion, the naval authorities said. If Wilson is held beyond jurisdiction of the Navy, it was believed an appeal might be made to the Department of Justice and eventually to the Supreme Court if necessary.

Wilson disappeared from Newport, R. I., while at the Naval Torpedo School and was found six months later in Panama. He was a private in the Army then.

Norfolk, Va., May 17 (A.P.).—Release of former Ensign Beverley E. Wilson, who mysteriously disappeared from the torpedo school of the United States training station at Newport, R. I., in 1927, and was found last February in Panama, is sought in habeas corpus proceedings instituted here.

The youth, son of Judge and Mrs. B. F. Wilson, of Kingsville, Tex., was serving as a private in the Army at the time he was found. He declared his mind was blank about activities from the time he left Newport until he was turned over to naval authorities and met a former Annapolis classmate. Wilson is being held in custody by the Navy here.

He was graduated at the Naval Academy in 1926 and his service record was clear until he disappeared.

MOB LYNCHES MAN AFTER WIFE'S DEATH

RUBBISH CAUSE OF ROW

Lake City, Fla., May 17 (A.P.).—A white man, N. G. Romey, Lake City grocery man, was lynched near here early today, several hours after his wife had been killed in a gun battle with the chief of police.

A coroner's jury went to the spot in a ditch, 2 miles from here, where Romey's body was found, and returned a verdict that he met his death "at the hands of parties unknown."

The jury also found that Chief of Police John F. Baker had acted in self-defense in shooting the woman five times after she had fired three shots at Baker, breaking his shoulder blade.

Romey's body, full of bullet wounds and sitting upright in the ditch, was found by a farmer coming into town this morning. Authorities brought it here. Romey had been imprisoned last night.

Authorities said trouble started yesterday after Romey was notified to clean up some rubbish in front of his store. He had agreed, they said, to take inside his store boxes which had been put on the sidewalk, but afterward removed them again to the sidewalk and telephoned Chief Baker to "try to make me move it back."

Baker went to the store and an argument followed. Mrs. Romey was charged with having grabbed a pistol and fired three shots at the chief, who then returned the fire, wounding the woman five times. She died at midnight.

MRS. MOSES FIGHTS DETECTIVE FOR SON

HER EFFORTS ARE FUTILE

Mrs. Harry C. Moses, widow of the vice president of W. B. Moses & Sons' Department Store, battled furiously but vainly with a detective late yesterday at the District Supreme Court Building to prevent removal of her son, Charles H. M. Moses, 24 years old, from the city. Young Moses was en route to Philadelphia last night to face a charge of abandoning his wife and child.

Obtaining from Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy a warrant for Moses' removal, Detective William E. Shaffer, of Philadelphia, seized the young man by the arm and started down the corridor from the magistrate's chambers.

The detective was cognizant that Moses' counsel would attempt to obtain a writ of habeas corpus staying the removal, and was hastening him away from the court. But he had not reckoned with Mrs. Moses.

"You're not going to take him. You're not!"

With a defiant cry, the mother, a diminutive woman, grabbed her son's other arm and attempted to wrest him from Shaffer. Down the corridor the three pulled and tugged until they gained the elevator and were taken to the ground floor. There the pulling and tugging was resumed and it continued across the courthouse lawn to a waiting police automobile.

Captive Carried Over Line.

At the car Mrs. Moses made a valiant last stand. Shaffer and Hugh Robey, driver of the police car, succeeded in forcing young Moses into the vehicle. Mrs. Moses began thumping the detective's back, pulled off his hat and tried to keep him from getting in the car, while a crowd gathered.

A citizen, apparently believing the police wanted the fighting woman in the automobile, took her by surprise and shoved her into the vehicle. The car whizzed away, and five minutes later Shaffer and his prisoner alighted just beyond the District line on the Bladensburg road.

Mrs. Moses was driven back to the courthouse by Robey, where she retrieved her purse, which she had dropped during the melee.

While the tussle was in progress, Albert Jacobson, counsel for young Moses, attempted to have Chief Justice McCoy sign the habeas corpus writ, but the magistrate refused on grounds that his authorization of the removal warrant was all the action he could take in the case.

Was Arrested at Store.

The attorney had Deputy Marshal John Clarkson at hand to serve the writ, if granted, on the detective and prevent removal of the prisoner.

Young Moses was arrested on April 23 at the department store by Detective Sergt. John Wise as a fugitive from justice. In Police Court, on May 3, Moses declined to return to Philadelphia and demanded a hearing.

The case was heard by Chief Justice McCoy, who decided in favor of the Philadelphia authorities. Assistant District Attorneys William Gallagher and William Collins appeared for the government at the proceedings.

Mrs. Felice Moses, pretty 21-year-old wife of the prisoner, lodged the complaint charging he abandoned her and their child in Philadelphia on October 22 and had since failed to contribute to their support.

TEN PERSONS IN CUSTODY

Pine Bluff, Ark., May 17 (A.P.).—Ralph R. Reed, city attorney of Pine Bluff, was arrested and placed in the county jail late today in connection with the robbery of the Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of $20,000 on April 28.

His bond was fixed at $25,000, which he had not made early tonight. He was charged with being an accessory to the robbery and receiving stolen property.

County officials said they had evidence that Reed had conspired with the robbers and had received $10,000 of the stolen money.

Three negroes also were arrested. They were charged as accessories, and $1,000 in travelers cheques said to have been stolen from the bank was recovered from them, police said.

With Reed's arrest, ten persons now are in custody in connection with the robbery, including three men recently arrested at New Orleans, who are alleged to have been among the five actually staging the holdup.

The bank was robbed during the noon hour. The robbers, who were unmasked, locked three employes in the vault and took all money available.

Hoots and Jeers at Guards Quieted by Labor Chief; All Prisoners Held.

GEN. BOYD GIVES BOND

Elizabethton, Tenn., May 17 (A.P.).—A disturbance that for a few minutes threatened to convert itself into a riot marked the trial of 86 striking union textile workers on charges of "conspiracy to commit murder," shortly before the State completed its rebuttal testimony, preparatory to argument.

The crowd that jammed the little courtroom had become increasingly noisy, and on being ordered to quiet down and move back from national guardsmen stationed about the room became more noisy, with scores moving toward the exits, causing a jam.

Hoots and cat-calls greeted the plea of Lieut. H. M. Farris, in charge of the courthouse detail, for quiet and order. As noise increased and some spectators began moving about, William K. Kelly, vice president of the United Textile Workers of America, vaulted the rail in front of the judges and in a short, impassioned talk urged the union members to be quiet and observe court regulations.

The disturbance subsided and the trial was resumed.

Adjutant General Arrested.

While the trial progressed today, a warrant charging Adjt. Gen. W. C. Boyd with "aiding and abetting an attempt to commit murder," was sworn out by Evelyn Heaton, strike picket, who was injured seriously when hit by a bus that charged a group of strikers blocking the highway. The adjutant general immediately was released on a $1,000 bond.

The pickets had held up the bus, loaded with workers returning to the American Glanzstorff and American Bemberg textile plants.

The girl also swore out a warrant against Joe Calhoun, driver of the car, charging him with an "attempt to commit murder." Calhoun was taken in custody yesterday after the girl and three other strikers, less seriously hurt, had been run down. He was removed to Jonesboro for safekeeping, where the warrant was served.

While taking of testimony proceeded in the courthouse, the force of troops on duty here as State police was augmented by the arrival of additional guardsmen from Cleveland, Athens and Knoxville. Approximately 350 men and 25 officers are now on duty here to preserve order and prevent further destruction of property.

Cavalry May Be Used.

Col. Henry Dickinson, commander of the 109th Cavalry, and Capt. Herman Burton, of the adjutant general's staff at Nashville, this afternoon made a survey of the situation here to determine if cavalry can be used to advantage. The officers said they contemplated the use of cavalry patrols in keeping the highways open and preventing congregations of pickets along the thoroughfares.

The 86 strikers, being given a preliminary hearing today, were arrested yesterday following clashes between strikers and workers who have returned to the mills that reopened last week after being idle since early in April, when the 5,500 employes of the plants walked out.

The situation in the courtroom was tense throughout the day, with strikers and sympathizers crowding the little room to capacity. National guardsmen were stationed at strategic points and kept a patrol outside to prevent any large gathering.

In addition to the 86 strikers on trial, approximately 40 others arrested yesterday during the clash with workers returning to the mills are awaiting a hearing on charges of picketing and disturbing the peace.

Tension among strikers was increased early today when T. C. Wilson, a mountaineer from Stoney Creek, reported to the sheriff that a grist mill belonging to Joe Glindstoff, a union striker, was dynamited just before dawn and that the automobile of Sam Hall, another striker, had been burned. Sheriff J. M. Moreland later announced that investigation had disclosed that the reports were false and relieved to some extent the tenseness of the situation.

Despite the disturbances, officials of the two big mills, one a rayon plant, declare their plans for a gradual reopening of the plants are progressing.

D. F. DAVIS ACCEPTS POST IN PHILIPPINES

Former Secretary of War Is Named by Hoover; Praised by Delegation Here.

SUCCESSOR TO STIMSON

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover announced yesterday that Dwight F. Davis, of St. Louis, Secretary of War in the Coolidge Cabinet, had accepted the appointment as Governor General of the Philippine Islands.

Mr. Davis succeeds Henry L. Stimson, who relinquished the post to become Secretary of State in the Hoover Cabinet.

After the announcement had been made the Philippine delegation here to urge the interests of the islands in the pending tariff bill issued a statement approving the appointment of Mr. Davis. They are Speaker Roxas, Senator Osmena and Commissioners Guevara and Osias.

Praised by Island Delegates.

They said the appointment was "an evidence of the administration's desire to place at the head of affairs of that far-distant country a man of national prestige and proven ability, conversant with Philippine conditions."

Mr. Davis gained a comprehensive knowledge of the Philippines and their problems while Secretary of War. Their administration comes under the supervision of the War Department. He has visited the islands and is acquainted with many officials there. He is 49 years old.

As soon as possible Mr. Davis is expected to leave for Manila, as it is the desire of the administration that the new governor general be inaugurated before the opening of the new session of the Filipino legislature on July 16.

Continues War Department Link.

The appointment of the former Secretary of War by Mr. Hoover continues the link between the head of that department and the Philippines, which began with William Howard Taft, who, after being civil governor of the islands, become Secretary of War in the Roosevelt administration. This was continued with Luke E. Wright, who was governor general before becoming Secretary of War. Gen. Leonard Wood became governor general after having been chief of staff of the Army, and Mr. Stimson formerly was a Secretary of War.

Mr. Davis' service in the Federal Government began in 1921, when he was made a director of the War Finance Corporation. In 1926 he was appointed Assistant Secretary of War, and in 1925 he succeeded to the post held by Secretary Weeks.

Flier Found Dead From Gun Wound

Youth Killed Self Because Girl Jilted Him, Says Farm Caretaker.

Hot Springs, Ark., May 17 (A.P.).—Allen Battles, 22, a stepson of John G. Lonsdale, wealthy banker of St. Louis, Mo., was found dead at the Lonsdale summer home near here today with a bullet wound in the head which authorities said the caretaker told them was self inflicted.

The caretaker whose name was not obtained by authorities said young Battles told him this morning he had received a letter from his sweetheart and that he had been jilted. The caretaker was quoted as saying Battles had placed a pistol to his temple and fired. The Lonsdale home is about 18 miles from Hot Springs. Battles was an aviator.

St. Louis, Mo., May 17 (A.P.).—John G. Lonsdale, president of the National Bank of Commerce, whose stepson, Allen Battles, was found dead today on a farm near Hot Springs, Ark., said the farm caretaker told him by telephone that Battles was killed when a pistol was accidentally discharged as he was packing it in a suitcase.

Lonsdale will be president of the new Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co., the second largest in St. Louis, formed by merger of the National Bank of Commerce with the Mercantile Trust Co.

Coroner Pearse said his verdict probably will not be given until the first of next week.

Surviving doctors of the Cleveland Clinic established themselves today in temporary headquarters in an old brownstone residence across the street from the death structure. They will stay there until the damaged building is rebuilt.

Among those "back in the regular harness," at work in the interest of human sufferers, today was Dr. George W. Crile, internationally famed surgeon, who is the founder of the clinic. Assisted by Dr. Charles Higgins, Dr. Crile performed six operations today in the temporary headquarters.

Backing the clinic organization in its program of reconstruction is a committee of 38 of Cleveland's most wealthy and prominent citizens, headed by Samuel E. Mather, nationally famous philanthropist, and with almost unlimited funds at their command.

About $800,000 property damage was caused by the disaster, but within a month to six weeks the clinic will be restored to its former position among the finest equipped institutions of its kind in the world.

Tomorrow will be officially a day of mourning here for victims of the disaster and another day for Cleveland to bury its dead.

"Whereas a great calamity has been visited upon the people of Cleveland, bringing bereavement to scores of families and profound sorrow to all, it seems fitting that a time should be set aside for the burial of the dead, for the payment of our obligations to their memory and for prayerful meditation in which to seek strength for the future.

"Therefore, I proclaim that Saturday, May 18, 1929, shall be a day of mourning and request that so far as possible the public and other business shall be curtailed to permit its general observance."

About a dozen of the disaster victims were buried today. Probably 50 more will be buried tomorrow.

MOBILE PUBLISHER DENIES POWER AID

Advertising Man Discredits Insull Offer to Buy Boston Post.

THOMPSON PAPERS HIT

(Associated Press.)

Formal denial that utilities interests had invested in his newspaper, the Mobile Press, was given in the Federal Trade Commission's inquiry into reports that power interests were financing Alabama newspapers yesterday by R. B. Chandler, who founded the Press a month ago and is its publisher.

The publisher said charges connecting his newspaper, particularly with the Alabama Power Co., had not been mentioned except by the Frederick I. Thompson group of papers in the State, which he asserted wished to monopolize the field.

Chandler said the Press had been founded with the backing of a group of Mobile business men. Investigation of reports that power interests were involved was made at the suggestion of Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska.

Reveals Banker Backer.

Declining at first to reveal the name of a man who had agreed to lend him $100,000 for the launching of his newspaper, Chandler later disclosed the identity of the banker to Chairman Edgar A. McCulloch, of the commission, and Robert E. Healy, chief counsel. They assured him they would not reveal the name unless their investigation made it necessary to subpena the backer.

Another witness, Charles O'Malley, a Boston advertising man, contradicted testimony offered Thursday by Richard Grozier, editor and publisher of the Boston Post, that he had offered $20,000,000 in cash for the purchase of that newspaper on behalf of the Insull power interests. He added, however, that he had represented two New York stock brokers in unsuccessful negotiations to buy either the Post or the Boston Globe at that figure.

D. Paul Bestor, jr., president of the First National Bank of Mobile, and one of the group sponsoring the Mobile Press, said neither the Alabama Power Co nor any other utility concern had any financial holdings in that newspaper. He said he was a director of the Alabama Power Co. and the only director of that concern among stockholders of the Press.

Newspaper Broker Testifies.

Edward D. Dewitt, of the newspaper brokerage firm of Palmer, DeWitt & Palmer, of New York, the fourth and final witness of the hearing, reviewed the part his firm had played in purchasing four Southern newspapers for William Lavarre and Harold Hall, who were backed by the International Paper & Power Co. His concern also aided, he said, with the disposal of the Chicago Journal, Albany Knickerbocker Press, and the Albany News, which were bought with financial aid from the International.

The refusal of Chandler at first to reveal the identity of his $100,000 backer was made, he declared, because the man would be subjected to the "vicious persecution of the Thompson newspapers."

Healy, warned Chandler, however, that the inquiry would be "inconclusive" if this man's financial interests were not investigated by the commission. While Healy and the witness were at odds over this question, Chairman McCulloch ordered a recess of the hearing for a short period.

Differences Are Settled By Aimee and Mother

Los Angeles, Calif., May 17 (A.P.).—Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, last night declared they had smoothed over the differences which have kept them apart since August, 1927. They met yesterday when Mrs. Kennedy, who has been living in Seattle, made an unannounced visit to Los Angeles.

A row over finances of Angelus Temple, the church conducted by Mrs. McPherson, which resulted in the evangelist ousting Mrs. Kennedy from the organization, began the separation.

Day in Congress

SENATE.

Met at noon and recessed at 6:35 to noon Monday.

Confirmed the nomination of former Senator Irvine L. Lenroot, of Wisconsin, to be a member of the United States Court of Customs Appeals. The vote was 42 to 27.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 5:10 to noon Monday.

Voted 249 to 119 to send the farm relief bill with the debenture plan to a Senate and House conference.

Representative Ruth Pratt (Republican), New York, read a letter from President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, protesting against the proposed tariff on sugar.

Representative Tucker (Democrat), Virginia, explained that he did not intend to reflect upon the Jewish race in making a recent speech favoring exclusion of aliens from the population count upon which membership in Congress is based.

POLITICS IS FLAYED IN DE KING INQUIRY

Witness Swears He Was Talking With Woman on Phone When She Was Shot.

JUDGE IS CALLED "BOSS"

Aurora, Ill., May 17 (A.P.).—Robert A. Milroy, attorney for the Joseph De King family, told a State legislative committee today that he was talking on the telephone with Mrs. De King when she was shot and killed by county dry raiders.

Milroy's testimony, in which he told of hearing the shot fired by Deputy Sheriff Roy Smith, was among the few bits of evidence heard by the committee which related directly to the slaying. Most of the day was taken up in a discussion of Kane County politics.

Representative Michael L. Igoe, of Chicago, a wet and a Democrat, criticized the dry Republican organization in the county and charged Circuit Judge John E. Newhall, who was on the stand, with being the boss of the county Republican machine.

This was denied by Judge Newhall, although he admitted making campaign speeches for George Carbary, the State's attorney, who was elected on the promise to "clean up the county."

Igoe sought to show that Judge Newhall controlled selection of a grand jury by controlling the county board of supervisors, which picked the jurors. He also sought to show that the supervisors appropriated the funds for the dry investigation of the State's attorney.

Carbary took the stand to tell of his efforts to fulfill his campaign pledge. He said his office had conducted a large number of raids and that he had no knowledge of the fatal De King raid until after it had been carried out.

Carbary said the grand jury which investigated the raid and killing did not ask him for recommendations regarding the case of Deputy Smith, but asked his opinion about Joseph De King. Carbary said he recommended no charge be made against De King because he had been "punished enough."

Eugene Boyd Fairchild, the informer who swore to the affidavit on which the search warrant for the De King home was issued, was called to testify, but declined on the advice of his attorney, Arthur Shay, of Streator, Ill.

Mrs. Frank Satterfield Dead.

Chestertown, Md., May 17 (Special). Mrs. Frank Satterfield, 74 years old, mother of former Mayor Charles N. Satterfield, died here early this morning, following a lingering illness. She is survived by her husband and one brother, Charles Jackson, of Philadelphia. Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Wesley Chapel, Rockhall, and interment will be made in the churchyard.

DEBENTURE IN HANDS OF JOINT COMMITTEE

House Agrees to Conference With Senate, Confident of Beating Plan.

LONG BATTLE FORECAST

(Associated Press.)

The farm relief bill was sent into a neutral zone between the Senate and House yesterday for conciliation of the differences that have arisen between the two branches over the export debenture plan.

Temporarily laying aside whether the Senate had infringed upon the rights of the House in originating the proposal, a huge majority of Republicans and a handful of House Democrats voted to lay the matter in the hands of a conference committee for arbitration. The vote was 249 to 119.

House leaders confidently expected that their conferees would be able to override the objections of the Senate members of the conference committee and eliminate the debenture plan from the measure. However, from the Senate there came predictions that the conference beginning Monday would be long drawn out.

House Conferees Unchanged.

The five House conferees, Chairman Haugen and Representatives Purnell, of Indiana, and Williams, of Illinois, Republicans, and Aswell, of Louisiana, and Kincheloe, of Kentucky, Democrats, the ranking members of the House agricultural committee, all opposed the debenture plan at the time it was proposed to that group while it was drafting the House farm bill. None of the five has changed his position.

Of the five senators who will take part in the conference, Chairman McNary and Senator Capper, of Kansas, Republicans, and Ransdell, of Louisiana, Democrat, opposed the debenture plan in the Senate agriculture committee. The other two, Senators Norris, of Nebraska, Republican, and Smith, of South Carolina, Democrat, favored the plan in committee.

The Senate conferees will be bound by the vote of that body to support the bill as it was passed there, however.

Consideration of the measure in conference might be complicated further by the House conferees being opposed to certain other provisions of the Senate bill.

Government Control Opposed.

One of the features considered objectionable by some of the House conferees is a provision under which they hold the Government would be so closely tied to stabilization corporations as to amount to Government control of the agencies. In the House bill the corporations would be set up at the instance of cooperative organizations and would be directed by them.

The vote of the House to send the bill to conference followed a heated argument in which Representative Garner, of Texas, the minority leader, charged that the Republican leaders had no right to waive the constitutional question if they believed the Senate had infringed upon the rights of the House.

The Texan contended the move was designed to prevent a vote in the House on the export debenture plan.

The Republicans argued that if there should be a disagreement of the conferees or if the debenture plan were retained by them in the bill, there still would be time to raise the constitutional question. They contended that because of the emergency nature of the legislation, efforts to reach an agreement between the two houses should be made before precipitating an argument which they said might draw out for months.

Division of Votes.

The Republicans voted almost solidly to send the bill to conference. Only four of them voted with the Democrats, while fourteen Democrats joined with the Republicans.

Of the four Republicans, Representative La Guardia, of New York, contended the House should not waive its constitutional rights, but should insist upon settlement of the question. He was joined in the voting by Representatives James, of Michigan, and Lambertson and Sproul, of Kansas.

Among the Democrats who voted to send the measure to conference were Aswell and Kincheloe, who helped prepare the House bill and will be among the conferees.

The other twelve are Representatives Ayres, of Kansas; Black, of New York; Connery, Douglass and McCormick, of Massachusetts; Crosser, of Ohio; Douglas, of Arizona; Goldsborough, of Maryland; Larsen, of Georgia; Ludlow, of Indiana; McCloskey, of Texas, and O'Connell, of Rhode Island.

Worn by Testimony in Suit, Art Expert Taken by Death

Conrad Hug, of Kansas City, Spent Fortune Seeking to Prove "La Belle Ferroniere" Is Genuine Da Vince in Spite of Duveen.

Kansas City, May 17(A.P.).—Conrad Hug, 59 years old, Kansas City art dealer, who was one of the principal witnesses in the recent trial in New York of a $500,000 damage suit involving the authenticity of painting "La Belle Ferronier," which he has pronounced a genuine Da Vinci, died here today.

The art dealer's death followed a long illness aggravated by forced court appearance and long trips made in behalf of Mrs. Andre E. Hahn, of Kansas City, plaintiff in the suit. She brought the action against Sir Joseph Duveen, English art authority, alleging he had prevented the sale of her picture by declaring it a copy of the original, which he contended hangs in the Louvre, Paris.

The jury failed to agree and another trial is pending.

Mr. Hug testified he had acted for Mrs. Hahn in the attempted sale of the picture and had been encouraged to believe it might be purchased for a quarter million dollars by the Kansas City Art Institute.

DAWES DEBT PARLEY SEEN BY DIPLOMATS

PARIS MEETING SEQUEL

By ALBERT W. FOX.

An international conference on Reparations, at which Ambassador Dawes will represent the United States, is forecast by diplomats as a probable sequel to the meeting of the committee of reparations experts now drawing to a close in Paris. The suggestion for a conference of representatives of the interested governments in London is already under discussion in diplomatic circles here and it forecasts a following of the precedent set by the powers and the United States in 1925 in putting into effect the Dawes plan.

Secretary of State Stimson's announcement of Thursday, in which he clearly indicated that the United States Government would consistently follow the policy it has taken since the war in the matter of reparations, implies that the United States will deal with this conference of experts in the same way that it dealt with the experts' conference which led up to the meeting of government representatives at Paris, January 7 to 14, 1925. Frank B. Kellogg, then Ambassador to Great Britain, represented the United States at the Paris conference. He did not act as a representative of the reparations commission, but nevertheless succeeded in defending America's interests and securing the payments to America which were set out in the Dawes plan.

Gen. Dawes himself will be the American Ambassador to Great Britain if, or when, the conference of the interested powers takes place. The scene of this anticipated conference has not been definitely decided upon, but there appears to be no reason for selecting any capital other than London or Paris.

Present Parley Not Final.

The report of the committee of experts now sitting in Paris will not be a final determination of the reparations problem. The experts are not acting as official representatives of their respective governments. They are acting as experts and have been seeking to make recommendations based on financial and economic, rather than political considerations. They have been in touch with their respective governments but nevertheless their work does not represent Government policies as such. Their task has been to make recommendations in their report which have a fair chance of being favorably considered by the governments interested.

After the report of the experts, the next move will be up to the governments. In view of the many delicate and highly controversial questions involved, the expectation here is that the governments will not be able to reach agreement by exchanges of notes nor by long range diplomatic correspondence. In this event the practical way of reaching agreement if possible will be by a conference of representatives of the governments.

This program proved effective and satisfactory when the Dawes plan was first set up. America would have an advantage with Ambassador Dawes protecting American interests at a later conference. It is conceded that Gen. Dawes understands the reparations problem from the ground up, and also understands the policy which the United States has followed and wishes to follow in dealing with this problem. Furthermore, the frankness and direct methods of Gen. Dawes have already served the United States in good stead in past conferences on the reparations question, and it is assumed that it will again be necessary to talk frankly before the new arrangement for reparation payments is definitely agreed upon.

Dawes Protocol Already Signed.

If the reparations experts now meeting agree upon a report—which is considered likely—that agreement will be put in the form of a final protocol to be accepted by the governments concerned. In setting up the machinery for the Dawes plan, the final protocol was signed at Paris on January 14, 1925, by Ambassador Kellogg on behalf of the United States, as well as by James A. Logan, jr., and representatives of other interested powers. Belgium, France, Great Britain, United States, Italy, Japan, Brazil, Greece, Poland, Portugal, Roumania, Serb-Croat-Slovene State and Czechoslovakia were represented at the Paris conference.

Distribution of reparations receipts by the various governments could be settled more satisfactorily by these governments at a later conference, it is pointed out, than during the present conference of experts. The fact that the United States Government would be represented at a conference having to do with reparations receipts does not mean any departure in America's policy. At present America gets under the Dawes plan 55,000,000 gold marks annually for Army costs and 2½ per cent of the annuities available for reparation payments up to a maximum of 45,000,000 gold marks. It was the duty of the United States Government to protect this interest and developments showed that American taxpayers would have been discriminated against if America had not been represented.

The same duty to protect America's share in the reparations payments will presumably make it necessary for the United States Government to be represented at the conference dealing with reparation distributions in substitution for the schedules agreed upon in 1925 under the Dawes plan.

the guard, who searched him. From the questions asked and the young man's manners the guard became suspicious and reported his suspicions to Maj. Peak.

Having been tricked on similar occasions by enterprising reporters, the jail superintendent decided not to take a chance with the new prisoner. In the past newspaper men had resorted to getting "pinched" as drunks and being sent to jail so as to obtain first-hand information concerning conditions at the institution and Police Court.

The new prisoner, Maj. Peak stated, was poorly clad, but spoke as one of well and careful breeding and persisted in asking the guard, who searched him, questions about Sinclair and the best way to see him.

Although the jail superintendent was unable to recall the man's name last night, he stated it was his belief the prisoner had taken an alias.

So after carefully considering that newspaper men were desperate and would resort to almost anything to obtain an interview with the millionaire oil baron, who has denied himself to reporters since his incarceration, Maj. Peak made his decision.

He transferred the prisoner to the Occoquan workhouse the same day he was admitted to the jail.

LABOR HEAD ATTACKS SUGAR TARIFF IN BILL

Representative Pratt Reads Letter From Green in House.

REPLY TO FREAR INQUIRY

(Associated Press.)

Organized labor yesterday threw its weight behind the forces opposing the increased sugar tariff, as proposed in the Republican tariff bill.

In a letter read in the House by Representative Ruth Baker Pratt (Republican), New York, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared the higher duty was "unjustifiable and indefensible," and if adopted would levy an unfair tax upon millions of workers to protect an industry hiring "women, children and Mexican labor at indecent wages and under intolerable conditions of employment."

The letter was addressed to Representative Frear, of Wisconsin, a Republican member of the ways and means committee, who had written Green calling his attention to a statement read on the floor this week by Representative Colton (Republican), purporting to be a "printed interview from you (Green) in support of the sugar schedule."

Calls Sugar Duty Vicious.

"I assumed they would attempt to do just that thing," Frear wrote, "although I know in your interview you were discussing general principles of agriculture.

"The sugar schedule is a vicious proposition as I have shown in repeated speeches and I have beet sugar mills in my district. The only hope for them is in a straight bounty, for reasons I have discussed in the House, but I do not want these people to deceive the House into believing that the champions of labor are either in favor of the sugar tariff or of labor conditions which surround the western mills."

Green replied that "no one was justified in quoting my testimony before the Senate agriculture committee in support of farm relief legislation as an endorsement of the sugar schedule of the pending tariff bill."

Referred to Farm Relief.

"My statement referred to the question of general farm relief legislation exclusively. Only one who sought to take an unfair advantage in order to advance some special interest would attempt to use any of the testimony I gave at the hearing of the committee on agriculture in support of the sugar tariff schedule."

Mrs. Pratt did not explain how she instead of Frear came to read the letter into the record. But it was interpreted as a means of expressing her opposition to the sugar tariff. It was her first statement on the floor since she came to the House.

After general debate was resumed Representative Eaton, of Colorado, another new Republican member, defended the sugar schedule. He declared the Great Western Sugar Co. in his State, by increasing its number of factories, had permitted farmers to withdraw thousands of acres of land from the production of crops in which an exportable surplus existed. He declared the company did not employ child or Mexican labor.

state commerce committee a year ago in opposition to the Walsh resolution to investigate them.

It was during this fight that the Nebraska senator observed the former Wisconsin senator on the floor one day exercising his right as a former member, and let out such a bellow that Lenroot hot-footed it away and has never come back.

Senators Heflin, of Alabama, and Blaine, who defeated Lenroot in Wisconsin two years ago, joined the fight on his confirmation. Senator Black, of Alabama, announced after the adverse vote on making the roll call public that he would seek to amend the procedure so that all nominations would be aired in public.

Senator Goff, of West Virginia, was the main contender that Lenroot's senatorial service was above reproach. His appearance before the Senate committee in opposition to the power inquiry resolution was absolutely proper, Goff contended.

Lenroot was so discouraged over the way some of his former colleagues received his appointment that he considered refusing to permit his name to be resubmitted. He was assured by friends, however, that confirmation would come after the noise.

The Wisconsin political situation entered into the fight on him. The regular Republicans are trying to build up a machine in the State to oust the La Follette-Blaine organization. Three presidential appointments of late have been at cross purposes with this organization. Lenroot's judiciary appointment will, of course, not help in building up the regular organization, but is considered as compensation for services already rendered. It was compensation that the Progressive Republicans naturally did not want to see given.

FLYING CROSS GIVEN TO LIEUT. WILLIAMS

RELATIVES AT CEREMONY

Standing before the fast pursuit plane in which he performed many of his exploits, Lieut. Alford J. Williams, U. S. N., yesterday afternoon received the Distinguished Flying Cross from Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams at the Anacostia Naval Air Station.

His father and mother and a sister, Frances Williams, watched the brief, dignified ceremony. At rigid attention in a hollow square was a detachment of sailors, while officers of the station stood in a single line facing the Secretary and his party.

Lieut Williams stepped forward and stood facing Secretary Adams, who read the citation awarding the coveted decoration reserved for military fliers of the United States. The cross, with its white and blue ribbon, was then pinned to the breast of the officer's coat, and he stepped back into line.

Among the invited guests at the ceremony were many high officials of the Navy. They included Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics David S. Ingalls, Admiral Charles F. Hughes, chief of naval operations; Rear Admiral Richard H. Leigh, chief of the Bureau of Navigation; Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics; Rear Admiral John L. McDonald, commanding the Washington Navy Yard; Senator Hiram Bingham, of Connecticut, president of the National Aeronautic Association, and Dr. George W. Lewis, of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

The feats for which Lieut. Williams received the cross covered a period from 1919 to the present year. During that time, according to the citation, he repeatedly risked his life to discover methods of controlling military planes in dangerous maneuvers, thus saving the lives of many of his fellow-pilots. He also performed a series of tests in inverted flight, assisting aeronautic experts in determining the effect of this attitude of flight on structures and performance.

Prior to his entrance into the service in 1917, Lieut. Williams was a pitcher for the New York Giants.

F. G. Berger, Long Ill, Dies in Virginia

Former Manager of Theater Was Stricken Year Ago; Funeral Today.

Fred G. Berger, veteran theater manager and hotel owner, for many years associated with the Metzerott Brothers in operation of the Columbia Theater in this city prior to its purchase by the Loew interests and conversion into a motion picture house, died at his home in Warrenton, Va., early yesterday, according to word received in the Capital yesterday.

Mr. Berger, one of the most popular theatrical men of the old school, was for many years company manager for the late Sol Smith Russell, one of America's most beloved comedians, before taking up his residence in Washington. He first became identified with the profession of the stage when, as a young man, in company with his wife, he became a member of a traveling troupe of Swiss Bell Ringers.

After the Columbia Theater relinquished its place among the theaters housing legitimate attractions in the National Capital, Mr. Berger became the proprietor of the Hotel Warrenton in Warrenton, Va., where he has since made his home. His death was the result of a paralytic stroke suffered almost a year ago that left him a confirmed invalid.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the funeral chapel of the V. L. Speare undertaking establishment at 1009 H street northwest. Interment will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Two Capital Men Injured When Auto Turns Over

Ralph W. Engel, 24 years old, of 217 Fifth street southeast, and William Gustafson, 34 years old, of 201 Daniel street, Colmar Manor, Md., were injured early yesterday evening when the automobile in which they were riding overturned near T. B., Md., on the Washington-La Plata boulevard. They were taken to Casualty Hospital by Dr. D. R. Beattey, of 908 New York avenue northwest.

Engel was treated for a fractured left arm and shock, while Gustafson was treated for severe cuts to the body and a badly lacerated eye.

ton and several nearby Maryland counties, testified that the agents chased the rum runner from Beltsville to Berwyn and that several times while the cars were traveling at a speed of 60 miles an hour the revenue car bumped the rear of the alleged rum runner in an effort to make him stop. The pursued car moved over to the side of the road as though to permit the agents to pass, he said, and then swerved so that the rear wheel of the front automobile struck the agents' car in front and caused it to skid on the slippery road.

Agents Charles R. McCartney and L. W. York, who were in the car, told substantially the same story, except that York denied the bumping was done purposely and said it was accidental. McCartney, who was driving, said that he "bumped the car three times on purpose."

The defendant was represented by Attorneys Bertrand Emerson, jr., and Harold Stephenson, of Washington. State's Attorney J. Frank Parran conducted the prosecution, assisted by Assistant District Attorney Stanley E. Hartman, of Baltimore. P. M. Hart, special investigator for the motor vehicle commissioner's office in Baltimore, was present.

The courtroom was well guarded as the result of an anonymous letter received by Judge Joyce which threatened his life if he said anything about Martin at the trial. Sheriff Charles S. Early and Lieut. A. W. Hepburn, with Policemen V. M. Nichols and Harry Robertson, of the county police, were present, as well as the town police force.

Blandford created a small sensation in the courtroom when he testified, in answer to questions by Judge Joyce, that there had been a quantity of dynamite in the revenue car, and became high voiced in defense of the theory that the dynamite would not explode as the result of an accident. He did not explain why the dynamite was carried in the car.

As Martin was being led away by the marshal, Attorney Emerson called him back and in the presence of the court directed him not to make any statement about the case until he had been permitted to talk with his lawyer again.

AL CAPONE SENTENCED TO YEAR IN PHILADELPHIA ON GUN CHARGE

"The story Capone told me was this: "'I went into the racket in Chicago four and a half years ago. During the last two years I've been trying to get out, but once in the racket you're always in it, it seems. The parasites trail you, begging for favors and for money, and you can never get away from them, no matter where you go.

"'I have a wife and an 11-year-old boy I idolize, and a beautiful home at Palm Island, Fla. If I could go there and forget it all I would be the happiest man in the world. I want peace and I am willing to live and let live.

Tired of Gangs, He Says.

"'I'm tired of gang murders and gang shootings. With the idea in mind of making peace among the gangsters in Chicago, I spent the week in Atlantic City, and I have the word of each of the men participating that there shall be no more shootings.'"

Capone and Cline were picked up last night by two detectives after Al and his partner had just come out of a motion picture theater. The detectives recognized Capone and "closed in" on him.

"You're 'Scarface Al' Capone," Malone said.

"Right," answered Capone, "who are you?"

The detectives produced their badges.

"Oh, you're 'bulls,' here's my gun," said Capone as he handed over his weapon. Cline also surrendered his pistol.

Three other men believed to have been accompanying Capone and Cline disappeared into the crowd.

Events then moved rapidly. At City Hall the arrested men were searched, slated, given a hearing and held in $35,000 bail by Police Magistrate Edward P. Carney, "mugged" and fingerprinted for the rogues' gallery, and then examined for two hours by Director Schofield. Capone told of his fears, but revealed nothing of the inner secrets of Chicago gangland.

Ate Breakfast in Cell.

Then he was allowed to cat-nap on a cell bench until breakfast when he was given the usual "cell menu."

District Attorney John Monaghan, who has been investigating gangland in Philadelphia and its ramifications in other cities, got busy, while Capone and his guard were "stood up" before the detective squad. Capone first said he had been arrested only once for a minor offense, but when Capt. Emanuel, of the Detective Bureau, produced his record, Capone admitted other arrests and then boasted that he had never served a minute's time. The two men then were taken before the grand jury, promptly indicted and taken into court. The police moves were so swift that Bernard L. Lemisch and Cornelius Haggarty, jr., counsel for the men, had no time to seek court writs for their release or halt the men in their rapid march to the bar of justice.

When Capone and Cline faced Judge Walsh and were asked how they pleaded they stood mute and the court clerk, in accordance with law, recorded "not guilty." It took only 44 minutes to select a jury. Counsel for Capone then were given 30 minutes to confer with their clients. At the end of the recess, Lemisch held a 15-minute talk with Judge Walsh, and then to the surprise of the spectators counsel for the prisoners announced that they each pleaded guilty.

Judge Walsh instantly sentenced the two men to one year in the county prison. This is the maximum prison sentence, the court, under the law, could have added the maximum fine of $500.

Says He Missed Train.

Capone told Director Schofield that he came from Atlantic City yesterday intending to go to Chicago by train, but his motor car broke down on the way here and he had to cancel his railroad reservation. He and Cline had made reservations on a later train and had gone to the "movies" to wait until train time. He said they were on their way to north Philadelphia Station when the detectives picked them up.

Magistrate Carney told the prisoners he was sorry he could not hold them in even heavier bail. Addressing Capone, the magistrate said:

"Authorities in some cities, including district attorneys, are afraid of you. But Philadelphia is not afraid of you, Mr. Al Capone, and I am not afraid of you!

"I don't know your companion, but I take it he is quite in your class. I order you both held in $35,000 bail for court. My only regret is that you are not before me on charges which would justify me ridding the United States of you both forever!"

Charges Him as Killer.

Bernard L. Lemisch, appeared as attorney for Capone and Cline. When his insistent demands for lower bail met with abrupt refusal Lemisch asked Magistrate Carney, "what have you got on Capone?"

"He's a killer," retorted Carney.

"Who did he kill?" queried Lemisch.

Director of Public Safety Schofield, who attended the hearing, said, "he won't kill anybody for a while now."

As Capone was being led away to his cell he wiped the perspiration from his forehead, saying: "This is some city. They work fast here. I've only got $10,000 on me, but I'll beat this rap. Nothing to it."

Chicago, May 17 (A.P.).—A loud laugh of gratification came from Chicago's law enforcement circles today at the news of the skillfully greased Philadelphia legal skid which landed boozedom's "Big Shot" Alphonse Capone behind the bars with a year's jail sentence pinned to his lapel.

Legal Rulings Aided Action.

It was explained that a conviction for carrying concealed weapons such as obtained in Philadelphia was difficult here because of quirks in legal ruling.

The conviction, the first of its kind returned against "the big fellow" in nearly a decade of activity in racket land, was gleefully pointed to as the beginning of the end of his power in the underworld here.

There was little comment on the "Scarface Al" story of having effected a gangland truce at Atlantic City. Capone has sued for peace, but there is no peace in gunman's land.

It was believed the champion booze runner had "taken the rap" smilingly, glad to evade for a while rival gangsters who have been threatening his life and escape the constant payment of graft to which Capone is subject. He will have no need of expensive bodyguards, either, in Philadelphia's jail.

End of Career Seen.

"This is the beginning of the end of Al Capone's career," said the veteran prosecutor, Frank J. Loesch, who is president of Chicago's crime commission.

"I believe his idea has been for some time to get into a jail where he will be safe from rival gang vengeance in store for him.

"Many people wonder why we in Chicago have not been able to send notorious gangsters to jail with such dispatch. (It took them just sixteen hours in the Quaker City.) Our State Supreme Court has ruled that a police officer can not search a man for a gun unless he has a warrant, and if he does so the man arrested is discharged because his constitutional rights have been violated."

State's Attorney John A. Swanson grinned.

"The Philadelphia authorities are to be congratulated," he declared. "Apparently in Philadelphia officers do not need a warrant to arrest a man carrying a gun."

"Great news," laughed Commissioner of Police William F. Russell. "Believe me, it takes a lot off my mind."

Underworld Sees Retreat.

The underworld's reaction to the sentence was that Capone's power was ended here and that he took "the rap" more to evade Federal action here than because of the fear of rival booze runners.

The Federal charge against Capone is that he swore falsely in an affidavit that his health was such as to keep him from coming to Chicago from Florida to testify before a grand jury.

"The fact that he took a plea is the tip-off," said one hoodlum. "If he didn't want to go to jail he'd have a flock of lawyers and money talks in Philadelphia just like it does in Chicago. Why, he could have pleaded not guilty, and no matter what happened, he could always get bail while his lawyers were taking an appeal to the higher courts."

Among the most notorious of boozedom's founders in Chicago, Capone has been a commanding figure, but he dislikes his job. As long ago as January, 1927, he declared he was out of the racket and has spent much of his time at his beautiful home in Florida.

His reputation for being an implacable punisher to those whose power threatened his revenue, continued to stalk him, however, and required a constant, expensive force of bodyguards. When the seven men were shot down in a garage here St. Valentine's Day, the first comment from the leader of that gang, "Bugs" Moran, was: "Only one gang kills like that—the Capone gang."

LILLI LEHMANN DIES AT 81; NOTED AS DIVA

Opera Star, Who Retired 25 Years Ago, Ranked High as Opera Singer.

WELL KNOWN IN AMERICA

Berlin, May 17 (A.P.).—Lilli Lermann, famous opera singer, died today at the age of 81.

(Associated Press.)

During the last quarter of the nineteenth century Lilli Lehmann was one of the most powerful operatic magnets of two continents.

She was an outstanding star in years when the musical drama boasted of such great artists as Lillian Nordica, Minnie Hauk, Marcella Sembrich, Emma Eames and Emma Juch among prima donnas, and Albert Niemann, Max Alvary, Jean and Edourd De Reszke, Paul Plancon and Victor Maurel among the male singers.

It was on her eightieth birthday anniversary that world attention was again directed to the great career of this former queen of the opera stage. She had disappeared from the public eye since she responded to her last curtain call more than 25 years before and the great Lehmann was all but forgotten.

Her arrival at the fourscore year post of life not only recalled Frau Lehmann's American and European triumphs of bygone years, but disclosed that she was continuing her musical career. When she had made her last public appearance she turned from the stage to the studio and there, just as conscientiously as she had devoted herself to her numerous roles, she sought to train young singers.

Frau Lehmann was born at Wurzburg, Germany, November 24, 1848. Her mother was Marie Lehmann, a harpist of note and a prima donna who was the original heroine of some of the operas of the famous composer Spohr. Lilli was taught singing and music by her mother and made her debut at Prague when she was 20 years old. She afterward appeared at Danzig and Leipzig. Her first appearance at Berlin was in August, 1870, as Vielka in Meyerbeer's "Feldlager in Schlesien," singing with such success that she was engaged there as a light soprano, remaining until 1885.

Meanwhile, Mme. Lehmann aided in the inauguration of the great musical festivals at Beyreuth sponsored by Richard Wagner. She was the last survivor of the group of operatic stars who sand the "Niebelungenring" in 1875, with the famous composer conducting. In time she developed as one of the outstanding singers of heroine roles of Wagnerian opera.

Mme. Lehmann made her debut with the Metropolitan Opera Company in New York, November 25, 1885, singing the title role in "Carmen." She returned as a member of the company for the seasons of 1891 and 1892, singing roles in languages other than German. For four seasons thereafter she confined her engagements to European musical centers, but returned to the United States for concert work in 1897 and later again joined the Metropolitan. She made her last appearance in opera in New York in "Tannhauser" in March, 1899.

A concert tour during the season of 1901-02 marked the final singing engagements of Mme. Lehmann in the United States.

Woman Burned by Acid; Is Treated at Hospital

Mrs. Stephanie Greene, 32 years old, of 208 Tenth street southeast, was treated at Casualty Hospital last night for acid burns to one eye and her face, said to have been suffered when her husband, Arthur Greene, struck a bottle containing the caustic liquid from her lips.

Mrs. Greene's injuries followed a domestic argument, according to police reports. She left her husband and went to the kitchen. Greene followed, and when he saw his wife preparing to drink from a bottle bearing the poison label he struck the bottle away, police reported. Dr. Lewis Jimal, of Casualty Hospital, who treated Mrs. Greene, stated that she would not lose the sight of her eye.

Two Soldiers Arrested On Joy-Riding Charge

Arrested after a chase in an automobile reported to have been stolen, Joseph W. Wittman, 19 years old, and Sylvester Battisstis, 21 years old, soldiers who said they were stationed at Fort Myer, were held at First Precinct Station last night on charges of joy riding. They were arrested by Patrolman H. G. Wannamaker, of the First Precinct.

Wannamaker reported that shortly after he received a notice to be on the lookout for a car reported to have been stolen from in front of the Rialto Theater he saw the car pass, occupied by two soldiers. He commandeered a passing automobile and gave chase, overtaking the two soldiers in the rear of the President Theater.

Circus Fans to See Girl Who Had Fall

Of peculiar interest to Washington circus goers will be the appearance with Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey here Monday and Tuesday of pretty little Fannie Arley, the petite performer who was badly injured when the circus played Washington last year.

It will be recalled by thousands who watched the accident how Miss Arley fell to the ring while in the finale of her "perch act." For several weeks thereafter she was a patient in a Washington hospital and while there her fortitude and cheerfulness attracted the attention of several local persons of note who took an especial interest in her because of those things.

When Mrs. Calvin Coolidge visited the circus in Duluth last summer her first question was: "And how is the little girl who fell?" and when assured that she was again with the show and had entirely recovered her relief was visible.

HEFLIN IS RIDICULED BY ALABAMA WOMEN

White League Calls Senator "Admiral (to Be) of Anti-Catholic Fleet."

RECALLS ELECTION STAND

Birmingham, Ala., May 17 (A.P.).—The executive committee of the Alabama Women's League for White Supremacy today passed a resolution referring to United States Senator J. Thomas Heflin as "admiral (to be) of the Anti-Catholic Fleet," and deploring that the Alabaman "was not sufficiently interested last November" to vote for President Hoover, "whose cause he had so loudly championed." The league is campaigning again Heflin's reelection.

Senator Heflin declared several months ago that he did not vote the Republican ticket in the national election, but could not vote for Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic nominee.

After pointing out that Senator Heflin had asserted the election of Smith "would be a great calamity," the resolution continued that he had led "many of his friends and followers—trusting citizens of this State who believed in him—into the Republican party, but halted himself before he got there."

"This organization and, it believes, the people of Alabama would have respect for the senator if he had voted for the Hoover electors as he urged others to do, instead of putting himself in the attitude of being neither fish, flesh nor fowl—neither Democrat, Republican nor Hoover-Democrat.

"How can the senator when he is appointed admiral expect his fleet to follow his flagship into an engagement with the Pope when it remembers his action in the late election? Will it not fear that, as he did then, he will urge them to battle valiantly while he declines the combat? Or how, when he asks the people of Alabama to follow him, will those whom he persuaded to do, what he himself would not assure themselves that he really means it? Will they follow him, 'The man who would not vote?'"

CHILE AND PERU AGREE.

The acceptance by Chile and Peru of the stipulations proposed by President Hoover for the settlement of the Tacna-Arica dispute removes from the horizon of South America a cloud that has darkened it for nearly fifty years. The settlement is made almost wholly upon agreements reached by the two republics themselves, and their ready acceptance of the final point suggested by Mr. Hoover is proof of their desire to let bygones be bygones and to renew an old and cherished friendship.

It is greatly to the credit of both countries that this amicable agreement has been reached, in the face of the provocations that were unnecessarily raised by the faulty provisions of the arbitral award providing for a plebiscite in the disputed provinces. That award called for a vote under impossible conditions, and after long and patient efforts by Gen. Pershing, followed by Gen. Lassiter, the effort to hold a plebiscite was abandoned. The situation might easily have embittered the relations of the two countries, but the self-control of both proved equal to the occasion. Then, through the good offices of Secretary Kellogg, diplomatic relations were resumed and a direct effort made to settle the controversy by compromise. Presidents Ibanez and Leguia directed these negotiations with practical ends in view, realizing that the benefits of restored friendly relations were more important than punctilious insistence upon questions that are now more or less obsolete.

The deference shown to the suggestions of President Hoover in the final stages of the agreement is greatly appreciated, as evidence that his good-will trip to South America was of practical as well as of sentimental value.

THE NEW GOVERNOR GENERAL.

The experience of Dwight F. Davis as Secretary of War gives him a great advantage in beginning his new duties as Governor General of the Philippines. While the governor general has large discretionary powers, he is always in close touch with the War Department, and with the Secretary of War as his immediate superior. Thus Mr. Davis while Secretary of War obtained an intimate knowledge of Philippine affairs under the administration of Governor General Stimson. It may be taken for granted that he will pursue the policies of his predecessor, the larger aspects of which he helped to shape.

The contradictory aims of Filipino leaders, as shown in the demand for immediate political independence while at the same time insisting upon economic dependence upon the United States, make it necessary that the governor general shall give friendly counsel and admonition in the interest of the Filipino people. They are a kindly people, and with tactful treatment are disposed to peace and friendship. Their present political knowledge and training is so inadequate that independence would prove their undoing, but they are making progress in the right direction and will ultimately be ready to assume the responsibility which the United States has promised to transfer to them. Mr. Davis has a good opportunity during these formative years to interpret the true attitude of the United States toward the Filipino people.

BATTLE OF THE BOOKS.

Not many years ago direct-to-the-home hosiery mills put in their appearance. Old-established mills, which marketed their product through jobbers and retailers, ignored the direct-to-the-home movement until they saw that their business was being affected. Then they attempted to fight back by condemning their new rivals through resolutions, by seeking legislation directed against "peddlers," as they termed salesmen sent out by the factory, and against mail-order systems. The direct-to-the-home system, however, filled a definite economic need and the violent campaign against it failed. Thereupon the old-established mills went in for advertising their product, stressing the service rendered by the retailers and other points of superiority. Today both the direct-to-the-home and the jobber-retailer systems prosper, and more hosiery is being sold than ever before.

The publishing and bookselling industries are going through a similar experience with so-called book clubs. Several weeks ago a New York publisher attacked the book clubs and this week the American Booksellers' Association adopted a resolution vigorously condemning "the method of marketing a limited number of so-called 'best books' of the month through the self-styled 'clubs' or 'guilds' conducted for profit." But what effect will such resolutions and attacks have if, as seems to be the case, the book clubs are fulfilling an economic function?

The marketing of books, in the final analysis, is no different from the marketing of any other commodity. The book clubs represent a typically modern merchandizing development as applied to the marketing of books.

The principal criticism against book clubs—that they tend to standardize public reading habits—is valid. They distributed last year some 2,000,000 books and their clientele is said to be increasing. But the way to compete with them lies in making available a large assortment of books, widely advertised, attractively displayed and easily obtainable by the reading public. Booksellers and publishers should cooperate toward this end. If they succeed in impressing upon the public the value of the independent bookseller to the community, stressing the services he renders that the book club can not render, it will be found that there is plenty of business for both the bookseller and the club.

THE GRAF ZEPPELIN'S MOTORS.

Doubtless more will be heard regarding the engines of the Graf Zeppelin, the breakdown of which forced the abandonment of its flight to the United States after it had reeled off 1,200 kilometers of the course. It seems inconceivable that engines of high quality, that had been tested and retested under every conceivable circumstance, should have simultaneously broken down. The natural suspicion is that they were tampered with.

The inauspicious ending of the attempted transatlantic flight, while it may furnish an argument against the practicability of lighter-than-air craft, does not prove conclusively that such ships are impracticable. The Graf Zeppelin admittedly is not well suited for transatlantic operation, primarily because it is too small. Dr. Eckener admitted as much after he landed at Lakehurst last fall. The size of the ship was restricted, he said, to the size of the hangars at Friedrichshafen in which it was constructed. It represented a compromise that was useful only for experimental purposes. Nevertheless, the transatlantic flight was completed last autumn, and the unsuccessful attempt that ended with the landing of the ship at Cuers, France, yesterday, was not due to faulty planning or construction.

It is noteworthy that Dr. Eckener embarked upon the flight only after the most thorough preparation. Following the stormy crossing of last October the Graf Zeppelin was completely overhauled, and last month the ship was taken on extended cruises to the Near East and over the Mediterranean. On Monday the ship went through a two-hour test flight and its power plant functioned perfectly. The failure of the motors on this flight constitutes a mystery that will no doubt be probed to the bottom.

STATE IMPEACHMENTS.

Louisiana is not so successful in its impeachments as Oklahoma. The Legislature of the latter State has the scalps of a number of governors on its belt, but the first attempt at impeachment ever essayed by the lawmakers of Louisiana has ended in ignominious failure. It is not quite clear whether the inexperience of the Louisiana savants counted against them or whether their intended victim, Gov. Huey P. Long, was more clever in his maneuvers than the unfortunate Gov. Johnston. At any rate, Oklahoma still holds the title in this type of political sport.

Gov. Long, who is reported to be the youngest State chief executive in the United States, faced impeachment charges voted by the Louisiana Legislature, which he convoked into extraordinary session. The squabble started over his attempt to force through the Legislature an occupational tax on oil. The tax was defeated and the attempt at impeachment came as the aftermath. The House of Representatives voted eight counts against him, charging misuse of State funds, attempts to bribe legislators and suppress the freedom of the press and general incompetency.

The case came to a dramatic end just as the senate, which was sitting as a court of impeachment, was ready to begin taking testimony. The governor had been able to win the support of fifteen senators, and when they announced that they would vote for acquittal regardless of what the testimony showed there was no longer reason for conducting the trial. The Senate has only 39 members and a majority of two-thirds is necessary for conviction. The strategy displayed in this move indicates that the youthful governor is a politician of no mean accomplishments. He not only escapes a possible conviction, but shuts off a stream of damaging evidence which was ready for presentation to the Senate.

It does not appear likely, however, that this maneuver will put an end to the factional dispute between the governor and the Legislature. The 24 senators who wished to proceed with the impeachment proceedings accepted the motion to adjourn only because any other action would have been futile. A caucus which followed the announcement of the Long supporters resulted in a statement deploring the arbitrary stand taken by the minority group. To say the least, the conclusion of the case was very unsatisfactory. The charges against the governor remain neither proved nor disproved, and the majority faction in the Senate is left in an ugly mood. Prospects are good for a genuine Southern squabble, and the rights of Oklahoma to the political fisticuff title may yet be challenged.

MILAN STEFANIK.

Memorial services for Gen. Milan R. Stefanik, which are being held this month by his countrymen throughout the world, recall the work of this patriot in creating the new State of Czechoslovakia. Gen. Stefanik was killed in May, 1919, when an airplane crashed in which he was returning home from Italy.

As a naturalized French citizen, Stefanik entered the French army at the beginning of the war as a volunteer in the capacity of an airman. As early as 1915 he became associated with Prof. Masaryk and Dr. Benes as a member of the Czech foreign committee, which was in charge of the movement abroad for Czechoslovakia independence. He represented the movement in Russia, France, Italy and later in the United States. He was instrumental in adding thousands of Czechs and Slovaks to the allied armies in the hope of breaking the grip of Austria on the ancient Bohemian kingdom. When the provisional Czechoslovak government was recognized by the allies Stefanik became minister of war and had charge of the Czechoslovak army in Siberia.

Together with Masaryk and Benes, Stefanik deserves credit for building a new nation. In a military sense he is the George Washington of his country, and is fully entitled to the honor bestowed upon him. Citizens of the republic he helped to create, who are today reaping the benefits of his patriotism, do well to commemorate the anniversary of his death.

CAPONE MAKES JAIL.

"Scarface" Al Capone, Chicago gangster, for the first time in his life is behind prison bars. On Thursday night he was arrested by Philadelphia detectives on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. Twelve hours later he was indicted by a county grand jury, and less than two hours later he was sentenced to a year in the county prison by Judge Walsh of the municipal court. At 12:50 yesterday afternoon he entered Moyamensing prison.

For years Al Capone has been a conspicuous figure in Chicago's underworld. Hardly a gang killing has occurred without mention of his name. Yet he never was locked up, never booked for a crime, never photographed and never fingerprinted until he ventured into Philadelphia this week. His arrest is important enough of itself, but it is doubly important in that it serves to throw light upon one of the underlying causes of the Chicago crime wave.

CHEATING THE STATES

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

While the special session of Congress was called particularly to deal with tariff revision and farm relief, there were two "matters of emergency legislation" which President Hoover mentioned in his message and "recommended their consummation as in the public interest." These were the 1930 census and the reapportionment of the House of Representatives. Combined in one measure, they are now before the Senate, where alone serious obstruction is to be expected, and have the right of way.

Of course, these measures should be routine and automatic. Both the taking of the census and the reapportionment of the House on the basis of population are mandatory in the Constitution, and it is hard to see how any valid ground could be found for opposition to these plain and simple obligations. As a matter of fact, there is no valid argument against them. The opposition is spurious and the attempts to evade and dodge are indefensible.

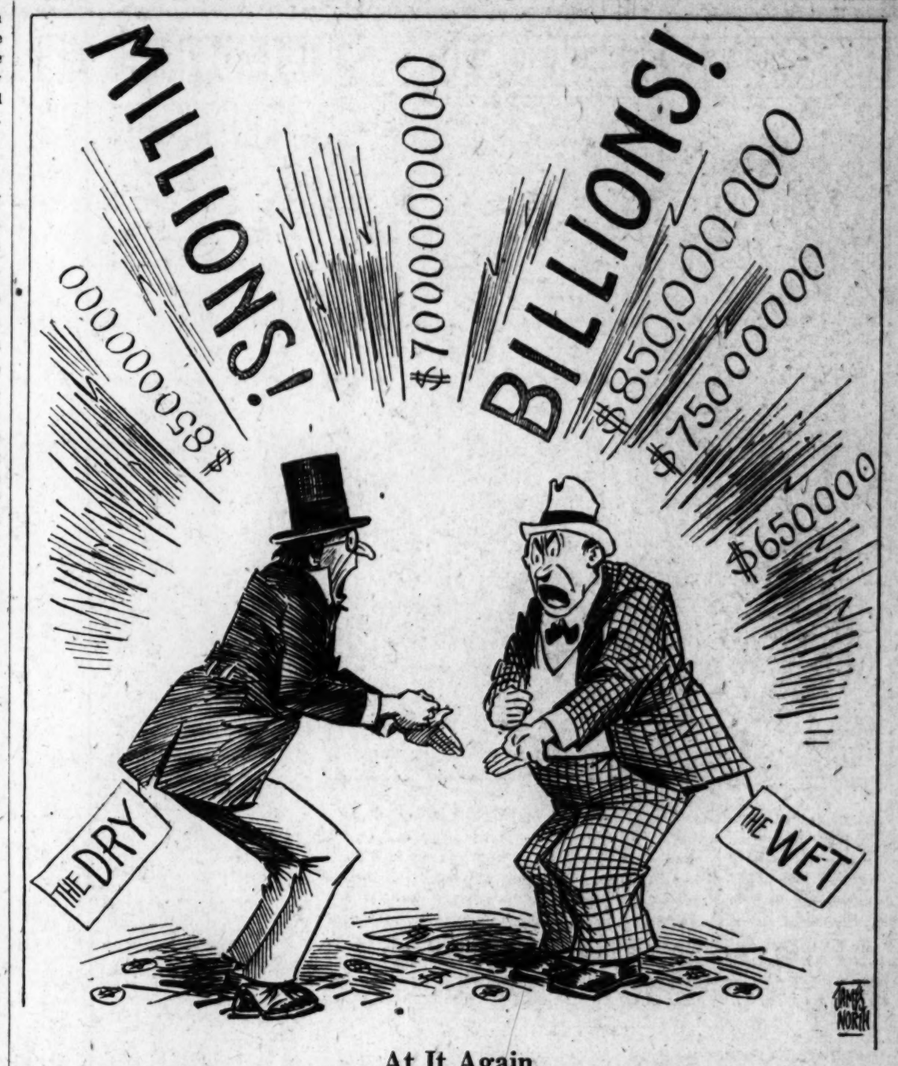
The Constitution, among enemies as among friends, has a hard row to hoe. As against the clear command of the Constitution in this case, for instance, are arrayed the desire of some States—or rather, perhaps, some representatives thereof—to have an unfair advantage over others as to representation in the House; the unwillingness of rural sections to allow the city dwellers to have their just share in the Government, and last, but far from least, the fear of the drys that reapportionment might mean the loss of a few votes in the House, where their majority is neatly sealed, ticketed and ready for delivery on any occasion.

Eleven States would be deprived of their constitutional rights by failure of this legislation. Arizona, Connecticut, Florida, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Washington would be short one representative in the House. New Jersey and Texas would be short two; Ohio, three; Michigan, four, and California, six. Those which would hold their unfair advantage number seventeen: Alabama, Kansas, Louisiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Nebraska, New York, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Vermont and Virginia, by one vote in the House; Indiana, Iowa, Mississippi and Kentucky, by two, and Missouri, by three.

It is plain that a count of votes on this strict line-up, even in the Senate, could not defeat reapportionment, if the 40 senators whose States would remain unaffected voted for the Constitution and good sense. If and when the matter comes to a straight-out vote in the Senate, the legislation is assured of enactment. But a fight is a fight, especially among senators, and such are the advantage and premium which the Senate's procedure puts upon obstructive and filibustering tactics that mere numbers often do not mean majority rule.

The House of Representatives has acted favorably upon census and reapportionment legislation and stands ready to do so again. In the Senate, only a filibuster during the closing days of the last session defeated it. It seems obvious that this measure will ultimately be consummated at the special session.

There is some talk to the effect that Congress, after getting itself into as hopeless a tangle as possible over tariff and farm relief, may later recess for a month. As there seems no probability that the special session will also be a short session, the desire for a summer vacation and relief from Washington's heat is understandable. But before they go, and even before they decide to go, the Senate and the House should have pressure brought to bear on them to enact at least this census-reapportionment bill. It would be little enough to show as a result of their springtime labors.



At It Again.

Henry Ford, 40 years old, was earning $3,000 a year.

After all, something seems to have happened, something seems to have changed.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE:

The question you asked at dinner yesterday is one the world has debated for ages without finding an answer.

What is bedtime?

The answer must remain, as always, a matter of personal opinion and preference. Old people and plowboys go to bed at dark; gay metropolitans turn in reluctantly at dawn; but young girls who have killjoy dads seldom are permitted to choose their own time.

Night before last you were up until 11 o'clock, and last night, having been invited to a party, you wished to break the rule again.

You had the better of the argument, too, for I know it is embarrassing to leave a party at 10 o'clock if the others show symptoms of remaining until midnight.

You dreaded their teasing. You knew they would call you a baby; and your pride shrank from that, for sixteen can not endure any reference to its immaturity.

I understood your side well enough, but there is another side and you made little effort to understand it.

So far as teasing and ridicule are concerned, you must make up your mind to grin and bear it. The world always sneers at those who will not follow its lead. Other groups at other parties will laugh at you because you will not smoke or take a drink. But when you know you are right you can afford to ignore the critics. They sneer to soothe their own consciences. They know they are wrong, and your refusal to join them is a rebuke. They snap at you because you have hurt them.

As to the right and wrong of 10 o'clock bedtime, that is a matter easily decided by common sense.

Obviously there must be some set time, both for the sake of convenience and because all experience has shown that regular habits make the mind and body function better.

If there must be a set time, who shall set it? There is no curfew. Shall I let other parents and other youngsters choose your bedtime, or shall I do it? It seems to me I have the right, regardless of what others say or do.

In most of the girls' colleges, lights are out at 10 o'clock.

Sleep is nature's great restorer, and all men of science agree it is essential to abundant health. Since you get up at 7 in the morning, you must get to bed at 10 in order to get the full nine hours of rest essential to a girl of sixteen.

Party or no party, ridicule or no ridicule, I must safeguard your health until you learn to do it yourself.

You never have been sick, and your bedtime has always been early and regular. That is a sufficient answer to the unhealthy ones who tease you. I'd rather have you provoked at me than to see hollows under your eyes.

DAD.

ARTIST, INVENTOR AND SCIENTIST.

The spiral spring hinge that shuts your screen door was invented by Leonardo da Vinci, the fifteenth-century painter, whose "La Belle Ferroniere" recently was the subject of an extended lawsuit. Leonardo's fame as a painter has obscured his reputation as an inventor and a trail blazer of science. Yet he stated scientific laws that four centuries of experiment have not altered and many of his simplest inventions have become part of our daily lives. He devised the wheelbarrow, the rotating smokestack that turns with the wind and the flexible roller chain used on bicycle sprockets.

Every child in school, doing problems in addition and subtraction, is helped by this genius of long ago, who is said upon competent authority to have invented the plus and minus signs used the world over, writes Edwin W. Teale in Popular Science Monthly for June.

Early in the sixteenth century he drew a map of the globe, said to be the first to include America, and also showing an imaginary Antarctic continent. Even before Columbus sailed from Spain Leonardo not only maintained that the earth was round, but calculated its diameter to be more than 7,000 miles. The actual diameter, as now accepted, is roughly 7,900 miles.

Many pages of his manuscripts were filled with notes on soaring birds and sketches of a proposed flying machine. They indicate that he invented the parachute and also designed a balloon two and a half centuries before the brothers Montegolfier, who are credited with the invention of the balloon in 1783. There is no record that Leonardo ever made a trial of any of his proposed flying machines, but, after studying the plans, John William Lieb, an American mechanical engineer, has said: "Leonardo da Vinci stopped just short of practical results owing to the lack of a modern motor."

His aerial experiment led him to the conclusion, long before Newton, that "a weight seeks to fall to the center of the earth by the most direct way." Before Copernicus, Leonardo wrote: "The sun does not move," and proclaimed that the earth rotates about it. A century before Galileo he proposed a telescope, making a note on his manuscript: "Construct glasses to see the moon magnified." It has been truly said that Leonardo da Vinci discovered twenty laws, a single one of which has sufficed for the glory of his successors.

Up to his last days he was busy painting and studying. This was as he had wished. "As a well-spent day brings happy sleep," he had often said, "so life well used brings happy death."

Once it was the Englishman who was hailed as the great globe trotter. In Paris, in Naples, in Cairo, in Tokyo, or Timbuktu, says Nation's Business, his impedimenta of boxes, bags, rugs and the inevitable tin bathtub passed as the highest hallmarks of Anglo-Saxon civilization.

Today the steamer trunk and the suitcase, or the newfangled ingenuities which have taken their place, are having their innings. For more than twenty years the world's greatest traveler has been the American, and each year sees him becoming so thoroughly intrenched behind the title that nobody can wrest it away from him—not while American business keeps on spreading over the earth and shopkeepers abroad continue to reckon as their real harvest time the season when the dollar of the Yankee tourist appears on their horizon.

Of late almost every European country has built new hotels or rebuilt its old ones in an effort to cater to the American traveler, but each year it seems harder and harder—at least, in certain favored foreign cities—to provide American visitors with the comfort and luxury they consider essential.

In brief, every facility for travel so far devised is at the disposal of the American who wishes to travel. Even the lighter-than-air ship has been proven practical, even if it may be several years before greater Graf Zeppelins and bigger passenger-carrying planes are in regular service between the United States and Europe.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Washington Man Recalls Old Stories Concerning Lincoln.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: For the first time John P. Simonton, of Washington, is to receive public credit for the years of research he has devoted to the history of Abraham Lincoln's last days. Simonton, who retired recently from his post in the Judge Advocate's office, was found by Lloyd Lewis, the historian, who was collecting material for a book on the legends and folk tales that grew up about Lincoln. That book, just published under the title, "Myths After Lincoln," gives Simonton the first acknowledgment that he has ever received.

"In hunting new material about John Wilkes Booth and the assassination of Lincoln," says the author, "I was referred to Simonton by Maj. Willis Crittenberger, of the War Department. Simonton had shortly before retired after over 40 years of service.

"He gave me information as cheerfully as he had been giving other details to other historians and writers for two-score years. His researches into the mystery surrounding the death of John Wilkes Booth, assassin of Lincoln, exceed those of any other man of his time. During his service in the Judge Advocate's office he was regarded as an expert on evidence, and his search into the papers and facts concerning Booth was microscopic. At the end of 40 years' study of the question from all angles he still believes that Booth avoided justice and that the War Department in 1865 killed an innocent man for the assassin. However, in recent years, he told me, he had become doubtful, due to new evidence, and admitted that the Government probably had buried the right man.

"Most interesting of all Simonton's recollections is that which throws a new light upon the motives for killing Lincoln. Simonton remembers the time in the spring of 1865 when many Washingtonians believed that Booth had killed Lincoln not out of sympathy for the Confederacy, but for the love of a Washington belle, Lily Beall. Miss Beall was Booth's fiancee, this story ran, and she asked the actor to intercede for her brother, Capt. John Y. Beall, who was doomed to be executed for raids on Great Lakes commerce. Booth went to Lincoln in the night, with mutual friends, and pleaded with the President until Lincoln gave in. Booth journeyed to New York, where Beall was imprisoned, to tell him the glad news, but on arriving there found that Beall had been hanged. Coming back to Washington, he discovered that Secretary of State Seward had persuaded Lincoln to rescind the reprieve, whereupon Booth killed Lincoln out of vengeance.

"Mr. Simonton does not vouch for the truth of the story, but merely reports it as an example of the folk-lore of the period."

Another of the legends related by Mr. Simonton deals with the reputed suicide of Edwin M. Stanton, Lincoln's Secretary of War. As quoted by Lewis, Simonton says:

"One day a man came into my office and in the course of conversation told me that he was a friend of the undertaker who had handled Stanton's body. He said that he had gone with the embalmer to Stanton's home and found that the family had bound up the dead man's throat very high with a white cloth. He had heard that Stanton had cut his throat and wanted to look and see if it was true, but he couldn't, for there was always a woman standing by the head of the bed watching. When the woman at last left the room for a moment, this man examined the corpse and found its throat cut from ear to ear."

Lewis has collected evidence to prove that these once widely believed stories were wholly fictional and publishes them among many other tales equally strange, as examples of the fevered condition of the national mind at the end of the war.

Washington Permits Increase of Smoke Evil While Chicago Awakes to Its Fatal Effects.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I call your attention to this clipping from the Chicago Tribune. At the very time that Chicago has realized the peril and is endeavoring to eradicate the evil, Washington is allowing this menace to make headway.

WILLIS J. RUTLEDGE.

The Chicago Tribune clipping, dated May 14, reads in part as follows:

"The largest uncontrolled menace to Chicago health is smoke," Health Commissioner A. H. Kegel yesterday told the legislative committee holding public hearings on bills to compel electrification of the city's railway terminals.

Dr. Kegel said it is believed that the death rate could be reduced from about 12 per 1,000 population to 10 if smoke were eliminated. That is a reduction of one-sixth. That one-sixth reduction means the city health officials believe that between 5,000 and 6,000 persons are killed each year by Chicago smoke. The city's total deaths are about 35,600 annually.

"It would take twenty hours to present in detail our views of the evil of smoke to human beings," said Commissioner Kegel. "I shall only sketch a few high points. When the garment of a person becomes begrimed with smoke, soot and cinders, it can be washed. That can not be done with a human being.

"When the carbon particles lodge in the lung tissues, the damage is permanent; and the lungs become blacker as carbon consumption grows. The eyes, nose and throat are affected. In this smoke city nearly every one is affected with chronic bronchitis. Sinus infections are numerous.

"The lungs were made to handle air only; when they are called on to take care of carbon irritants, their capacity is undermined. That prepares the field for bronchial and lobar pneumonia. It prepares the way for tuberculosis.

"While Chicago has used every known method of combating tuberculosis, we still have about 47,000 cases constantly. With the lungs partly incapacitated, a larger load is placed on the kidneys, the heart and the liver, with unfavorable results.

"The largest amounts of tuberculosis is in the territory between Division street and Jackson Park, where there are the most railroad locomotives."

REALTORS INDORSE FINANCIAL INQUIRY

Letter From Board Pledges Aid to Brookhart and Committee in Quiz.

ETHICAL STANDARD CITED

In a letter addresesd to Senator Brookhart (Republican), of Iowa, the executive committee of the Washington Real Estate Board declared yesterday that it welcomed the proposed investigation of real estate financing operations here.

The investigation is provided for in a resolution which has been introduced by Brookhart and which is now before a subcommittee of the Senate District committee, headed by Senator Blaine (Republican), of Wisconsin.

The letter to Brookhart, which is signed by John A. Petty, executive secretary of the Real Estate Board, says:

Letter to Brookhart.

"At a meeting of the executive committee of this board held today, the subject matter of rhe resolution known as Senate resolution, No. 58, introduced by you last week was given consideration, and I was directed to communicate to you the following expressions of the executive committee of this board.

"In its opinion the mortgage loan business in the District of Columbia is, as a whole, conducted on a sound basis and in a manner to insure the safety of this form of investment.

"Anxious to Protect Integrity.

"Believing in the integrity of this business and anxious to protect it from any improper or unsound practices, the executive committee of this board welcomes the investigation called for in your resolution.

"We feel that if there exist any practices detrimental to the best interests of mortgage loan investors or the mortgage loan business, the full facts should be uncovered and such corrective measures applied definitely to eliminate them that the good name of the National Capital may be free from any taint of suspicion in respect to mortgages secured on real estate located therein or to the operations of the mortgage business conducted therein.

"The board desires to extend to you or any committee of the Senate charged with the duty of making the investigation its sincere cooperation and assistance within its power."

Kidnaping of Boy, 7, Hoax, Says Father

Story Is Told in an Effort to Effect Reconciliation With Wife, He Admits.

New York, May 17 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Louis George, 35 years old, prosperous inventor and mechanical engineer, of Brooklyn, who last Wednesday stirred many detectives into activity by reporting at Classon Avenue Station that his son Ronald, 7 years old, had been kidnaped, tonight confessed at the same station he had concocted the kidnaping story as part of a plot to effect a reconciliation with his estranged wife.

While detectives were searching cellars and many buildings in a wide area of Brooklyn, George told Capt. Gegan, in command of detectives of the Classon Avenue Station, Ronald, traveling alone in a Pullman car, was on his way to the home of a friend near Scranton, Pa. He had hoped, George said, that his wife Evelyn would read newspaper accounts of the "kidnaping" of Ronald, the eldest of four children and her favorite, and come home.

The detectives, who spent many fruitless hours in the search for the supposed kidnaped boy, were angered tonight at first when told of George's confession, but sympathized when they heard his story. Even Capt. Gegan intimated that things might not prove so bad as they seem at present to George.

Husband of Woman Passenger Elated

H. P. J. Pierce Had Sought to Keep Wife From Trip in Graf Zeppelin.

New York May 17 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—There may have been keen disappointment on the part of Mrs. Henry P. J. Pierce, only women passenger on the Graf Zeppelin, when the airship was forced back, but Mr. Pierce was happy when he heard the news.

"I am delighted that the ship came down safely," he said at his home at the Park Lane Hotel tonight. "I am very happy to know that Mrs. Pierce is safe."

A radiogram received by the Columbia Broadcasting Co. from its correspondent, Frank E. Nicholson, the novelist, paid tribute to the pluck of Mrs. Pierce.

Mr. Pierce made a determined effort to keep his wife from becoming a passenger when he learned Tuesday that she intended to cross in the Zeppelin. He talked to her for 20 minutes on the telephone at a cost of about $500. He had expected to join her in Europe in a month.

Eccentric Millionaire, Who Married Six, Dies

San Francisco, May 17 (A.P.).—The death here of James Clay Dunphy, 63, eccentric millionaire, was disclosed last night. Dunphy was a son of the late William Dunphy, wealthy cattle man, of California and Nevada. Married six times, Dunphy gained especial note when he eloped with "Dodie" Valencia, well-known San Francisco woman, and applied for an annulment six days later.

Because of his lavish gifts to women and his extravagant habits, Dunphy was at one time declared incompetent and placed under guardianship of a sister. Later he was restored to competency.

Bill Creates Concordat Of Prussia and Holy See

Berlin, May 17 (A.P.).—A bill establishing a concordat between Prussia and the Holy See was passed by the Prussian Ministry of State tonight after three hours of debate.

The draft now goes to the ministry of public instruction for final modifications before being initialed by the Prussian premier and Papal Nuncio Pacelli. The draft will then return to the ministry and thence to the diet, where it needs a two-thirds majority to become law.

Four Hurt When Gale Hits Towns in Texas

Wichita Falls, Tex., May 17 (A.P.).—The Wichita Falls Record-News tonight learned that four persons were injured and property damage exceeding $100,000 caused by a high wind, accompanied by heavy rain and hail, that struck six northwest Texas towns late today.

GERMAN CONDITIONS SNARL DEBT PARLEY

No Agreement Reached on Reservations as End of Conference Looms.

LONG DISCUSSIONS HELD

Paris, May 17 (A.P.).—Representatives of the creditor nations at the reparations conference had difficulty today in agreeing on a method of dealing with the German conditions on acceptance of the reparations settlement proposed by Owen D. Young.

After having discussed them together for three and a half hours today, as well as four hours yesterday and many hours of study by individual delegations, they adjourned discussion of the subject tonight until tomorrow morning.

Conversation among the experts today dwelt on the three German reservations without bringing about an agreement as to any of them. Their decision involves legal interpretations that require careful study, so that there now is little prospect for finishing consideration of the conditions this week.

After a brief session tomorrow, the committee will adjourn until Monday afternoon. It is expected that a prompt decision will be demanded then, in view of the temper of the experts, who are tired of talking. Every one connected with the conference is tired of the long, involved contentions that make up its work.

If an agreement is not then in sight, it will be proposed to close the committee's report with the inclusion of Mr. Young's proposals, the German conditions and any reservations the allies may care to make.

The general opinion is that the question of repartition of the annuities among the Allies themselves must go to the Governments involved anyway. Rather than prolong the work of the committee beyond next week, it would be better to leave for the governments the work of making a compromise on the annuities and the conditions as well.

With one accord the experts refused to comment today on Secretary of State Stimson's declaration that directors of the American Federal Reserve System could not participate in the management of the proposed international bank.

In authoritative quarters it is pointed out that it makes no difference whether the American members of the directorate are from the Federal Reserve Board or not.

In certain American quarters not connected with the reparations conference it is even held that the American Government lacks authority to say whether Federal Reserve directors may or may not accept such a post.

Brown Reveals Plans On New Air Mail Line

Special to The Washington Post.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 17.—An air mail line between Washington and Pittsburgh will be established and lighted as soon as possible after the survey now being made of the route is completed and another line from New York to this city is assured before long, Postmaster General Walter F. Brown told Pittsburgh aviation leaders at a meeting following the annual membership luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce this afternoon.

The Postmaster General stated that Pittsburgh is a great center of postal activities, not so must in mail originating here as in transit bound for other sections of the country. The establishment of the Washington line will be a wonderful benefit to the city in the matter of making connections to other places, he said, and plans are being pushed to get it started.

3 LARGE BUS LINES JOINED IN MERGER

25,000 Miles With More Than 1,000 Coaches Involved in $30,000,000 Combine.

COVER ENTIRE COUNTRY

Chicago, May 17 (A.P.).—Consummation of a merger of three key motor transport companies controlling stage lines in nearly every State and representing a capitalization of $30,000,000 was announced today. The merger will bring together, through an exchange of stock, the Greyhound Lines operated by the Motor Transit Corporation with headquarters in Chicago; the Yelloway System with offices on the Pacific Coast, and the Pickwick Stages, with general offices at Los Angeles.

The bus lines operated as a subsidiary of the Southern Pacific Railway will be a party to the union.

Pacific Coast operations of the new company will be controlled by Pacific Transportation Securities, Inc. One-third ownership will be held each by the Motor Transit Corporation of Chicago, the Pickwick Corporation and the Southern Pacific Co.

The Greyhound Lines operating east of the Mississippi will be undisturbed by the merger.

All the companies involved will retain their individual identities but will be operated under combined control.

Twenty-five thousand miles of bus lines come under control of the combination, with more than 1,000 buses in use.

AIR FORCE SUFFERS BIG LOSS IN BATTLE

Blues Partly Successful in Lockbourne Raid; Fail in Hebron Attack.

REDS LAND THEIR TROOPS

Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, May 17.—Fierce fighting deep in the territory of the Red army occurred at Lockbourne and Hebron, Ohio, this afternoon in the mimic warfare between divided sections of the U. S. Army Air Corps and imaginary ground troops. Two parties of bombers, attack planes and pursuit ships were sent out from this base of the belligerent Blue Nation and crossed the front line in an effort to demoralize the Red group troops. Fifteen bombers proceeded to Hebron, in the lower extremity of Licking County, to blow up a Red motor and arsenal depot that had been spotted there by observation ships.

At Lockbourne, 30 miles to the southwest, in the southern corner of Franklin County and not far from Norton Field, Columbus, where the Red air forces are quartered, 25 30 Red troops were to be detrained late in the afternoon.

Fearing the danger of an attack upon these important centers, Maj. Frank Reynolds, in charge of the Red air force, dispatched 41 fast pursuit ships to defend them, about the same hour that the Blue planes took off from Wright Field. They clashed in two engagements and both sides suffered big losses, according to the umpires. The decisions of the umpires, who judge the loss of planes and men killed by the skill of the opposing pilots in maneuvering on the offensive and defensive, indicated that the Blue attack was only partly successful.

In the battle of Hebron the third-attack group of the Blue army, with 26 ships in flight, dealt imaginary death and destruction over the motor depot in an attack with small hand bombs and machine guns.

But the Blue bombardment expedition to Lockbourne was a failure and the Red army successfully landed its troops.

COLLEGES PLANNING DETECTIVE SCHOOLS

Chicago Institutions Will Train Scientific Sleuths to End Nation's Crime Wave.

VOLLMER IS PROFESSOR

Chicago, May 17 (A.P.).—Indignant at the growth of crime on its body politic, its reputation smirched by the smoking guns of gangsters, the City of Chicago will cradle its own potential deliverer—the superdetective.

This creature, heretofore only a myth of fiction, will be made into flesh and blood to replace the policeman whose chief qualification often is but a stout heart.

Two of America's leading universities, both in hicago, have hung up handwriting on the wall for the heretofore undetected murderer, thief, firebrand, kidnaper, racketeer and other transgressors on the peace and comfort of society. Police work will henceforth be a part of the curriculum at Northwestern and Chicago Universities—and racket-ridden Chicago will be their research laboratory.

Chicago University Tells Plans.

Starting with a chair of police administration, the University of Chicago plans in the near future to loose the forces of modern knowledge on crime through detectives who will be "doctors" instead of "bulls," who will replace guesswork with exact information.

Plans for the Northwestern course have not been completed.

August Vollmer, chief of police at Berkeley, Calif., will head the new department at Chicago and will inaugurate the course at the beginning of the fall semester next October.

Leonard White, professor of administration and chairman of the local community research committee at the university, who worked on the plans with Chief Vollmer, said that while the course will be confined at the outset to the problems of police administration it will become eventually a major study in which the student may work for a degree.

Special Study Planned.

Every avenue of learning that can aid in the tracking down of a criminal will be thrown open to the embryo detectives, White said. The course eventually will be designed to permit special study of one or two years as well as the full four-year college course for those who wish it.

An interdepartmental committee will cooperate with Prof. Vollmer to see that his students are well grounded in all the sciences necessary to intelligent investigation.

The student undertaking the full course will study the chemistry of poisons, criminology, sociology, psychology, physics and anthropology and learn to apply the studies to the investigation of crime.

As an indication of how other departments will cooperate with the department of police administration, White explained, the medical school will teach the police students how to detect the presence of poisons, while the department of anthropology will show them how to determine the race of a person from a strand of hair or spot of blood.

In addition to inculcating knowledge into the young Sherlock Holmes, the new department plans to publish a series of manuals on standard police practices, ballistics or the science of bullet identification, preparation of criminal cases for prosecution and on the use of hair, dust and bloodstains as crime clews. These manuals will be made available to police departments everywhere. The department also will cooperate with the Chicago Crime Commission for a central bureau of criminal statistics.

Chief Vollmer, a noncollege man, who will be raised to the title of professor in his new work, has appointed many college graduates to his force in Berkeley. Some time ago A. L. Dixon, head of Scotland Yard in Great Britain, declared him to be the only American police officer respected in Europe.

Helped Make "Lying Machine."

He was one of the inventors of the "lying machine," a contrivance which registers the blood pressure and pulse of a suspected criminal while he is being questioned. He has long used the sciences in the investigation of crime, and the city of Berkeley since 1905, when Vollmer became its chief of police, has boasted itself to be a model city so far as the public peace is concerned.

Establishment of the department of police administration at Chicago is a part of the plan of the university to bring the institution close to the practical problems of the community, White said, and fits in with the sociological research program being conducted with the city of Chicago as a laboratory.

Recently completed studies of the research committee will be available for the new course. These include studies on organized crime, suicides, parole, baile systems, hoboes, boys' gangs and how they grow into dangerous adult gangs, disorganized family life as a basis of crime and analysis of various crime centers such as the Ghetto.

RAISE IN BANK RATE REPORTED REFUSED

New York and Chicago Not Allowed 6 Per Cent as Figure, Says Paper.

SAN FRANCISCO UP TO 5

Chicago, Ill., May 17 (A.P.).—The Chicago Tribune will say tomorrow that the New York and Chicago Federal Reserve banks were refused permission of the Federal Reserve Board to raise their rediscount rates.

Directors of the Chicago Bank, at their regular meeting today, approved an advance from 5 to 6 per cent and requested authority from the Federal Reserve Board to make the change, after similar action had been taken by the New York directors Thursday, the Tribune will say.

The story will add that such requests also were made by the Boston and Philadelphia Reserve banks, with the same results. However, the paper will continue, the San Francisco bank was given authority to raise its rate from 4½ to 5 per cent, thus bringing it up to the level maintained by the other institutions.

The requests, the paper will say, were presented to the Federal Reserve Board at its meeting in Washington today, but in neither case was sanction forthcoming.

(Associated Press.)

The Federal Reserve Board announced yesterday that, effective Monday, the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco would increase its discount rate to 5 per cent.

The San Francisco bank, which has had a discount rate of 4½ per cent, is the last of the twelve Federal Reserve banks to increase the rate to 5 per cent.

Washington Bureau of The Washington Post, 1311 G Street.

Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, author of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, which was vetoed by President Coolidge, plans to fight for the passage of the measure when Congress reconvenes in December.

Brookhart, who is in Washington, said he would not attempt to push the bill through the present session of Congress, but would wait until the new session.

Maidens Invite Bachelors To Come, See, Be Conquered

Unmarried Women of Belgium Broadcast Poster Announcing Fete; Many Men Expected to Visit Town and Take Away Bride.

Paris, May 17 (U.P.).—European bachelors who have grown tired of solitude and are convinced that a wife is an asset instead of a liability are scheduled to start for Ecaussines, just across the Belgian frontier, tomorrow to be the guests of marriageable maidens there who are not afraid to ask for the husbands they want.

On Pentecost Monday the bachelors field day will be held, according to an announcement broadcast throughout Europe by the unmarried girls of Ecaussines who outnumber the men of the village by eight to five.

The field day will start with mass on Monday morning and continue through lunch, an afternoon of dancing and parlor games, a dinner cooked by the maidens themselves as proof of their ability and an evening of entertainment.

Quite happily, the madamoiselles of Ecaussines designed and had printed the posters announcing the field day and invited all bachelors who are eager to end their bachelorhood, to be their guests for one day. The posters were widely distributed and were followed by copies of a matrimonial magazine which carried many pictures and columns of propaganda.

The poster itself was frank and to the point. It said:

"Any bachelor who has grown tired of his solitude and is convinced that a wife is an asset instead of a liability is hereby invited to come to this delicious corner of the Hainaut where spring is in the air and where you will be welcomed by dozens of pretty maidens whose desires for matrimony have never been filled."

The principal feature of the day's entertainment, it was announced, will be the formal ball in the evening which will have, as its main attraction, "an intermission wherein proposing is permitted."

The plans provide for importation of reserve forces of matrimonially inclined maidens from neighboring villages if the influx of bachelors is too great.

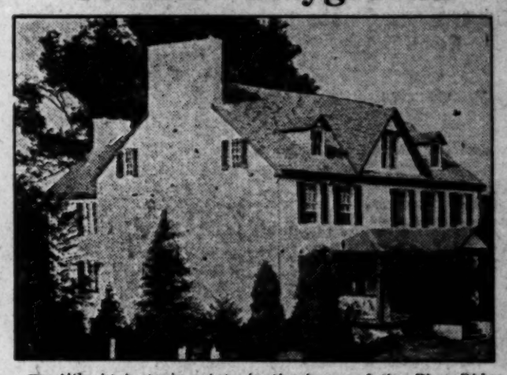
CATOCTIN MANOR ESTATE
Directly Adjoining
President Hoover's Summer Playground


This old historic estate in the heart of the Blue Ridge Mountains, 50 miles from the District Line, comprises 2,500 forested acres. The old manor house is eloquent of the more spacious hospitality of an older day with its 14 high-ceiled rooms. It still contains the original hand-carved woodwork and is truly a historical gem. Immediately adjoining the manor buildings, there is a wonderful natural park, 20 acres in extent, surrounded by a nonclimbable fence, with big old trees and fresh-water lakes where trout and other game fish rise to the sportsman's fly in satisfying size and quantity, and pure crystal-clear springs. On this tract is a mile and a half of the famous Hunting Run trout stream that has been leased for the fishing rights to Lawrence Richey, secretary to President Hoover, for a term of years.
Glimpses of deer who will even feed from your hand, and of swans may be seen through the branches of the trees. Twenty miles of bridle paths wind through the forest.
An interesting historical relic on the estate is an old furnace where cannon and cannon-ball were cast for use in the Revolutionary War.
The old English boxwood on the lawn of the estate is conceded to be the prettiest in Maryland. It has been growing since Revolutionary times and is priceless. Altitude ranges from 500 to 1,800 feet, assuring Maine weather during summer days.
This property is an ideal playground for a man of means and a lover of nature. Aside from that, its present low price and other factors should wonderfully enhance its value within a few years. Catoctin is easily the show place of Maryland.

STUDENTS WILL QUIT DES MOINES JUNE 4

Will Not Return, Resolution Says; Accuse Shields of Being Unfair.

FIGHT ON WRIT STARTS

Des Moines, May 17 (A.P.).—Students of Des Moines University today passed a resolution in chapel saying none of them would return to the institution after June 4. The resolution was wired to the Baptist Bible Union of North America, fundamentalist organization which finances the school and is in convention at Buffalo, N. Y.

The resolution said the students felt they "have been treated unfairly by the board of trustees in their dismissing of our president, Dr. H. C. Wayman, the present faculty, thus jeopardizing our credits and the standing of this institution. Again, we feel that we have been treated in an unfair and un-Christian manner by Dr. T. T. Shields (president of the board of trustees) at the convention by not allowing our representative a fair hearing. * * * We feel that Dr. Shields is not a gentleman worthy of the position he holds as an educator, due to his attitude."

The students said they would not return after June 4 "if Dr. T. T. Shields and Miss Edith Rebman (secretary of the board) are retained on the board of trustees and will discourage the attendance of other students as long as this pair remain on the board."

Meantime students were attending classes as usual.

Injunction to Be Attached.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 17 (A.P.).—Assured by Iowa executives that full protection of the law would be granted to trustees of Des Moines University in operating the school, Dr. Thomas T. Shields, chairman of the board, today launched a fight to regain the reins there. He and his colleagues now are barred by court injunction.

John W. Van Allen, Buffalo attorney, was requested by Dr. Shields to recommend counsel in Des Moines to begin court action for the removal of the injunction. Van Allen has already communicated with Iowa attorneys.

If the injunction is lifted, Dr. Shields said today, the university will not be closed. There will be a reorganization of the faculty, he said, but it may not necessarily include dismissal of all present members.

Dr. Shields declared he received recently from H. O. Meyer, of Los Angeles, one of the trustees, a letter written by Dr. Harry C. Wayman ousted as president of the school, with the entire faculty, by Dr. Shields.

Thought Wayman Quitting.

The letter, according to Dr. Shields, asked Mr. Myer to "open up a sphere of service" on the Pacific Coast. Dr. Shields said he interpreted this as an application for a position.

"It showed Dr. Wayman did not intend to remain at Des Moines, and was ready to quit before dismissal," he declared.

Miss Edith Rebman, secretary of the board of trustees, expressed herself as "very tired but very happy" at the result of the Baptist Bible Union convention, where delegates unanimously exonerated her and Dr. Shields of all charges against them.

"Everything came out as I expected," she declared.

Dean Earl Callaway, of the school, and Dr. Minor Stevens, a trustee, backers of President Wayman, left for Des Moines today.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

SLIGHTLY UNCONVINCING SALES TALKS.

(No. 1—The electric ice-box agent who formerly sold heating plants and automobiles.)

"Man, there isn't another ice box like this on the market. It's got everything. Quick on the pick-up, easy to handle and full of pep. I know there are other electric refrigerators, lots of 'em, but do they stand up? Are they just a one-year job? Have they got years of engineering knowledge and experience behind 'em? What you want is performance, ain't it? You want an ice box you can jump into and go places, don't you?

"Lissen; this is the very finest machine you can buy, and when you have this in your home you know you'll be satisfied. Anybody can operate it—your wife or your kiddies—and it's the kind of boiler they'll be proud to be seen in. Don't believe any of that stuff you hear about exorbitant costs. It costs more than coal, yes, but only a few dollars, but think of the inconveniences it eliminates! No more ashes to haul out, no more coal to shovel, no more wood to chop! You just set the thermostat to the number of miles you want to get per hour and what's the result? All the ice you want at any hour of the day or night, whether you use it for business or pleasure!

"What? Certainly it's a lot cheaper than natural gas—beg pardon—ice. And it does away with the ice man who was always dirtying up the kitchen. And there was a lot of waste. Where did most of your ice go? Huh? Up the chimney, of course. None of the power transmitted directly to the rear wheels where it did the most good, understand? You had to watch it all the time or you would get up some cold morning out on a lonely stretch of road far from any garage and find the fire out.

"Another thing about these new electric ice boxes is that they are absolutely odorless, due to the wonderful advances made in body building during the past year. America leads the world in this respect. They make your cellar look like your living room.

"Think of the convenience of going to bed at night with the thermostat so set that the heat will come on in the morning when you need it and fill the refrigerator with enough nice clean ice to carry you through the day in any kind of traffic and comfortably, too.

* * *

"It's comfort you want, isn't it? A good roomy refrigerator, well upholstered and with a firebox so big you can put your whole family into it any time you want!"

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

In adopting a motion picture policy, the Strand Theater is not so much inaugurating an innovation as it is reverting to type.

Ten or a dozen years ago, the Strand vied with the Columbia for the motion picture leadership of the National Capital, and, as the weeks passed, ran second no oftener than it ran first in the estimation of a public fast becoming screen-wise. Many of the foremost pictures of the day found their way to the screen first at the corner of Ninth and D streets—among them such giants of the war days as "The Beast of Berlin," "The Fall of the Romanoffs," "The Unbeliever," made largely with the cooperation of the Marine Corps at Quantico, temporarily converted into the battlefields of France; "Tarzan of the Apes," "The Whip" and innumerable others of the first rank, not forgetting the late Thomas H. Ince's "Civilization."

During the same period the Columbia, the only house on F street in active operation, was presenting the cream of the Famous Players-Lasky product, in which many of the outstanding stars of the legitimate stage were pictured.

The Rialto, Metropolitan and Palace all were in course of construction, and the fantastic notion that F street might some time supplant Ninth as the main artery of film theater traffic was only just beginning to take vague shape in the minds of the more farsighted of the game's observers.

So now the Strand again takes its place among the purveyors of the better sort of talkative celluloid, with "Molly and Me" announced as the first of its feature attractions, opening today. Belle Bennett, Joe E. Brown and Alberta Vaughn are the principal players in this Tiffany-Stahl sound picture, which is of a quality, incidentally, that by no means places the Strand at the bottom of the list of desirable places to go.

As was exclusively forecast in this column many weeks ago purely as a matter of personal conjecture, predicated on nothing more substantial than the signs of the times, big-time vaudeville is in imminent prospect as a part of the regular weekly program to be presented at the Fox Theater in this city.

The policy is already in vogue in New York, Brooklyn, Detroit and St. Louis, and the present plan is to add Washington to the route, so that the Fox units will follow approximately this sequence of bookings: Detroit to St. Louis; St. Louis to Philadelphia; Philadelphia to Washington; Washington to New York or Brooklyn, with the one not played first to follow.

It is understood that the screen policy of the Fox houses—and vaudeville is contemplated only for the more modern of the Fox theaters of large capacity in the key cities—will not be affected by the new arrangement, which is devised only to provide a higher average of stage acts to the cash customer and amplified bookings for the artists.

"They laughed when I said vaudeville was coming——."

Advice from the fluent typewriter of Mr. Ed A. Paul in New York apprises me that the Belgian government has officially approved the new full feature-length jungle motion picture, "Jango," made by Dr. Daniel Davenport, F. Z. S., in the Belgian Congo, and through the Belgian Ambassador in Washington has requested that the first showing of the film be before the Diplomatic Corps in this city—a request which, according to present intention, will be complied with at an early date.

Dr. Davenport made the picture under the joint sponsorship of the Belgian and British governments and was the sole white survivor of the expedition. "Jango," the first motion picture ever made in western central Africa, is now being synchronized, and when released for general exhibition will be presented as a road show attraction under the auspices of the Davenport-Quigley Expeditions, Inc.

William C. Ewing, known to the trade as "Bill," the gentleman in charge of advertising and publicity for the Stanley-Crandall Co., has just returned from a hurried visit to New York, where the high-pressure executives of the Warner Bros. establishment succeeded in getting him all hopped up over the manifold virtues of "Noah's Ark," one of their giant gestures for 1929.

The "Ark" is scheduled to open in this city at the Metropolitan Theater immediately following the engagement of "The Desert Song," now current. This will be the first presentation in the world of this mammoth spectacle of biblical and modern times at popular prices, June 15 having been set as the release date for all the rest of the country.

Dolores Costello, in private life—if a film star has any—Mrs. John Barrymore, leads a cast that includes George O'Brien, Noah Beery, Myrna Loy, Paul McAllister and a few thousand others.

Yes, the same Paul McAllister who played opposite Julia Dean with the old Columbia Stock Company.

Leon Brusiloff is back at the conductor's stand waving the baton at his Jazzmanians at the Fox, having slipped away last Sunday for a week's fishing in nearby streams, lakes, bays, backwaters, or what have you. Mr. Brusiloff reports that the skating was excellent and that only a little snow fell.

Well, if you must know, those robins out in the umbrella tree met with a catastrophe—accent on the first syllable.

Capital Woman Benefits.

Miss Catherine H. McLoughlin, 1012 Thirteenth street, will receive $500 of the estate of the late Mrs. Mary L. Daly, which has been filed for appraisal in the office of the New York State Transfer Department, according to information received here yesterday.

There have been showers within the last 24 hours in the upper lake region, the extreme upper Mississippi Valley, the Rocky Mountain and southern plateau regions, and from Texas and Oklahoma eastward to the South Atlantic coast. The temperature has fallen from the northern Rocky Mountain region eastward to the Lake Superior region, and it has risen from the lower Missouri and middle Mississippi Valleys eastward to the interior of the North Atlantic States.

The eastward advance of the western disturbance will be attended by showers over nearly all sections of the Mississippi River within the next 24 to 36 hours. The weather will remain generally fair Saturday, however, in southern New England and the northern portion of the Middle Atlantic States. The temperature will be somewhat higher Saturday in the Middle Atlantic States and southern New England, but cooler weather will again overspread the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, and the lower lake region during Sunday, and the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States Sunday afternoon or night

Malton Boyce Wins Approval in Recital

Chopin, Bach, Beethoven and Liszt Compositions Are on Program.

Malton Boyce, a concert pianist of more than usual ability, was heard in recital at the Masonic Auditorium last night in a program which won the approval of his audience. A group of Chopin compositions were particularly well done and displayed the virtuosity of the pianist to good advantage.

In the Bach group, which included three famous preludes and fugues of that master, a splendid singing tone was developed. Mr. Boyce's playing of "The Moonlight Sonata" by Beethoven was artistically done in all three movements.

The program maintained its high standard of both playing and selection to the close with two Liszt numbers, his "Liebestraum" and "La Campanella," which proved Mr. Boyce as well acquainted with that master as the other composers whose works appeared in the successful concert.

WOMAN SICK THREE YEARS

Helped By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Little Rock, Ark.—"I was sick for three years after my last baby came. I could hardly walk and could not eat nor sleep as I should because I was so nervous. I took seven bottles of the Vegetable Compound and used that number of bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and I am feeling just fine. I have a large family and do the work for all. Your Compound made me a well woman, and I have a happy home now. I always try to keep a bottle in the house and I tell everyone about it." Mrs. H. A. Adams, R. F. # DIVORCE IS DEBATED BY PRESBYTERIANS

CHAIRMEN ARE NAMED

Montreat, N. C., May 17 (A.P.).—Appointment of standing committees by the moderator, Dr. William Ray Dobyns, of Birmingham, Ala., and celebration of the sixty-eighth birthday of the moderator, occupied the attention of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States. Dr. Dobyns was eulogized by Dr. Charles Hemphill, of Louisville and after the assembly had risen in congratulation it was voted to present to him the gavel given the assembly last night in memory of the Rev. Samuel Lapley, the church's first missionary, as a birthday gift. Dr. Dobyns was elected at the afternoon session yesterday, the first moderator in seventeen years to be chosen without opposition.

The report of the committee considering the church's attitude on divorce was debated this afternoon. The majority report recommended that violation of the seventh commandment be recognized as the only ground for divorce. The minority, signed by Charles E. Diehl, recommended that violation of the seventh commandment "or its moral equivalent" be recognized, making brutality, willful and prolonged desertion and similar causes the "moral equivalent" of violation of the commandment.

Committee Chairmen Named.

Dr. Dobyns named chairmen of standing committees at today's session. They are: Bills and overtures—Dr. Harris E. Kirk, Baltimore; judicial business—the Rev T. C. Johnson, Richmond.

75 Overtures Received.

Seventy-five overtures from presbyteries throughout the South were presented and referred to a standing committee on overtures. These will be reported back to the assembly for action at a later session.

The report of the permanent committee on Reformation Sunday, signed by the Rev. James I. Vance, chairman, of Nashville, Tenn., was presented and adopted. The report recommended that sermons on Sunday, October 27, this year, be on the subject, "Are the issues of the reformation present-day issues in the religious life of Europe?" and that all ministers be asked to give their congregations opportunity to contribute on that day to Protestant relief in Europe.

Reports of five ad interim committees—on correspondence courses for ministers, closer relations with other branches of the Presbyterian Church, directory for worship and optional forms, divorce and on a survey of fields occupied by the Presbyterian Church in the United States, and the Presbyterian Church U. S. A.—were received and docketed for consideration later.

Radio Today To Describe Derby Race

Ace Announcers Will Participate in Nation-Wide Hook-up for Kentucky Classic—Mimic Warfare in Clouds Today.

Today will prove an eventful one in radio broadcasting circles. Chief among the unusual broadcasts will be a running description of the Kentucky Derby from Churchill Downs, Louisville, beginning at 5:30 o'clock, broadcast locally through Station WRC, and probably WMAL.

The National Broadcasting Co. will send the description of the race to a nation-wide audience through the eyes of a well-known trio: Credo Harris, managing director of WHAS, Louisville, who has probably witnessed more derbies than any other announcer; Clem McCarthy, a turf authority known throughout the United States, and Graham McNamee, most famous of all the "mike" men.

Microphones will be stationed at four strategic positions around the blue grass oval. One will be in the paddock, another at the starting post, and the two others at the finish line and at a point near the judges' stand.

Credo Harris, steeped in the lore of many derbies, will describe the scene in the paddock and follow the thoroughbreds to the track, where McNamee will take over the descriptive work. He will tell about the start and he and McCarthy will alternate at the microphone for the race, with McCarthy describing the finish.

Mimic warfare in the clouds, when U. S. Army bombers attempt to "destroy" the City of Cincinnati, will be described by eye-witnesses in one of the airplanes and broadcast through WRC at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The aerial attack on Cincinnati is scheduled as part of the sky maneuvers of the mimic warfare now in progress between "enemy" units of the United States Army. Giant bombers accompanied by a squadron of pursuit planes, will fly over the city this afternoon and attempt to penetrate the defense of other pursuit planes sent aloft to attack them.

Skirting the fringes of the battle will be an Army radio plane from which a description will be spoken into a specially constructed microphone, broadcast from a 400-kilocycle transmitter aboard the plane, and picked up by a specially constructed receiver, to be located at station WLW, Cincinnati, then routed on to the NBC system.

In the plane will be O. B. Hanson, manager of plant operation and engineering of the National Broadcasting Co., who is himself an aviator.

Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink will address a nation-wide radio audience on "Safety in the Home" as the fifth broadcast in the "Universal Safety Series," at 6:15 o'clock from WRC.

The General Electric Hour will be broadcast at 8 o'clock, as usual, immediately followed by the Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra, playing eighteen popular numbers.

Talks by Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President last fall, and Representative F. H. La Guardia, Republican, of New York, before a luncheon meeting of the League for Industrial Democracy will be broadcast from WRC at 12:30 o'clock.

"The Debenture Issue in Farm Relief" will be discussed from WMAL between 9 and 9:30 o'clock tonight by Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, affirmative, and Representative Franklin W. Fort, of New Jersey, supporting the Hoover plan.

Three dance orchestras will be heard, beginning at 9:30 o'clock, George Olsen's, King Covert Vagabonds and the Club Plaza.

Station WJSV will broadcast regular Saturday evening features, beginning at 8:30 o'clock with Plantation Echoes and concluding at 11:30 o'clock with Jean Trappe, the one-man band.

French Ingenuity Charms

FRENCH milliners have an ingenuity of workmanship that is almost uncanny. With a clever twist, they manage to transform the simplest hat into a chic model undeniably stamped their own. The newest tendency in millinery is the use of fabrics for hats, and such fabrics as jersey, serge and tweed-woven woolens emerge this season in some marvelously chic creations.

One Paris milliner shows typical French ingenuity. She herself has been troubled with neuralgia. Rather than merely acknowledge her malady, she has turned it into an asset. She has designed a series of convertible felt turbans for herself, models which on occasion may be simply draped to protect the back of her neck, and so smart are they that her patrons have adopted them as their smartest chapeaux! One of her versions of these hats is shown in two views at the top and left in the sketch. Lightweight felt is its material, and its front fold may be draped softly at each side or pulled tightly around and tied in a knot low at the back.

Another Paris milliner who has risen to stellar importance displays this same quality of ingenuity in the other hat, two views of which are shown, also, at the bottom and right of the illustration. It is, literally, a beret, with an unstiffened brim bound with grosgrain ribbon. It is made of a woolen fabric that closely resembles felt, but is actually softer. Its crown is worn slouched becomingly to one side, and it is one of the season's most successful model.

WORK ON BRIDGE

CONTRACT BRIDGE.

The opinion of Contract players being as sharply divided as it is on the merits of the Goulash, I should not want to be understood as either indorsing or discountenancing it. The Goulash is popular among those who use it, and it adds spice to an evening's play when it does not turn up too frequently. To play nothing but Goulash hands would be like spiced meat without the meat.

There are some, however, who do not find the ordinary run of Goulash hands weird enough to suit their Asiatic taste and insist upon adding a few artistic touches of their own. One of the methods by which an effort is made to out-Goulash the semilegal Goulash, is to have the players exchange cards with each other. After the deal and before the bidding takes place, each player exchanges three cards face down with the player on his right; then after the four players have assimilated their new cards, each exchanges three with the adversary on his left. Part three of the game of grab bag is then enacted by an exchange of four cards between partners. Then the bidding (possibly I should say the riot) starts.

This addition to the Goulash is variously called the "Chicago," the "Philadelphia," and the "Shift"; but there is no reason to blame the contract players of either of the cities named for this infantile addition to the game, as there is no evidence that it originated in either place, or is played in either any more than any other cities of the country. There may be two respectable opinions regarding the Goulash itself; but the Shift can not be taken seriously by any sound or expert player, it is too reminiscent of childhood, first or second.

Another variation in Goulash play will be described next Friday.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE MINISTER.

A minister is one who seeks
To lift the people of his flock
A bit above the common stock
To lead them to the mountain peaks;
Where far horizons can be seen

His critics cry: "He works for hire
And preaches but to earn his pay!
Visits the sick from day to day
And money is his one desire."
If this be true, I'd ask his foes
Why such a thankless task he chose?

Money in large amounts is paid
To business men and others who
Life's profitable tasks can do,
It is the one reward of trade.
If money was his only search
Why did he choose to serve the church?

There is an easier task to do;
An easier way to garner gold
Against the time when he is old
Than preaching truth to me and you.
We seek our fortunes, but he strives
To beautify our sordid lives.

Though some have fallen by the way
And some when tempted overmuch
Have let life's stains their garments touch,
I still give thanks to God today
That there are men who'll choose to be
His minister to you and me.

Radio Set To Be Given To Curtis

Manufacturers Association President to Present Official With Outfit at Capitol Ceremony Today. Cleaning Is Advised.

Maj. Herbert H. Frost, of New York, president of the Radio Manufacturers Association, will present Vice President Charles Curtis with the latest type of broadcast receiving set at the Capitol today. It has already been installed beside the Vice President's desk in his office, and is expected to be used by him to keep in touch with current events on the air during office hours whenever he finds time to listen in.

The set is a seven-tube Kolster of console type, with dynamic speaker and power amplifier of the latest model.

Maj. Frost will leave this afternoon for Chicago, where he will make the preliminary arrangements for the radio show to be staged by his organization June 3, at which the expected attendance will be 25,000 persons, notwithstanding the fact that the exhibition is open to the trade only.

The radio owner desiring to obtain best results from his receiver during the summer months will check up on his set at this time of year and apply to it the old-fashioned "housecleaning" method, it is advised in a recent bulletin of E. T. Cunningham, Inc., radio tube company.

Every set, they explain, will work better for an occasional inspection and cleaning, with particular emphasis being placed on seeing that all contacts are tight and clean and that tubes are at proper amplifying strength. Springtime, they add, is the logical time for an over-all inspection of this character, inasmuch as the coming summer months will find reception conditions least favorable.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS.

OLD PEOPLE AND HOMES.

MR. RODNEY BLANDON, Illinois, director of department of public welfare, recently drew attention to the modern tendency of old people to live in homes. In the pioneer days the great outstanding public need was for homes for children, most of which were orphan homes. That was in great part because of the short span of the average life and the hazards of primitive society. The average age of parents at death was so young that the children left behind had years of immaturity before them. Now what we roughly call the average span of human life is about 60 years, and that connotes few deaths of parents of young children on the one hand and large numbers of old folks on the other. This enormous increase in the ranks of the aged is increasing the demands placed on homes for the aged, and also, as Mr. Brandon has shown, on poorhouses, asylums and various other types of institutions.

This is not the occasion to discuss the ethics of the question. The tendency is a fact and, as such, we must accept it. When a great scientist was retired because of age, his scientific curiosity caused him to inquire about the new social group into which he had been graduated. Who are the aged? Why are the aged? How do they live? What do they think? What are their emotions? What are their capacities? What can they do? Are they happy? Or contented? How about their health? What are their sicknesses? Their habits? What do they eat? How do their organs give out? Or wear out? And what can be done about their ills, aches and disorders? He looked around for books from which he might gather information. He questioned people, and especially old people.

He came to the conclusion that we knew very little about the aged. We gave them but little thought. Few studies of them, individually or collectively, had been made. We knew but little about their economics, their habits, or their health. We hope that Mr. Brandon will not stop with a census of the aged, but will go forward in a study of them and of the many problems relating to them.

The longer life policy of the times will increase the size of the problem.

CONSTIPATION LARGELY HABIT.

F. A. B. writes:

1. What is a cure for chronic constipation?

2. Is sauer kraut juice any good for it?

3. I am starting to get a goiter. What can I do to stop it from growing any larger?

REPLY.

1. Constipation is a habit rather than a disease. Change your habits. Cultivate regularity. Drink more water. Start drinking when you get up. Eat bran foods, molasses, vegetables and fruits.

2. Yes.

3. See your physician. Have him decide what you need, if anything.

MOLE ON THE FACE.

C. A. M. writes: Is it possible to remove a small mole from the face? It is on my left cheek and is very annoying to me.

REPLY.

It is. It may be cut away.

THE HUMBLE SPUD.

K. W. writes: 1. What is the diet for a person for a very uric acid condition of the blood? What foods would counteract this acid?

2. Are grapefruit, lemons and oranges harmful to persons suffering from this condition?

3. Is acidophilus milk beneficial to one suffering from liver trouble?

REPLY.

1. The best food of all is the humble spud. Eat them freely. All forms of vegetables and fruits and milk foods are good. Uric acid conditions are rare.

2. No.

3. If by "liver trouble" you mean constipation, the answer is: Yes, fairly so.

Dah-ray INTERPRETS the MODE

A lamp shade is no longer just a lamp shade; it must express the personality of the room—and of the times. If you can't find exactly what you want, have a wood carver make the stand for you and make the shades yourself!

Clever Fingers is making up some new Dah-ray lamp shades.

HOW lamp shades have changed in the last 25 years! Do you remember? We do!

Your modern lamp shade is a thing of elegance and beauty, and is both a harmonious decoration and a part of the room. Lamp shades, too, must have a personality these days—a lamp shade must be of the type that belongs to the room in which it is used.

For example, the lamp shade suitable for a sitting room is nothing, not even the littlest bit, like one suited to a boudoir; kitchen lamp shades are not bathroom lamp shades, smoking room lamp shades are not music room lamp shades.

What types and personalities in lamp shades! Even so, even so. And if you think lightly of lamp shades as a decoration for your home, we invite you to employ some decorateur to "lamp-shade" your home for you!

• • • •

Why not be your own decorateur? Not merely to save money, but to assure yourself of having exactly what you want in each room—not to mention the fun you will have!

We have just finished making you an illustrated leaflet of lamp shade designs for every room in the house—bathroom, kitchen, studio, boudoir, &c.

Get your stamped, self-addressed envelope ready today to send to the Dare department of The Washington Post. Better do it now, for you may forget it next week!

We just can't rave too much about the loveliness and practicability of white for evening wear. Having just this minute sent to the dyer's a frock, which was originally white, was then dyed rose, and will now be dyed crimson, I have every reason to believe that eventually it will turn out black!

Remember that some of the most stunning color effects, especially the off shades that become color hits, are obtained by the couturiers by dyeing staple materials odd colors.

There's Time Yet!

Just time left in which to send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet that tells you how to make a lovely graduation frock, which turns into an afternoon frock when it is worn with a little jacquette! Hurry——!

Uncle Ray's Corner

A Little Saturday Talk.

DID YOU have fun trying to solve the puzzle last Saturday? Now I'll tell you how the Browns were able to get across the river.

First, the two boys, weighing together 150 pounds, crossed. One of them stayed on the other side, while his brother brought back the boat.

Then Mrs. Brown rowed across alone, and the boy who had been left on the other side came back with the boat.

Then the two boys went across again. One of them stayed across, and the other returned with the boat.

Then Mr. Brown crossed alone, and the boy on the other shore brought the boat back.

Then both boys crossed together, and one brought the boat back.

The boy took the dog on board, and made the last trip—so the whole party got across.

Here is a little trick which may not be hard for you to do. Put four pennies together so that each penny touches all three of the others. If that proves easy, try to do it with five pennies.

Three men—Anderson, Briggs and Carson—were in a boat one mile from shore, when a shot was fired on shore. Anderson only heard the report of the rifle. Briggs only saw the smoke. Carson only saw the splash of the bullet as it struck the water near the boat.

Can you tell which man in the boat first knew of the firing of the rifle? Who was the second to know it?

The answer is that Briggs knew it first, because sight is faster than sound or a bullet. Carson would know it second, because a rifle bullet travels about twice as fast as sound.

Would you like to have a copy of the leaflet, "Home Pastimes for Boys and Girls?" If so, drop me a line, inclosing a stamped envelope addressed to yourself. Address your letter to Uncle Ray, Editor of Uncle Ray's Corner, in care of this newspaper. Write plainly so that there may be no mistake in the mails. The leaflet is just one good-sized sheet, but it may give you some fun. Please be patient if it takes a week or two or you to get your reply.

Alaska to Propagate Bare-Necked Chickens

Clarion, Iowa, May 17.—L. E. Packard, a farmer living east of Rowan, makes a specialty of raising "turkens" and has shipped settings of the eggs to 41 out of the 48 States in the Union, but not until this week had he had an order for eggs outside the United States. He is shipping two settings of the eggs to Juneau, Alaska.

The "turken" was originally believed to be a cross between the bronze turkey and a Rhode Island chicken, but scientific investigation brought out the fact that it is a species of bare necked chicken.

Philippines Fear Rise In Ship Rates to U. S.

Manila, May 17 (A.P.).—Report that agitation for the extension of the American coastwise shipping law to the Philippines has been renewed in the United States has caused concern here among members of the Philippine Chamber of Commerce.

Application of the law to the islands would mean that foreign ships no longer could carry Philippine products from port to port in the Philippines or from the islands to the United States. It is feared that this would lead to a material increase in rates. A resolution opposing the change was adopted by the chamber and sent to Pedro Guevara, Resident Commissioner at Washington.

What Today Means to You

MAY 18

By MARY BLAKE.

"TAURUS."

If May 18 is your birthday, the best hours for you today are from 7 a. m. to 8:15 a. m., from 12 noon to 2 p. m. and from 7:45 p. m. to 9:15 p. m.; the danger periods are from 9:10 a. m. to 10 a. m., and from 3:30 p. m. to 5 p. m.

It is augured that today you will have good luck in furthering ambitions of the moment. Difficulties will be overcome through determination and energy. Speculations should be absolutely avoided, regardless of insidious temptations.

Children born today will naturally be very quiet, and their talents will be hidden behind a screen of shyness and reserve, almost impenetrable to strangers. They will be very affectionate, and will quickly react to the treatment given them by others. They will be too sensitive for their own good.

Your nature can be described as being rather heavy and solid. You plod along with extreme patience, unless you are roused by anger. You do not make up your mind easily, but once it is made up, you obstinately hang on to your decision, and usually accomplish your mission. Your powers of endurance are very strong, both physically and mentally, and you can stand considerable strain as long as your determination lasts.

You are rather slow to anger, but once your blood is roused, you do not know the meaning of the word surrender. You fight honorably and openly, but relentlessly. You are a very good friend, but a very bad enemy. You do not, however, hold your enmities for life, as you forgive at the slightest show of feeling or kindness.

You are extremely sociable, and one of those who are born to make delightful hosts or hostesses. You do not care for society in a stiff or formal way, but enjoy informal entertainments with your intimate friends and companions. If you are a woman, you are artistic in your home and you are a very capable manager of all the household details. You are very fond of dress, and pay considerable attention to your personal appearance. You are very jealous in your affections, and your jealousy often drives you into fits of temper.

Successful people born May 18:
John Pintard, philanthropist.
Ethan A. Hitchcock, soldier.
William Steinitz, chess player.
James McMillan, U. S. senator.
William T. Bull, physician.
James C. Hemphill, journalist.

THE RUT

—Many a man fails to attain success for the sole reason he gets into the rut and finds it the course of least resistance.

—You cannot stay in the rut and make any progress. Neither can you get ahead of the man in front, nor can you turn back.

—Don't let the other fellow set the pace for you.

—Get out onto the highway of life. You can travel as fast as you want, too, providing you follow the rules of the road.

—The rut of indifference and satisfaction deepens steadily by treading.

—Pull out of it before it is too late. An opportunity is waiting, though it may not be recognized easily.

—The scope of your ability is no longer than your aim; and success will be measured out to you accordingly.

CHEAP CALL MONEY FORCES PRICES UP

DAY'S NEWS FAVORABLE

New York, May 17 (A.P.).—Prices recovered in spirited fashion in a rather quiet session on the stock exchange today. While professional traders took advantage of comparatively cheap call money to drive shorts to cover. Continued uncertainty in the credit outlook discouraged large-scale operations and the day's transactions totalled but 3,333,640 shares.

Call money renewed at 8 per cent and was soon shaded to 6, but this was not very convincing, in view of the fact that money dropped to 6 last Friday, only to reach 15 a few days later. One theory expressed in banking circles was that money was being made cheap in order to induce the withdrawal of interior funds attracted by the recent high rates.

The rediscount situation remained highly perplexing. The Chicago Reserve Bank retained its 5 per cent rate, as the New York Bank did yesterday, but it was understood that in both cases the directors had favored a higher rate, only to have the proposals vetoed by the reserve officials in Washington While some traders regarded retention of the 5 per cent rate here as a bullish development, a number of both brokers and bankers have come to the conclusion that a rate in keeping with the open market rates would make for a healthier credit situation generally.

The day's news was again largely favorable. The weekly trade and business reviews pointed out that continued unseasonable weather in many sections still retarded retail trade, but that the high rate of activity in most basic industries was remarkably well maintained. Standard Oil of Indiana raised gasoline prices a full cent a gallon. Standard of New Jersey reported 1928 earnings of $4.43 a share, in contrast to only $1.52 in 1927, and President Teagle expressed optimism over the prospect of controlling production. Montgomery Ward estimated that 1929 sales will exceed $300,000,000, a gain of about 40 per cent over 1928.

Some of the high-priced issues soared from 10 to 18 points and a wide assortment of shares mounted from 2 to 5 points. Considerable profit taking had to be absorbed, however, and rather heavy selling just before the close, representing week-end realizing and uneasiness over the Chicago bank rate, reduced gains materially.

General Electric was again buoyant, reflecting continued rumors of a split-up and possible distribution of its holdings of Radio. It mounted about 14 points to a record price at 295 and closed at 289½. Auburn Auto again surged ahead with a gain of 18 points, taking it to a new peak at 254. The company reported record April sales, and Wall street unconfirmed gossip has it that the company is experimenting with an aviation motor and new automobile chassis of radical design.

Burroughs Adding Machine continued to soar as result of the proposed split-up, mounting about 17 points to a new top at 319. Sparks Withington mounted more than 12 and Otis Elevator 17 points. Marlin Rockwell reached a new high on reports of a merger with Timken Roller Bearing. Stromberg Carburetor also reached new high ground. Phillips Jones reached a new peak on rumors of a higher dividend and good earning.

Utilities made marked headway. American Water Works rising 6 points and District Edison 4 to record levels. Coppers improved, Anaconda selling up about 4 points at one time. Oils were firm, with Atlantic Refining, Houston and Beacon selling up a point or two.

Among the soft spots were Goodyear and International Telephone, which fell back more than 3 points, and Air Reduction, which dropped 5.

Commodities were featured by another break in wheat of 2½ to 3 cents a bushel. Selling was prompted by excellent weather and small export demand, and stop-loss orders were caught. Corn lost about 2 cents. Cotton moved up in sympathy with an upturn at Liverpool, but ran into profit taking and closed slightly lower.

Foreign exchanges were dull, with the gradual sag in sterling toward the gold point still apparent. Sterling cables touched $4.85 1-32.

OIL QUOTATIONS.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, May 17 (A.P.).—Wheat, corn and rye all plunged downward today to new record low prices this season, with wheat outdoing any depth reached in years. The day's maximum break in wheat values was 3¢ a bushel. One specially bearish factor was word that on top of present immense supplies of wheat, Canada's 1929 wheat acreage was in excess of last year's big total.

Wheat closed heavy at the day's lowest level, 2½@2¾c to 2¾c under yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1⅝c to 2¼c down, oats ¾c to 1c off and provisions unchanged to a setback of 12c.

Primarily today's breakdown of wheat prices came about through a nearly complete absence of new buying demand. Moderate selling pressure, chiefly from houses with Eastern connections, revealed early that the market was devoid of adequate support. This circumstance led quickly to a general rush to execute stop loss sales.

Taking the day as a whole, competition to sell in the wheat market was mainly between holders and at no time was there much evidence of power of rally displayed. Reports at hand were practically unanimous in telling of excellent crop prospects and of superabundant supplies already in sight. Moreover, transatlantic call today for North American wheat was slack and not expected to revive until after Tuesday, most European markets being closed meanwhile on account of Whitsuntide holidays. In particular, Germany's wheat needs were reported being filled from Argentina, where ample wheat was reported available to furnish good-sized shipments until as far ahead as the end of December.

Corn traders were stampeded by the action of wheat. They ignored prospects of less favorable weather, notably a forecast of showers and cooler temperatures, with frost looked for tonight in parts of the West. Oats and rye were also pulled down by wheat weakness.

RECORD FIELD OF 26 AWAITING START OF DERBY; GROVE HURLS MACKS TO 4-1 VICTORY OVER NATS

A's Ace Fans Nine to Win In Opener

Southpaw Is Effective in Pinches; Nats Have 13 Left.

Hadley Yields 3 Hits in 8 Innings; Marberry Wild.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post.)

THE Athletics tossed Robert Moses Grove at the Nats yesterday and Grove attended to details so faithfully in the delicate moments that the Athletics won the ball game quite easily. Between strikeouts, the Nats managed to outhit the opposition, seven hits to five, as has been their wont this season, but in the matter of runs they also followed precedent, yielding the advantage in this important respect, 4 to 1.

While the Nats were losing another ball game, with fourteen Washingtonians languishing on the bases, Grove was setting a precedent himself. Connie Mack tempted the fates yesterday by starting the lanky left-hander, who in the past has thrown more base hits at the Washington bats than any other pitcher in the league and boasted the unique record of never having lasted the route in any of his seventeen starts against the Nationals during his big league career. Grove owed Mack something for his sublime faith and he obliged Mr. Mack with a seven-hit performance dotted with masterful pitching in the pinches and supplemented by nine strikeouts, most of which were of the type called large and juicy.

Marberry Ineffective As Relief Pitcher.

Only the ineffectiveness of Fred Marberry in a relief role in the ninth inning robbed Master Grove of a classic 1-0 shutout because his associates on the Athletics found Marberry in a rare state of wildness and piled three more runs on top of the one that had loomed so large after the third inning. The Nats also scored in the ninth—one run—aided by some loose work in the Philadelphia infield.

Eastern Beats Tech, 15-7, For Title

Shapiro Slams Homer; Winners in Front From Start.

By GARRETT WATERS.

THE high school baseball series is settled for the year 1929. Yesterday at the Eastern Stadium before the largest and most enthusiastic crowd of the series the Eastern High School Nine proved beyond any shadow of doubt that it was the champion by defeating the Tech Nine in a hectic 15-to-7 game. The two teams were tied for first place, with yesterday's meeting the crucial test.

Pitcher Tack Ensor essayed to hurl Tech to the title. Ensor, however, was either too anxious to win himself or picked out a bad day to be a little off color as he was combed for twelve hits while he was on the mound. Spigel relieved him in the ninth in the midst of an Eastern rally, which saw the Lincoln Parkers tally seven runs to clinch the game.

Bud Hanna, starter of all of Eastern's past games in the series, toed the mound for that team and got by sensationally in view of the fact that he walked ten men and was in trouble in every inning. After Eastern collected its seven runs in the ninth, Coach Guyon used Bernie Phillips on the mound for safety sake. Phillips was unscored on despite the fact that he allowed a single by Brown and walked Wellens.

Shapiro's Homer With Mate On Base Features Game.

Although the score would indicate that the game was very one-sided, it was extremely close, due to rallies by both teams. It was not until the ninth that every one was sure that Eastern had won. The Lincoln Parkers, however, took a big lead in the first two innings by scoring two runs in each the first and second.

A home run by Shapiro with Zahn on base featured these drives. Tech got every one on edge by counting three times in the fourth, while Eastern got itself a big lead again by scoring four runs in the fifth. Tech once more got into the game in the eighth when Hanna was all but batted from the mound. Four runs were registered to bring the score within one run of Eastern, 8 to 7. The latter then sewed up things with its seven-run splurge in the ninth.

Cody Shapiro and Archie Ware came to life at bat in connecting for three out of five each, to lead for Eastern, while Arthur Zahn, pinch playing for Bill Edwards, the scholastically deficient shortstop, turned in a banner game afield and at bat. Zahn got two hits, as did Fisher and Snyder, teammates. Drissel, Spigel and Brown were the big timers at bat for Tech, all three with two hits.

Glenna Collett Bows, 3 and 1, To Miss Wethered in Finals

Henry Miller Service.

JOYCE WETHERED.

By FRANK H. KING
(Associated Press Staff Writer).

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 17 (A. P.).—Glenna Collett today demonstrated to Great Britain that there are two great woman golfers in the world. In the Anglo-American final of the British women's championship, the American was beaten three up and one to play by Joyce Wethered, but set a course record of 34 strokes for the first nine holes at St. Andrews, which is expected to hold for years.

By this spectacular start she gained a five-hole lead on the English girl, a brand new experience for Joyce. Never before had she been in such position in a championship golf match and only by a supreme effort was she able to wipe out this lead in the afternoon. She may remain the greatest woman golfer, but judged on today's play the margin of her golfing genius over that of Glenna Collett is very slight.

The American proved herself a sturdy fighter and had the fates that control golf balls been just a little kinder the American girl would have realized her ambition of winning the British title and taking it to her homeland for the first time.

"I am proud I was able to make it a good match," Miss Collett told the Associated Press tonight. "As a stylist, Joyce Wethered is as fine as Bobby Jones. She has the unruffled calm of Walter Hagen, the confidence of Gene Sarazen and the fighting spirit of Jess Sweetser."

Miss Collett sat with her mother beside a great boquet of red, white and blue flowers, presented by American students of ancient St. Andrews University, who, in their flowing red robes followed the fortunes of the Providence girl in the championship play throughout the week.

"It was great fun and I enjoyed it," said Miss Wethered.

"Never have I seen better driving than that of Miss Collett. Our match was played in two burst and was the most exciting I have ever taken part in. The long putt on the thirty-third which gave me a half saved me and I was two up and three to play, instead of one and three, which makes a great deal of difference.

"I could not find my putting touch on the slow greens this morning, but Miss Collett putted splendidly." The putt on the fifteenth green, the thirty-

Pitt Annexes Chevy Chase Tourney

Middle Atlantic Star Beats Moore, 2 Up, in Semifinals.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

HARRY C. PITT, of the Manor Club and Middle Atlantic golf champion, yesterday won the spring invitation tournament of the Chevy Chase Club, easily defeating Miller B. Stevinson, of the Columbia Club and District amateur champion, on the thirteenth green of the final 18-hole round, 6 and 5. By a curious coincidence Pitt and Stevinson were opposed to each other in the final round of the Chevy Chase tournament last year, when Pitt won by the margin of 4 up and 2 to play.

Pitt reached the final round by defeating W. Bion Moore, Beaver Dam, 3 and 1. He was 1 up at the turn, was 2 up when he won the eleventh, and although the match was squared at the fourteenth, he won the next three holes in succession in par figures.

Stevinson had more of an uphill battle against Page Hufty, champion of the Congressional Country Club, for the two players were all even at the turn. Hufty became 2 up by winning the tenth and eleventh holes, but Stevinson squared the match by winning the thirteenth in a birdie 2 and the fourteenth when Hufty took three putts.

Stevinson's 25-Foot Putt Eliminates Hufty.

With the fifteenth halved, Stevinson won the sixteenth after Hufty had played into the ditch, and the seventeenth when, after a remarkable recovery shot from a ditch on the right of the green, he ran down a 25-foot putt for a 4, Hufty missing a putt for a half that was not over 15 feet in length. This gave Stevinson the match, 2 and 1.

The playing during the final round was not of championship form. On the first hole Stevinson topped his sliced second shot into a trap, Pitt winning in a par 4. On the second hole Pitt, having hooked his drive into the seventeenth fairway, played a magnificent brassy shot to the green, but when Stevinson, who was short of the green on his second, pitched up to the cup and holed out in one putt, while Pitt took three putts, Stevinson squared the match.

The third hole was a comedy. Pitt sliced into the woods and was compelled to play out into the sixth fairway, whereupon Stevinson sliced in a trap with his second, was not out in his third and was over the green in his fourth. Pitt, who was on the green in 3, won the hole with a 5.

Stevinson lost the short fourth hole by taking three putts and the fifth hole by over-approaching the green, securing a fortunate half on the sixth by pitching up to the cup from off the green and going down in one putt. With the seventh halved in par 4s, the eighth was another tragedy for Stevinson. A fatal look-up landed his third shot in the trap, with his fourth away over the green, so that he lost the hole in a 7 to Pitt's 6. Stevinson won the ninth with a fine drive toward the green, while Pitt hooked over behind the trees. Pitt tried to play over the trees, missed the shot and holed out in 5 to Stevinson's 4. Pitt was still 3 up.

Match Ends on 13th With Stevinson's Drive Trapped.

The tenth was halved. On the eleventh Stevinson hooked his second shot into the deep rough, while Pitt, who had sliced his drive into the rough, played finely to the green and went down in two putts, winning the hole. On the twelfth Pitt's second left him an easy putt for a birdie 3, which he

(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 17 (A.P.).—A record field of 26 3-year-olds, pick of the East and West, North and South, was named today to start in the Kentucky Derby, which will be run tomorrow for the fifty-fifth time since Aristides, the "little red horse," first romped home a winner in 1875.

The field outnumbers by four the previous record, made last year when Reigh Count, flying the colors of Mrs. John D. Hertz, proved the best of an array of 22 thoroughbreds in the race through one mile and a quarter of mud.

Experts doubt that all those named actually will answer the bugle call to the post, somewhere around 5 p. m., central standard time, tomorrow. The weather will be a deciding factor and if the prediction of showers is fulfilled, thereby slowing up the track, as many as a half dozen horses may be scratched.

Rain or shine, however, fully 75,000 spectators, representing the chivalry and beauty, the wealth and fashion of the turf world, as well as official life and the racing citizenry-at-large, will throng Churchill Downs to get at least a fleeting glimpse of the big race for 3-year-old equine glory, prestige and gold.

On the basis of 26 starters, the financial harvest for the winner will amount to approximately $56,000 of the total stakes of $66,000.

Louisville Expects Record Crowd by Post Time.

Crowds at such an event as this are always a matter of guess work, but Louisville, its pulse stirred by the big advance jam today, feels confident it will play host to a record gathering for tomorrow's classic. More special trains than ever before have rolled into the yards from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Memphis, Atlanta, New Orleans and as many other points as you care to mention.

The fleet of private cars has simply staggered the boys who have tried to estimate how many millions in wealth and how much dazzling society or impressive position they represent. The conclusion is generally drawn that "they are all here" or will be by tomorrow.

The hotel keepers say they couldn't accommodate any more customers even by using shoe horns or dynamite.

Yanks Lose 5th in Row; Bow to Red Sox in 12th

New York, May 17 (A.P.).—Ed Morris outlasted Waite Hoyt in a brilliant twelve-inning pitching duel here today and the Boston Red Sox defeated the Yankees by 5 to 3. It was the fifth successive defeat for the world champions.

Bill Regan, who drove in Boston's tying run in the eighth with a single, broke up the game in the twelfth with a triple. Bigelow doubled with one out and Taitt drew an intentional pass. Reeves flied out, but Regan's three-base knock to center scored Bigelow and Taitt with the runs which decided the game.

U. S. Davis Cup Team Enters 2d Round as Canada Bows

MONTREAL, May 17 (U.P.).—The United States Davis Cup Team advanced to the second round of the American zone competition today when John Van Ryn, of East Orange, N. J., and John Hennessey, of Indianapolis defeated the Canadian Doubles Team of Dr. Jack Wright and Dr. Art Ham, 6—1, 6—1, 1—6, 6—2.

Today's victory gave the United States the necessary three matches out of five, Van Ryn and Hennessey having won their singles matches yesterday.

The United States will meet Japan in the second round at Washington, May 23, 24 and 25. The winner of the United States-Japan match will play the winner of the Mexico-Cuba match in the American zone final at Detroit, May 30, 31 and June 1.

With Hennessey in the starring role, the United States ran through the first two sets with the loss of only two games. The United States Team won the first five games in the first set before dropping one at 8—10, and then ran the set out in the seventh game. In the second set Van Ryn and Hennessey again won five in a row, lost one at love and then won the deciding seventh game without losing a point.

The Canadians rallied in the third set and succeeded in momentarily stemming the tide, but they could not cope with the American's blazing play in the final set. Wright and Ham won the first game in the fourth set, but the Americans won the next four before they lost another game. The United States Team then won the next two games to complete their triumph.

Wilmer Allison, of Fort Worth, Tex., and Fritz Mercur, of Bethlehem, Pa., defeated Willard Crocker and Marcel Rainville, of Canada, in an exhibition match, 6—4, 6—2.

TODAY'S A HOLIDAY AT HISTORIC CHURCHILL DOWNS

Derby, Biggest Turf Show, Awaited

Race, Most Colorful in World, First Run in 1875.

By CHARLES WATSON.

A GREAT caravan of racing enthusiasts has reached Kentucky, where Col. Matt J. Winn, the P. T. Barnum of the racing world today opens his greatest show on earth at the historic Churchill Downs course, the Kentucky Derby.

Although the Derby, recognized as the aristocrat of racing events, has been running for 53 years, the master showman still puts it over with a bang, and it remains the one big racing event in the hearts of all Kentuckians. To those who reside in Louisville it means what the inauguration does to Washingtonians and every year the ever-increasing horde of thoroughbred lovers receives the hospitality of the South when they visit the Blue Grass town.

Kaintuck has received the invaders. Col. Daniel E. O'Sullivan, resident manager of the Downs, is ready to act as master of ceremonies at Winn's establishment on this afternoon. Then, too, Gov. Flem D. Sampson will be among the brilliant assemblage, which has always been considered the most colorful to grace any racing strip, ready to give welcome to those who enter the State from all four points of the compass.

Hundreds of Special Trains Unloading Fans for Classic.

Today hundreds of special trains will have unloaded thousands of devotees of the sport of kings into the roadways leading to the Downs, all eager for the combat between the outstanding 3-year-olds of the United States.

Luxurious private cars, bedecked with toy balloons representing every color of the rainbow have already taken their places on the railroad sidings, four and five abreast, to lend a carnival setting to the event.

The forerunner of the big event has been a regular sideshow, made up of workouts of the Derby prospects who have splashed their way through the mud in an effort to show the spectators their real quality in a series of races between the contenders.

Guests of the hotels, which are overloaded from top to bottom have watched these contests but are still at a loss to pick the possible victor of the Derby. Over at the Brown Hotel, the roof garden at night becomes a playground for those who have attended the afternoon's preliminary races and love the thrill of the wee hours.

Churchill Downs is one of the oldest and most historic race tracks in the country. Here Col. Winn makes a setting for the Derby which is worthy of a master. There are spacious stands, ample room underneath for those who care to wager in the pari-mutuel machines, and a clubhouse exquisite in every sense of the word for those who care to mingle with the elite.

Looking over into the infield the spectator is amazed at its beauty. Numerous flower beds dot the well-kept lawns while gravel paths wind through from one side of the track to the other. Along these stride a number of coal black horses working in pairs and mounted by special officers clothed in black uniforms trimmed in gold. In the center of the park is a monster flag pole topped by an American flag, while down its corded supports run hundreds of streamers representing the colors of all American's racing stables.

For those who have never witnessed a Derby running the first great thrill comes after the running of the first race when two or three thousand race fans jump the back fence and swarm over into the infield while the 80,000 or more in the stands yell themselves into a frenzy.

After the first act of the big show the next thrill comes with the blast of the bugle which calls the Derby field to the post. A great cheer rings out over the well-gardened lawns from the seething mass and it never ceases until the victor has crossed the finish line to triumph in the greatest of all races.

There are some interesting facts in connection with the Derby. It has been run consecutively since 1875, the only event of its kind in the United States to run so long without a break. Its first winner was Aristides the "little red horse," a son of the imported Leamington. He was bred by Aristides Welch at Chestnut Hill, Pa., and won for his owner $2,850.

Only one foreign-bred horse ever won the Derby, Omar Khayyam, a son of Marco and Lisma, bred by the late Sir John Robinson. He defeated Ticket and Midway in the Derby of 1917.

Only one Derby winner ever sired a Derby winner. Halma, the son of Hanover that prevailed in 1895, was the sire of Maj. Thomas McDowell's Allan-a-Dale, winner in 1902.

Isaac Murphy, the "colored Archer" rode three Derby winners in Buchanan in 1884, Riley in 1890 and Kingman the year following. The only jockeys now riding that have ridden Derby winners are Alfred Johnson on Morvich in 1922 and Bubbling Over in 1926; Earle Sande on Zev in 1923 and Flying Ebony in 1924 and Tony McAtee on Whiskery in 1927. C. Lang who rode Reigh Count last year's winner, is now in England.

Only one filly ever earned a victory in the fifty-three years, Henry Payne Whitney's Regret, which carried off the honors in 1915.

The fastest time made in a Derby since it was reduced to the mile-and-quarter distance was made by Old Rosebud in 1914, 2:03 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ZURICH, $23.86, $11.90, $9.34; SPORTING LADY, $17.30, $9.34; WATCH ON, $3.72.

ZURICH gained steadily on outside first half mile and, taken to extreme outside through stretch, steadily wore leaders down. SPORTING LADY, a keen factor from start, but racing in close quarters, held on gamely in the drive, but could not withstand winner's challenge near end. WATCH ON raced MOSCOW into defeat after five-eighths, but tired badly when put to a drive. ROYAL OMAR, outrun to the turn, closed strongest of all. TYROL also closed a big gap from a slow beginning. MOSCOW raced wide throughout and had nothing left after reaching the main stretch.

SECOND RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For maiden 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 2:42. Off at 2:45. Winner, S. W. Klein's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—THEO ROCHESTER, $17.16, $11.84, $7.02; MABEL BASIL, $7.92, $5.22; ROYAL SPORT, $4.32.

THEO ROCHESTER, hard hustled from the start, took a slight lead immediately after the start, raced into a good lead on the turn, but began tiring badly near end and just lasted. MABEL BASIL, prominent throughout, responded gamely when taken to extreme outside, continued strongly, was rapidly gaining on winner last seventy yards. ROYAL SPORT, away well, but forced back on the turn, came again when clear and held on courageously. ON TRIAL suffered from lack of racing room and could never reach a contending position. ANTHA S. gave an even effort. VIEUX CARRE was forced wide for entire trip. PANKY quit after three-eighths.

THIRD RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:18. Off at 3:22. Winner, R. Goose's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GRENADIER GUARD, $3.30, $2.78, $2.34; BLIND HILLS, $3.46, $3.04; AMSTERDAM, $2.74.

GRENADIER GUARD raced as if much the best, was held under a stout restraint until reaching far turn and, taking command, drew far out to win with much in reserve. BLIND HILLS, slow to begin and far back for the first five-eighths, moved up strongly when hard urged through stretch and, although closing gamely, could never threaten winner. AMSTERDAM tired. ST. IGNATIUS had no excuses. RAY RUDDY moved up determinedly on far turn then began tiring. LILLYFIELD retired after first half mile.

FOURTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,500. The Watergap Hotel. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:57. Off at 4:00. Winner, Cold Stream Stud's ch. m. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BARBARA, $3.56, $2.38, $2.26; WOOD LORE, $2.52, $2.46; BUDDY BASIL, $2.50.

BARBARA, in close quarters to the far turn, was taken back and, going to the outside through stretch, got on even terms with WOOD LORE a sixteenth out to hold the latter safe in the final drive. WOOD LORE took command soon after start, held a good lead under pressure and, when seemingly done for, came again near end and just failed to get up. BUDDY BASIL worked way up steadily on inside, made a determined bid midway of the turn, but weakened badly when put to a drive. BLESSEFIELD showed a good effort. SUN GOD II was never a serious factor. MARDOON retired after reaching far turn.

FIFTH RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $2,500 added. The Debutante Stakes. For 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:34. Off at 4:36. Winner, H. P. Headley's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ALCIBIADES, $5.78, $3.46, $2.98; LUCILE, $3.70, $3.24; PANSY WALKER, $3.06.

ALCIBIADES, well up from the start, but forced wide most of the trip, responded gamely to punishment through the stretch and, holding on gamely, wore LUCILE down in last few strides. Latter took command at start, held away under steadying restraint and disposing of PANSY WALKER, held on gamely to the end. PANSY WALKER, much used up in forcing the pace, weakened badly when the test came. WILD DENISE, always in close quarters, could never improve position. STAR LASSIE went well. JALNA was outpaced.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $2,200. The Fountain Ferry Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:12. Off at 5:14. Winner, E. B. McLean's b. h. Two-dollar mutuels paid—JOCK, $3.26, $3.22, $2.52; BROADSIDE, $5.30, $3.44; RHINOCK, $3.18.

JOCK was rushed to the lead soon after start, held sway under steadying restraint and, responding gamely when threatened an eighth out, drew out decisively last sixteenth. BROADSIDE, always in closest pursuit of the winner, moved determinedly when straightened out in main stretch, but was not good enough. RHINOCK, outrun to the turn, closed with a good burst of speed on outside, but weakened badly last sixteenth. BROWN FLASH showed a good gap last quarter. FLAT IRON began tiring after three-quarters. FLY HAWK was always far back.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:49. Off at 5:50. Winner, Harned Bros.' b. g. FIRE UNDER, never far out of it, but forced wide when making his move on stretch turn, took command when straightened out and was never seriously threatened. MARGATE, sharply across on GRAND KING soon after start, raced to the front rounding the turn, but weakened badly when put to a drive. MADAM EMELIE suffered some early interference, slipped through on inside at head of stretch and finished gamely to overhaul MOLLIE MYHILL at end. Latter closed strongly after being far back most of the trip. GRAND KING faltered badly after making a game bid midway of the stretch. MODEL quit.

55TH RUNNING OF DERBY AWAITED

ters and at the picturesque Downs, the crowds swarmed today, buzzing of the race, the favorites, the latest time trials and the chances of this horse or that. Out of all the chatter, however, emerges the conviction that Blue Larkspur, star of the famous E. R. Bradley Stable, is the horse to beat; furthermore, that if any horse in the big field is to upset Kentucky's own favorite, it will be Clyde Van Dusen, gallant little Man o' War gelding, owned by H. P. Gardner, of Amsterdam, N. Y.

These two top the list. Blue Larkspur, favorite of the winter books as well as of the spring, is backed by approximate odds of 3 to 1, and Clyde Van Dusen is held second choice by the wagering men at about 5 to 1. By coincidence, the draw for positions today saw the names of these two favorites last out of the box. They are thus placed on the extreme outside, with the Dixiana Farm's Voltear occupying the No. 1 position at the pole. If the experts regard this as a disadvantage, at least it is an even break for the main choices.

There will be a real touch of drama to the bid of Blue Larkspur, for the homebred favorite, seeking a third Bradley triumph since 1921, will go to the post while his trainer, "Dick" Thompson, lies seriously ill in a hospital following an operation for appendicitis. Thompson was taken suddenly ill last Wednesday as he saw his charge brought to the peak of condition. Col. Bradley has scant hope of repeating his one-two triumphs of 1921 and 1926, but the chance at least exists, with Blue Larkspur's stable mate, Bay Beauty, in the field. The Derby favorite, however, was a half dozen lengths in front of Bay Beauty today after reeling off the best workout among the candidates, a five eighths "blow-out," in one minute flat.

Breezed over a similar distance, F. M. Grabner's Windy City was clocked in 1:01 4-5. Chafee Earl's highly regarded Far Western colt, Naishapur, winner of the Tia Juana Derby, was clocked in 1:02, while Clyde Van Dusen, under restraint, was timed in 1:03 1-5. Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt's Chicatie, one of the few outstanding Eastern contenders, clicked off a good half in 0:47 2-5.

So did Baron Long's Ervast, in 0:48 3-5, and Paul Bunyan, in 0:46 4-5.

The consensus of experts, while holding Blue Larkspur and Clyde Van Dusen most highly, nevertheless indicated strong backing for at least a half dozen other horses. Chief among them is Windy City, the Upset colt which may live up to the name of its sire, one-time victor over the renowned Man o' War. Likely also are held the chances of Naishapur, Voltear, Karl Eitel, which turned in sensational time in a workout this week, and Minotaur, second in the Preakness a week ago. Chip, owned by Mrs. E. L. Swikard, ran an impressive race at the Downs yesterday to earn a belated place in the Derby field.

RECORDS LIKELY TO FALL IN C CLUB MEET TODAY

350 Athletes Compete in Games

Milans and Edwards Expected to Set New Marks.

25 Schools Entered in Meet; Eastern Is Favorite.

WITH the smashing of two or more records in prospect, a large and brilliant field of competitors entered, and a strictly local fuss among Eastern, Tech and Central for the scoring honors, all that remains to make complete success of the eleventh annual "C" Club track and field games at Central Stadium today is the help of the weather man. The prediction last night was cloudy and possibly showers, but if the latter fail to be in evidence everybody concerned should experience an enjoyable afternoon. The first event will start at 1:30 o'clock.

Existing records in the mile run and high jump are likely to go by the boards, according to close followers of the scholastic track sport. Tom Nase, of Chester High, Centralia, Va., who set the present mark of 4 minutes 4 1-5 seconds for the mile in the 1928 meet, is expected to better his time today. Calvin Milans, Central captain, also is expected to excel his high jump record of 6 feet ½ inch. And if Capt. Jake Edwards, of Tech, is in fine fettle, the meet record for the 440-yard dash, 51 4-5 seconds, is quite likely to take a beating.

350 Athletes, Representing 25 Schools in Meet.

More than 350 athletes representing 25 schools from Maryland, Virginia and the District are scheduled to appear. Central, Devitt Tech and Episcopal will be striving for their second leg on the Cornell Alumni Cup, each having once won this trophy emblematic of the winning of a meet since 1924. In addition to the Cornell Cup, which must be won by the same team three times for permanent possession, the Emory Wilson Memorial Cup, donated by the "C" Club, will go to the highest scoring team.

One of the feature events for which several of the teams have been especially pointing will be the first "C" Club 1-mile relay for the Eugene Casey Cup. Of the local schools Tech is conceded the best chance of winning this race.

A merry scrap for scoring laurels will be staged by Eastern, Tech and Central of the local group. Western will be represented, but is not rated highly. Eastern carries the bulk of favor of the scholastic fans, although in some circles Tech has been picked to win. If Central tops the others in points it will be regarded a staggering upset, as the Blue and White so far has not displayed a well-balanced team, as have Eastern and Tech, although it has shown strength in several events.

Vice President Curtis Opens Legion Baseball Series Today

WHEN Vice President Charles Curtis throws out the first ball in the game between the Delano Post and George Washington Post Nines at Seat Pleasant today at 3 o'clock he will officially start the American Legion series throughout the United States, which will culminate in a little world series next fall.

Although the inaugural contest will be staged on a typical sandlot diamond, extensive plans have been made to welcome the Vice President. Harlan Wood, commander of the Department of the District of Columbia, and his staff will await Mr. Curtis at the Senate Office Building and escort him to the Seat Pleasant park, where he will be met by a committee of prominent persons of that section, including Representative Stephen Gambill, State Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer, Mayor Thomas Luckett, of Capitol Heights; J. C. Blackwell, clerk to the County Commissioners of Prince Georges County; Dr. H. C. Wright, G. M. Palmer, George Robinson and Clarence Mace.

Col. Erickson to Assist In Flag-Raising Ceremonies.

Prior to the Vice President's arrival a flag-raising ceremony will be held. Col. Hjalmar Erickson, president of the Capital City League, will raise the flag. The Boys Independent Band will head a procession of the opposing teams as well as members of the other five teams entered in the series. The members of the latter teams will be admitted to the game free of charge.

The two teams scheduled to meet today are considered prominent contenders for the local championship. The George Washington Post is represented by the North Capitol Street Savings Bank Nine and the Northeast Business Men's Association is assisting in sponsoring the Delano team. Francis Miller of the Delanos and Everett Russell of the George Washington Team are slated to do the pitching for their respective teams.

The Return Of OLD KING BRADY

Revived by MERLE W. HERSEY

(Copyright Protected Reproduction in Whole or in Part Prohibited.)

CHAPTER VII.

The Bradys Wind up the Dark Case From San Juan Hill.

"GIVE up your razors, you men!" cried Old King Brady, as he stood over the three darkies with a revolver in each hand.

"Go through them, Harry," he added. "And as for you, Mme. Gomier, you will stop that noise if you know when you are well off."

Instantly suppressing her cries, she asked, "Are you, or are you not, Old King Brady, the detective?"

"I am," said the old detective, as surprised at the correct English the woman used, as Alice had been.

"Then you are just the person I want to see," the negress said. "You can wait on me at your leisure. I will retire to my room."

"I'll be with you in one moment," said the old detective, "but kindly cage that snake of yours before I come. I have to settle with these friends of yours first."

"Don't harm them and they won't harm you." She spoke a few words in French.

"Hit's all right, boss," said one of the men. "What the queen says, goes. You are as safe here as you would be at home."

"All the same, we'll keep the razors and revolvers until we are leaving," replied the old detective.

They went upstairs, then. "First door yo' come to, sah!" called one of the darkies.

"Looks so."

The door was closed, so Old King Brady knocked on it.

"Come in, Mr. Brady!" called the queen, in a musical voice. Evidently Mme. Gomier knew how to handle herself.

The Bradys entered. The room was cheaply furnished, and very slovenly. Madame was seated in a rocking chair, with a broken back; the snake had disappeared.

"Sit down, gentlemen," said the Voodoo Queen. "May I ask to what I owe the honor of this visit?"

"You are Mme. Gomier, commonly known to New Yorkers as the Voodoo Queen?" asked Old King Brady.

"I am, but I want you to distinctly understand that I am no cheap-skate fortune teller, sir. I was educated in a convent on the island of San Domingo."

"I see you are an educated woman, madam."

"Yes. I am also a true clairvoyant. I have asked you a question. You don't have to answer. I can tell you just why you have come."

"Do so, then," replied the old detective, curious to see if she could make good.

"It is about the boy, Henry Rollman. Am I not right?"

"You certainly are."

"You have arrested Dr. Lambier. He has informed you where I was to be found. He has given you the papers he stole from Nicholas Mendies, the man he murdered. Is is not so?"

"It is true," cried the old detective, surprised at the knowledge which the woman displayed.

"Mr. Rufus Rollman is now in Boston; he has hired you to recover his little nephew in order that he may take him to Jamaica and restore him to his own. Is it not so?" continued the woman.

"It is so, madam. All true as you say," said the old detective. "Now let me do a little of your clairvoyant business: You kidnaped the child from Dr. Lambier, to whom you had previously sold him."

"It is true that I parted with the child for money," replied the queen, "but it was a matter of absolute necessity. I had to live. I placed the child with one whom I knew would treat him well. Was there anything very wrong in that?"

"No, madam, no. But the child? We are taking up your valuable time."

"Wait! Do not think I am going to restore little Henry to Rollman without pay. I expect money—at least $1,000."

"You will get it," promptly said the old detective, who wondered why she had not said five.

"In that case, I am ready to serve you. But," he added, "you may as well know that I have done you another service tonight."

"And what is that?"

"I saved the life of Miss Alice Montgomery, who, disguised as a man, intruded on our secret ceremonies."

"She is here?" cried Harry.

"She is," was the reply, "and she assured me that if I would give up the child I should be liberally dealt with."

"And so you shall, madam. Let us go to Miss Montgomery at once," said the old detective.

The Voodoo Queen rose and led the way to the garret.

"She is in there," she said, pointing to a door.

An Unpleasant Surprise.

Mme. Gomier unbolted the door and threw it open. The artist's model lay on the floor, moaning; the sofa was turned up on end.

"What is the matter here?" demanded the Voodoo Queen. "Where is Miss Montg mery?"

Old King Brady pointed to the sofa. "You see the road by which she went, Harry!" he exclaimed. "Let us follow. But wait! I must know where the child is before we leave."

"He is in a room in the old factory next door, in charge of the caretaker," Mme. Gomier replied.

"A colored man?"

"Yes. He is perfectly reliable. You need have no fears for the child's safety. I have known the man a long time—but, hush! She is trying to speak!"

Opening her eyes, Celia moaned, "Oh, they shot her! They shot her on the roof!"

This statement sent the Bradys scurrying up onto the roof. There was no dead detective lying there. "What can have become of her?" asked Harry.

Old King Brady pointed to the sashless window. "That's the only road by which she could have gone," he remarked.

"Then that's the road we travel!" cried Harry, making for the window.

Old King Brady looked down through the scuttle and called to Mme Gomier that they were going into the building next door.

"You will find the man on the floor below—his name is Sam Johnson. Tell him I sent you and there will be no trouble."

The Bradys went through into the factory, and hastily descended the stairs. The floor was just one large loft, save for the room partitioned off in the corner. The detectives hurried to it. They found the door bolted on the outside and wasted no time in opening it.

"Alice!" cried Harry, rushing in.

"Thank goodness you have come!" exclaimed Alice. "I thought it was my black jailer, a horrible man—you can come in, of course, Harry. Where is Old King Brady?"

"Right here, my dear," replied the old detective, throwing open the door.

"How did you ever find me out?" asked Alice.

Old King Brady explained. They hurriedly descended to the ground floor, where the voodoo queen had told them the child was being held. As they reached the floor a draught of cold air struck them. They saw the front door standing wide open. Near it, stretched upon the floor, lay the colored man.

"Is he dead?" cried Alice. "That's my jailer!"

"The child has been stolen again, surest thing," cried Alice.

"I'm afraid so," said the old detective, "and in that case it can be the work of but one person—Dr. Lambier." He added, "And yet I can scarcely believe it after all he said to me. When I parted with him you would have supposed he was my best friend."

"We want to get on the job at once," said Harry. "The doctor is playing for big stakes."

"I know it," said Old King Brady. "I forget nothing! We must get back to the steamer, but it must be by way of the police station. We need help, Alice. Is there any reason why we should arrest Madam Gomier?"

"She has treated me well enough, and there is none that I know of," she said. "But we ought to look for the child here first, for whoever killed Johnson may have killed the child, also."

"That's right," said the old detective. And they made a hurried examination. They found a room partitioned off, corresponding to the one above. The door stood wide open.

"It is as we feared," declared the old detective. "Dr. Lambier has used the information he got from me for his own purpose."

"Here come Julius!" cried Harry, just then.

"What am dis outfit? A dead nigger? Who done killed him?" Julius asked with natural curiosity.

"We don't know. Did you see anybody come out of here while you were watching?" asked Old King Brady.

"No, sah! not a soul, boss," replied Julius.

"Well, let us travel on," said the old detective. "I'll go to the station while the rest of you go on to Bridge street and look around." So they parted.

As Harry, Alice and Julius approached the foot of Bridge street they saw the ship.

On Board the Pelican Again.

"Why, they have got steam up!" exclaimed Harry. "Looks as though they were ready to sail right now."

"There seems to be a lot of men moving about on deck, and they are all dark, too," said Alice. "I wish Old King Brady would come. We can do nothing against that bunch alone."

"I think we ought to make a try for it, however, for they are certainly getting ready to sail," replied Harry. But he had no serious intentions of moving against such a bunch as was now plainly visible on the Pelican's deck. So they waited the arrival of Old King Brady and his reserves. At last they came. And none to soon.

Dr. Lambier was not visible, but the captain was busy on deck and preparations were advancing rapidly, when Old King Brady and a dozen officers, came charging down the street.

"Quick," cried Harry, hurrying to meet them. "They are just going to sail. Look at the bunch there is aboard."

"I suspected it," replied the old detective, "but I came with enough help to do the job."

They did it!

The charge up the gangplank was not a surprise, for the men saw them coming. Many jumped ashore and escaped, some of them were captured.

"I libel this steamer in the name of the United States of America!" cried Old King Brady, as the captain, a Scotchman, came bristling up, demanding the cause of the intrusion. He was promptly arrested. So was Dr. Lambier, who was found in the engine-room, where he was taking the place of the engineer.

The arms were discovered in the hold of the ship.

Dr. Lambier put up a big legal fight, but in the end he went to the electric chair for the murder of Mendies. He confessed to the killing of Sam Johnson, too.

Restored to his family, little Henry went to Jamaica. The child was so near white that no one would have suspected his ancestry.

Thus the Brady's won out, through promptness and persistency. They were never treated more liberally than they were by Mr. Rollman for their excellent work in the dark case from San Juan Hill. The voodoo queen got her thousand dollars and Celia Renaud received a handsome reward for her part in solving the case.

AVERAGES IN BONDS GAIN ON SENTIMENT

Standard Investment List Is Spotty; Convertibles Are Lower at Close.

RAIL SITUATION MIXED

New York, May 17 (A.P.).—The bond market dozed lazily again today, showing little disposition between its cat naps to rouse itself into activity. That sentiment was somewhat better, however, in view of easier conditions in call money and a strong stock market was apparent from the slight gain shown by the combined averages, which rose a tenth of a point against the prevailing losses of the week.

The standard investment list was spotty on light inquiry. Some of the best-grade rails and utilities finished fractionally higher, but there was nothing to indicate that prices had reached levels interesting to a public attracted to the fast-moving stock list.

Although convertibles bestirred themselves in the last hour, after a listless opening, the close found these popular issues at generally lower levels, although recessions were small. American Telephone convertible 4½s were most active of this group and were liberally offered, finishing off 1½, at 130, a new low. American I. G. Chemical 5½s and both issues of the Alleghany Corporation 5s yielded fractions, while International Telephone 4½s and Missouri Pacific 5½s showed a slight improvement.

The rails were mixed. Pennsylvania consolidated 4s, of which several issues are listed, sold off a point or more. Atchison, New York Central, Delaware & Hudson, and Louisville & Nashville securities were firm to stronger, while St. Louis & San Francisco, Erie, and Wabash listings inclined to weakness.

High-grade utilities reflected good buying, with interest centered chiefly in the Brooklyn Edison 6s and 5s, the Detroit Edison 5s and Pacific Gas & Electric 5s, all of which moved up. Seaboard adjustment 5s were active in the speculative rail division, but lost a large fraction on profit taking.

Several soft spots appeared among the oils, notably Transcontinental 6½s and Shell Union 5s, which were down a point, the former on a fair turnover. Weakness in the foreign sugars was again evident, Cuba Dominican 7½s, Cuba Cane convertible 7s and Vertientes 7s making new lows.

A number of minimums for the year appeared in the foreign list, but French and German republic issues closed the day for small fractional gains on fair buying.

POLICE CRACK SAFE TO SEIZE EVIDENCE IN RAID FOR LIQUOR

FIFTH PRISONER FREED ON GIVING $2,500 BOND

Caught in House, Where Still and Whisky Are Found in Basement.

Five men were arrested yesterday afternoon in two raids by the police liquor squad, during which a 200-gallon still and quantities of whisky, gin and mash were confiscated. Safe cracking, authorized by a warrant issued by United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage after the raid had been made, was resorted to in obtaining the liquor at one of the places.

The first raid was conducted at 1729 Corcoran street northwest, where a warm still was found in the basement, together with 24 gallons of rye whisky and 1,000 gallons of mash. Paul Frederick Roberts, 23 years old, was arrested on charges of illegal manufacture and possession.

From the Corcoran street address the liquor squad, led by Sergts. Richard J. Cox and O. J. Letterman, went to the Twentieth Street Auto Supply Co., 1161 Twentieth street northwest, where, on the second floor, they found an elaborately fitted drinking salon, equipped with an electrically controlled, reinforced door.

Liquor Locked in Safe.

The squad arrived as the door was being opened to admit a newcomer, who is believed to have warned of their approach, for when the officers entered they saw several bottles being put in the safe, the door of which was slammed and locked before the police could reach it.

Four of the men in the place—Bella Stephen Feeney, 43 years old, of 1201 Twentieth street northwest; William James Ryan, 35, of 1203 Twentieth street northwest; Paul Burriss, 33, of Forest Glen, Md., and Christian Schwitzer, 28, of apartment 12, 1423 B street northwest—admitted being employed there, but refused to open the safe for the policemen, the latter reported.

The four men were arrested, and while Sergt. Cox stood guard over them other members of the squad were sent to Commissioner Turnage's office to obtain a warrant to search the safe.

Policemen Crack Safe.

When they returned with the warrant the arrested men still refused to open the safe, and the officers worked on it with sledge hammers for nearly an hour before they succeeded in tearing out the back. They found eighteen half pints and two pints of red liquor and eighteen half-pints and four pints of gin.

Feeney, Ryan, Burriss and Schwitzer were taken to the Third Precinct Station and charged with illegal possession. Roberts, arrested in the Corcoran street raid, also was taken to the same station and later released on $2,500 bond.

Raiding officers charged that the automobile supply concern on Twentieth street was run as a blind for the upstairs "speak-easy."

The capture of the still at the Corcoran street address was the third made by the liquor squad this week.

Maj. Bandholtz Sued By Girl Auto Victim

Rose Kruger, of 2718 Woodley place northwest, yesterday sued Maj. Cleveland Hill Bandholtz, of 3006 Connecticut avenue northwest, for $15,000 damages in the District Supreme Court on charges of personal injuries.

The plaintiff, through Attorneys Harry J. Carroll and M. J. Evansha, stated she was waiting for a street car in a safety zone at Connecticut avenue and Woodley place when she was struck and injured by Maj. Bandholtz's automobile.

Dogs Ordered Muzzled For Four-Month Period

The District Commissioners yesterday made their annual compromise with Dr. William C. Fowler, District health officer, and ordered that dogs, not held on leash, must be substantially muzzled for four months, beginning June 1.

Dr. Fowler, as he has for years, recommended that dogs be muzzled throughout the year, but the Commissioners, as they have for years, cut the muzzling period down to four months. Fowler backed up his recommendation with figures showing that from July 1, 1928, to April 30, this year, 543 persons were bitten by dogs. Thirty dogs which were examined after biting persons were said to have been suffering from rabies.

JUSTICES INSPECT SUPREME COURT MODEL

Underwood & Underwood.

MODEL FOR COURT BUILDING IS VIEWED

GILBERT SUBMITS PLANS

The new home of the United States Supreme Court will be an imposing addition to Washington's public buildings, if plans submitted yesterday by Cass Gilbert, New York architect, are approved.

In order that members of the Supreme Court and leaders in Congress might get a better conception of his plans, Gilbert constructed a model of the proposed court building and placed it on exhibition in the Senate Office Building.

Chief Justice William Howard Taft and his colleagues on the Supreme Court bench viewed the model and appeared to be much impressed, and so did Senator Keyes (Republican), of New Hampshire, and Representative Elliott (Republican), of Indiana, who drafted the legislation for the new courthouse.

The plans which Mr. Gilbert submitted yesterday to David Lynn, architect of the Capitol, are preliminary, it was explained, and must be approved by the commission appointed to supervise construction of the new building.

Gilbert's plans call for a low-lying building of the Corinthian style, 385 feet east and west and 304 feet north and south. In the central part of the building would be the courtroom and the main conference room. Flanking this portion of the building would be two wings, containing smaller rooms. Between the wings and the central building would be four courtyards. The library would be on the second floor.

The principal structure on the site, which is just north of the Congressional Library, is the old Capitol Building, which for years has been the headquarters of the National Woman's Party.

Second Jones Law Sentence Imposed

Man Who Pleaded Guilty to Having Liquor Is Given Two-Year Term.

Pleading guilty to a charge of violating the Jones liquor law, William Brooks, colored, 29 years old, was sentenced to serve two years in prison and pay a $2,000 fine by Justice Frederick L. Siddons yesterday in criminal branch of the District Supreme Court.

The man was the second to be sentenced under the law. Justice Siddons a few weeks ago imposed the first sentence of two years and a $3,000 fine on Norman Goodwin, colored, who pleaded guilty. Brooks was eligible for the maximum penalty, having been convicted in "pre-Jones law" days of other dry law offenses.

Brooks was arrested April 21 by Policeman Ralph E. Burton, of the Eleventh Precinct, following a motor chase. The police found 60 gallons of liquor in the man's car. He was charged with transporting. Justice Siddons took under advisement a motion for a new trial for Raymond Hawkins, 32, and George Dodson, 28, both colored, the first men to be convicted by a jury on a Jones law charge.

Kenworthy, near Rising Sun, Md., on March 20, when their car was struck by another automobile, driven by Garland and owned by the Oakland Co. She said she was seriously hurt in the collision. ## City Official Asked To Define Begging

Director of Women Police Wants Bride to Decide, After Complaints.

Who is a beggar and when is a beggar begging are moot questions which Mrs. Mina C. Van Winkle, head of the Woman's Bureau of the Police Department, yesterday sought to have Corporation Counsel William W. Bride answer.

The efforts of Mrs. Van Winkle in the past to have various persons convicted in court under the District law forbidding begging on the streets have failed for one reason or another, the courts deciding that neither the operatives of the Woman's Bureau nor their blue-uniformed brethren had made out cases against the persons they accused.

There is nothing wrong with the existing law prohibiting begging, District legal officers have declared in the past, intimating that the failure to get convictions rested with the police and their inadequate evidence and not with the law. But the question has been raised again by the proprietors of some of the department stores, who insist that persons whom they charge are beggars detract from the charm of their store fronts and who want the police to do something about it. What will be done has not been determined.

Bride Seeks Freedom From Youth Jailed Here

Mrs. Atlee Marston McGivney, lodged in the Police Receiving Home, instituted suit for annulment of her marriage to Henry G. McGivney yesterday in the District Supreme Court. McGivney is in the District Jail awaiting trial on a charge of perjury in taking out the license for the marriage.

Through her counsel, F. Regis Noel and Thomas J. Walsh, the plaintiff declared she was only 17 years old when McGivney obtained the marriage license at the courthouse on May 6. They were married the same day, the girl stated, and she asked the court to void the marriage on the ground of false representation. McGivney, she said, deserted her immediately after the ceremony. He was arrested three hours after the marriage was performed.

Protest Suit Against Meter Deposits Fails

Upholding the Public Utilities Commission's recent order authorizing the telephone, gas and electric light companies to demand deposits before giving service to consumers, Justice Jennings Bailey, in the District Supreme Court yesterday dismissed a mandamus petition instituted against the commission by the Washington Consumers Guild and E. C. Riegel.

Appealing from the commission's order, Reigel declared the gas, telephone and electric light concerns had denied service to the Consumers Guild at its Jackson place northwest offices without a deposit. While his appeal was pending before the commission, Reigel instituted the court proceeding to force the commission's decision.

DRIVER IS HELD BY POLICE

The Taylor boy was run over when he fell under a wheel of an automobile truck, to the side of which he was hanging, in an alley between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets and North Carolina avenue and C street northeast. The right rear wheel of the truck ran over the boy's abdomen.

He was taken to Casualty Hospital by Alfred C. Smith, colored, 19 years old, of 22 Fourteenth street southeast, who was operating the truck for John A. MacKenzie, president of the Tolman Laundry and Carmack Dry Cleaning & Dyeing Co., Inc. Mrs. MacKenzie's machine was operated by her chauffeur, Burnett W. Davis, colored. Martin was taken to Children's Hospital and treated for a fracture of the thigh and bruises to the forehead. His condition is not thought to be serious.

The child was playing in front of her home when she was struck by the machine, which was operated by Walter Samuel Hurtt, of Riverdale, Md. Hurtt was arrested by police of the Fourth Precinct, but was later released in the custody of his attorney, Daniel S. Ring, pending the outcome of the girl's injuries.

MRS. HOOVER SEES THRILLING STUNTS MARK HORSE SHOW

WARFIELD FARMS FAR IN LEAD FOR TROPHY

Fine Weather Calls Out Big, Colorful Gallery; Children's Events This Morning.

Another colorful gallery, with Mrs. Herbert Hoover as the guest of honor, viewed the National Capital Horse Show Association's annual spring exhibition yesterday at Bradley Farms in a second day's program enlivened by breath-taking performances of mounts and riders.

An ideal afternoon brought an even larger crowd than the preceding day, occasional spills, but an otherwise smooth-running program, devoid of any delays, sustaining interest at high pitch to keep virtually every spectator at the show ring until the completion of the final event of the day at 6 o'clock. Both men and women riders were thrown when their horses in several instances balked suddenly at an obstacle. Minor bruises proved insufficient to force the withdrawal of any contestant.

The Warfield Farms, of Portchester, N. Y., again demonstrated superiority over the field by duplicating its achievement of the opening day in winning six ribbons. It bettered its previous record somewhat, however, by winning three firsts, a second and two thirds. This exceptional showing boosted Warfield Farms far out in front toward obtaining the silver medals to be donated by the Association of American Horse Shows to the exhibitor winning the greatest number of ribbons, regardless of color.

Trailing Warfield Farms, with its mark of twelve, come two other exhibitors, with six each. They include Bernard F. Gimbel, Philadelphia and New York department store head, registering also from Port Chester, N. Y., with a third and a fourth yesterday, after four ribbons Thursday, and Mrs. D. N. Lee, of Middleburg, Va., who, after scoring only a second place the initial day, rallied yesterday to take a blue ribbon and a string of four fourths.

The Third United States Cavalry, stationed at Fort Myer, Va.; Raymond H. Norton, of Washington, and Miss Alice C. Good, of Brooklyn, N. Y., followed in a tie, with five ribbons each. The soldiers garnered a first, a second, a third and a fourth yesterday, while Mr. Norton annexed one first and a second, and Miss Good registered a blue and two reds.

Side-Saddle Rider Winner.

Sharing attention among the skilled horsewomen with Miss Good was Miss Frances Farnsworth, a side-saddle rider from Montclair, N. J., who had given a series of scintillating performances in winning three consecutive blue ribbons yesterday, after taking the only event in which she was entered the preceding afternoon.

Her acquisition of four ribbons was equaled by entries of both Gen. William Mitchell, former head of the Air Corps, registering from Middleburg, Va., who added a second yesterday, and Maj. G. S. Patton, jr., connected with the office of chief of cavalry.

Mrs. Lee's Trolly won the first award of the afternoon in the suitable-to-become-hunters' class. Mr. Redman's His Elegance was second; Virginia Navarre, of the U. S. Remount, third, and Lena Mischa, owned by Miss Edith Nesbit, of Warrenton, Va., fourth.

In the troopers' mount event first award went to Marion, owned by Capt. Hiram E. Tuttle, U. S. A., who is a manager of the show. In order came Daisy, Charlie and Jasper, three horses assigned to the Third U. S. Cavalry at Fort Myer.

Mr. Norton's High Hat led the field in the green hunters class for 4-year-olds. Mr. Redman's His Elegance won the red ribbon, Warfield Farm's Lough Royal the yellow and Mrs. Lee's Trolly the white.

Warfield Farm's Lough Royal came back to win the event for middle weight hunters, followed in turn by Gen. Mitchell's entry, Alpheus H. Ryan's Shamrock and Mrs. Lee's Broken Glass.

Miss Good rode to victory in thoroughbred horses on Noble Roland Whizon, owned by D. B. Smith, of Warrenton, Va., finished second; Notari, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Carrico, of Washington, third, and Voller, of the Ridgeview Stables, Middleburg, Va., fourth.

Miss Farnsworth, on Blue Bell, led the road horses field. Sandy, of the Riding and Hunt Club, of Washington, took the red; Connie, ridden by Miss Mary Parker Corning, of Washington, clinched the yellow, and Reno, owned by Gen. B. F. Cheatham, of Washington, won the white.

Nine Other Events Held.

The nine other events follow:

Suitable to become hunters: Warfield Farm's Lough Royal, first; Gen. Cheatham's Robinson, second; the U. S. Remount's Virginia Navarre, third, and Mrs. Lee's You Win, fourth.

Triple bar for hunter or jumper: Third U. S. Cavalry's Tony, ridden by Lieut. J. W. Wofford, first; Pa Hale, owned by Fred M. King, of Washington, second; Maid of Afton, owned by John A. Massie, of Washington, third, and Mr. and Mrs. Carrico's Indian Guide, fourth.

SENATE GETS DALE RETIREMENT PLAN

Committee Reports Favorably on Bill for Third Time by Unanimous Vote.

WAGE MEASURE IS NEXT

The Dale retirement bill was favorably reported to the Senate yesterday, and the indications are that the Brookhart salary bill soon will follow it.

The Dale bill, which would liberalize the civil service retirement law, was favorably reported by unanimous vote of the members of the Senate civil service committee. It was the third time that the committee had approved the measure.

It is understood that the committee will hold another meeting within the next ten days for the purpose of considering the Brookhart bill. This measure, which has been approved twice before by the committee, is designed to correct the inequalities in the Welch salary act.

Under its terms those employes who received only a $60 raise under the Welch act would get a $120 raise, while those who got only $100 would receive a $200 raise. These higher raises are what Congress expected the low-paid employes to get when the Welch act was passed.

If the committee does take up the Brookhart bill it is virtually certain to make a favorable report on it for the members all approve of its terms. Moreover, they feel that if the provisions in this bill had been incorporated in the Welch act the inequalities and turmoil that have grown out of that act would have been forestalled.

Whether the Senate will vote on the Dale retirement bill at the special session is problematical. It all depends on whether the Senate leaders depart from the limited program that has been mapped out and permit other legislation to come up. If the program is broadened, Senator Dale (Republican), of Vermont, chairman of the civil service committee, will push the retirement bill.

World Zionist Head Boosts Cause Here

Dr. Sokolow Calls Zionism Moral Agency for Peace Move.

Holding up Zionism as a moral agency for world peace, Nahum Sokolow, of England, chairman of the World Zionist executive movement, last night urged Jews of Washington to support the United Palestine appeal in an address at the Sixth Street Synagogue.

"Out of Palestine a fresh spiritual life will develop to remodel the conscience of humanity," he said. "In Palestine we have a mission for the whole world. Zionism is not a colonization scheme alone. It is a revival. It has put heart into the downcast, it has made us proud of our tradition and unafraid of our destiny. It will save Judaism in a deeper sense."

An unusually large crowd heard the 70-year-old historian's impassioned plea for the Jewish homeland cause. Dr. Sokolow arrived here yesterday from Baltimore, where an impressive reception was held in his honor. During the course of the day he was received by the French Ambassador and at the Polish Legation.

Shakespeare Play Staged With Speed

American University Club Offers "Merchant of Venice" With Skill.

With colorful and elaborate costuming, but stage background of extreme simplicity and few changes, the American University Dramatic Club, under direction of Will Hutchins, professor of art, presented at the college gymnasium last night a swiftly moving and entertaining "Merchant of Venice."

A large and sympathetic audience apparently appreciated the elimination of long waits for change of scenery, as the Shakespeare drama sped through scene after scene without curtain. There were but two brief intermissions, before and after the courtroom scene.

W. Willis Delaplain turned in the most finished performance of the evening as Shylock. Miss Orrel Belle Claflin easily led the feminine contingent with her personable Portia, while Miss Sara Martz contributed the brightest bit of the show as Launcelot Gobbo. Clyde Williams was a disappointment as Antonio, but James Swan as Bassanio, Milton Crist as Gratiano and S. Carlton Ayers as Lorenzo were excellent. Helen Tucker was appealing as Jessica. Others worthy of mention included Delsie Appel in a short song as a singing page; Roland Rice, as the Prince of Morocco, and Laura Barret as Nerissa.

Ousted or on Strike, Bellboys Out of Jobs

Daniel J. O'Brien, president of the hotel company, said that the superintendent of service had deemed it necessary to discharge six bellboys. The bellboys said that eight of their number "walked out" in sympathy, when W. J. Mullen, the superintendent, discharged Russell Gray, one of their number, without justification.

Upon complaint that pork chops were served in her home by one of her daughters during the recent feast of Passover, Mrs. Minnie Hermann, an orthodox Jewish mother, of 3504 Runnymede place northwest, obtained a temporary injunction yesterday from Justice Peyton Gordon at the District Supreme Court, restoring to her the management of her household.

The suit was filed through Rudolph B. Behrend and E. P. Morey, attorneys, and directed against four of the mother's six children, Anna M. Hermann, Rosetta Hermann, Schley W. Hermann and Sadie Stern.

Mrs. Hermann declared she owned property and lived with her children on Georgia avenue until persuaded by them to sell and move to a better location. She said she received $25,017 from the sale and, unable to read or write English, permitted her daughter, Anna, to deposit the sum in her name.

The Runnymede property was purchased for $17,500 in the name of her daughter, she said, and the household was operated in accordance with Jewish custom until last January, when the daughter took over the household management. Not only did the daughter serve pork chops, the mother declared, but violated the Jewish regulations by serving other food than "matzos," which is a substitute for bread and required during the Passover. The mother asked the court to surrender the property to her and asked for a discovery and accounting of the money remaining from the sale of the former home.

Ever Eager Firemen Break In on Housewarming Party

E. M. Harding, of Monmouth County, N. J., who recently bought a home in Washington at 1628 Twenty-first street northwest, last night gave a party to a number of friends, celebrating his moving into the new residence.

The party was progressing nicely with the guests and the host well pleased despite the fact that all the furniture and fixtures were not yet in place.

Suddenly the doorbell rang. A maid, answering it, opened the door to find the portico filled with firemen, their helmets gleaming in the electric light, their hands full of axes and hose.

"Is it?" the maid exclaimed.

Then it developed that Mr. Harding had lighted a fire in one of the fireplaces of the new home, a policeman had seen sparks coming from the chimney, and the firemen had answered the alarm which the policeman turned in.

"They were uninvited guests, but they furnished the thrill of the evening," said Mr. Harding, after the firemen had departed.

Charles Henry Butler, Washington attorney, confronted a similar situation when he entertained dinner guests last night. The chimney of his home at 1535 I street northwest caught fire and an excited guest called the fire department.
